Declares Votes for Mitchel Will Hearten True Americans in War Crisis.

HILLQUIT IS DENOUNCED

ASSAILS THE 'SHADOW HUNS'

Asserts Voters Must Decide Whether America Is to Become a "Polyglot Boarding House."

Making his first speech in the Mayoralty campaign at the Harlem River Casino last night, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt took an audience of 3,000 enthusiastic men and women off their feet when, in closing, he said:

"I ask you to support Mr. Mitchel and his colleagues, because every vote that you cast for Mitchel means a vote that will hearten every true American in the United States, and because the man who votes against Mitchel will have the poor satisfaction of feeling that he has voted in a way that will give comfort to the Prussianized Germany that we are fighting at this moment."

There was also tremendous applause when, earlier in his speech, Colonel Roosevelt assailed Tammany and Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor. The Colonel was in his old-time form, and the big audience throughout his address laughed, cheered, shouted, waved American flags, and hissed those he attacked. At the first mention of Hillquit's name sone one shouted, "He's a traitor!" There was cheering and hissing, but the yells of approval drowned all other noise when the Colonel, in fighting attitude, asserted that the Socialist candidates "stands as an aid to the Prussianized autocracy of the Hohenzollers."

The Colonel was cheered again and again when he shouted:

"We ought to decide whether we have got a country or a polyglot boarding house!" More enthusiasm followed when he attacked William R. Hearst and Charles F. Murphy and referred to "shadow Huns" and "shadows of a shadow Hun," and again when he said that Judge Hylan was without a personality.

Colonel Roosevelt's Speech.

Colonel Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"Nothing could have pleased me more than to be introduced exactly as the Chairman introduced me, and I had asked that this should be the Chairman of my meeting, because I am in this campaign inasmuch as I do not regard it as a merely local campaign. Nothing that affects the greatest city in America can fail to be of vital interest to all Americans, and in this campaign this year we are to decide—I say 'we'—you are to decide whether we shall continue to regard, as for the first time in my lifetime we have for four years regarded New York as an example of wise, just, democratic municipal government, or whether we are to say that all that New York is capable of is an insurrection of virtue now and then.

"That is one point we have to decide, and the next point is whether New Yorkers are willing to vote as straight United States, as Americans, Americans straight out, and not as Americans of fifty-fifty variety, but Americans all through. [Applause.] And it is on these two issues that I come to speak to you tonight.

"First, from the standpoint of the municipal administration. I have been intimately acquainted with the life of New York City just as long as I can remember, and I state the exact truth when I say that not for half a century have we had any Mayor who has been as efficient and as upright in administering on the principles of straight-out democracy as this city government.

"Mr. Mitchel—John Purroy Mitchel—has really translated into action what for thirty years I have known as aspirations among those who wished well to this city. He has given us in very fact a democratic government—a government of, for, and by the people of the city. I speak of what I know when I say that Mayor Mitchel's first thought waking, his last thought before sleeping, has been how he could best use the City Government for the benefit of the average man, average woman, and average child in this city.

"I speak of what I know when I say that there were certain big interests who would have given John Mitchel the most remunerative private employment if he would have accepted it and abandoned the fight this year, and Mitchel, although a man of most moderate means, refused, because he has it in him, ingrained in his very marrow to try to render service to our people, because he has the vision that makes him understand that there can be no greater achievement than to devote oneself in very fact to making this city a better governed city, and the lot of the average man and the average woman a better lot.

Reviews Some Achievements.

"I shall not take time to go into the details of the city administration. I could. I could tell you of the reduction in the number of murders, as showing the efficiency of the Police Department. I could tell you about the reduction of the death-rate. I could show how under Mitchel we have actually begun to put into practice what as late as eighteen years ago, when I was Governor, I was sometimes called a Socialist and sometimes a Utopian for demanding.

"That is, for instance, giving relief to 4,000 widows, so that they could take care of their children in their homes and not be forced to send the children out into institutions, so that the

Pershing's Troops Capture First Prisoner, Mortally Wounded by Patrol; Another Escapes

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 29, (By the Associated Press.)—The first German prisoner of war taken by the American expeditionary forces died today in an American field hospital, having been shot when he encountered an American patrol in No Man's land in front of the American trenches.

The man, with another German, was discovered Saturday night by the patrol and was called on to halt. The Germans ran, the patrol fired, and one of the enemy was hit. The prisoner was treated at a dressing station and removed to a field hospital, where the combined efforts of several surgeons failed to save his life.

The prisoner was a mail carrier, and letters of some value were found on him. He explained his presence near the American trenches, saying he had lost his way in the dark.

The prisoner talked freely after reaching the hospital. He was a slight blond youth. From his cot he said in German:

"I was going from our trenches with the mail, following another man in the dark. We kept turning to the left when we should have kept turning to the right, and as a result encountered the patrol. The soldiers do not know you Americans are here, but the officers probably do. They tell us nothing.

"The German soldiers in the ranks are tired of the war and want it to end, but the officers want it to continue, as they are well paid. Our food is good, but we know nothing of conditions in the interior of Germany. Sometimes no mail is permitted to reach us for eight weeks at a time."

The American doctor who operated said that the prisoner was very game, despite his painful wound.

THOS. FORTUNE RYAN WEDS MRS. CUYLER

SURPRISE TO THE RELATIVES

Thomas Fortune Ryan, the noted financier of this city, and Mrs. Cornelius C. Cuyler, a prominent society woman of New York, were married at noon yesterday in Charlottesville, Va., in the chapel of the Holy Comforter, a Roman Catholic Church, by the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin. The ceremony was witnessed by Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, President of the University of Virginia, and Mrs. Alderman.

The marriage of Mr. Ryan and Mrs. Cuyler came as a great surprise to their relatives and friends here.

Mr. Ryan's first wife, who dispersed large sums to charity and endowed churches and hospitals, died on Oct. 17 at her country home at Suffern, N. Y.

Mrs. Cuyler's Third Marriage.

Mrs. Cuyler has been married twice before. Her first husband was James Brown Lord, an architect, and her second was Cornelius C. Cuyler, banker and President of the United States Mortgage Company of New York, who died in July eight years ago at Biarritz, France, as the result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. She has a son, J. Couper Lord, by her first husband, who married Miss Louise Trevor.

Mr. Ryan is 66 years old, and his bride is somewhat younger. She is a sister of Benjamin Nicoll, De Lancey Nicoll, and of Mrs. William H. Hoes, all of New York.

The plans for the marriage were made so quietly that none of the relatives here were aware of its having taken place until the formal announcement arrived yesterday. As far as could be learned last night, none of their families or friends even knew that they contemplated marriage.

Mrs. Cuyler has been visiting in Virginia, near Charlottesville, for the last two months, and was expected back at her town house, 26 East Fifty-fourth Street, this week. Mr. Ryan went down to his Virginia estate shortly after his first wife's death.

Much secrecy was thrown about the marriage at Charlottesville. It is said that the couple motored there from Oak Ridge, in Nelson County, thirty-two miles south, and drove directly to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Alderman, whom they asked to accompany them to the chapel, where the ceremony was performed. As soon as it was over they drove away, presumably returning to Oak Ridge. Afterward a formal announcement of the marriage was made by the Rev. Dr. Rankin.

Thomas F. Ryan's Career.

From a poor farmer lad, born in Nelson County, Va., on Oct. 17, 1851, Mr. Ryan became master of millions. He is a Director of a number of railroads and other corporations. He developed street railways in this city, Chicago and other cities, and has extensive holdings in Virginia, his native State. In 1905 he acquired a controlling interest in the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York.

He began his business career in 1868 in a Baltimore dry goods house, and shortly afterward entered Wall Street, where, in 1874, he became a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

In the Fall of 1873 he married Miss Ida M. Barry of Baltimore. For many years they occupied the old-fashioned mansion on the northwest corner of 12th Street and Fifth Avenue, which has recently been torn down. Several years ago Mr. Ryan erected a house at 858 Fifth Avenue, which has a private chapel and is filled with art treasures.

Mrs. Ryan's Benefactions.

The exact amount of the benefactions of Mr. Ryan's first wife will probably never be known outside of the immediate members of her family. She was

GERMANS ABANDON PETROGRAD DRIVE

ARMY ANARCHY IN CAPITAL

PETROGRAD, Oct. 29.—The German troops recently landed on the Werder peninsula, east of Moon Sound, at the head of the Gulf of Riga, have been withdrawn, the War Office announces. It had been supposed that the landing was to serve as the beginning of an advance on Petrograd. Werder Manor, the announcement says, was burned, and provisions on the peninsula were taken.

The War Office statement reads:

On all the fronts the fighting activity was limited to fusillades. In the Bystritsa region, in the Lamuntelu village sector, groups of Austrian soldiers, accompanied by their officers, approached our trenches and tried to fraternize. They were dispersed by our artillery.

Baltic Sea: There was no fighting activity in the Gulf of Finland, but trawlers have been busy.

On the night of Saturday the Germans left the Werder peninsula. Werder Manor had been burned and provisions had been stolen.

The officers of the Petrograd garrison met today to discuss the position of the Russian Army and adopted a resolution declaring that any authority on the part of its chiefs is virtually non-existent. The resolution says in part:

"The community, as it is at present, cannot defend Russia. On the contrary, the approach of Winter and the present subversive aspirations of the army and its lack of any sense of responsibility will complete the ruin of the country. * * * We do not renounce our duty, but in answering for ourselves we do not answer for our men. The time has come to make this declaration openly, so that nobody may be deceived or trust in delusions."

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Telegraphing from Petrograd, the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph quotes General Verkhovski, Minister of War, as rebuking "those who have talked of the disappearance of the Russian Army." The War Minister said that these persons had forgotten that the Russians hold on their front no less than 130 German divisions.

KAISER CALLS HERTLING IN CRISIS ON CABINET

Has Offered Bavarian Premier the Imperial Chancellorship, Berlin Paper Says.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—The Zeitung am Mittag of Berlin says the German Chancellorship has been offered to the Bavarian Premier, Count von Hertling, who has asked for time to consider the matter.

A dispatch received here from Berlin says that Count von Hertling has arrived in Berlin. The dispatch adds that he was received by Emperor William simultaneously with Dr. Michaelis, the Imperial Chancellor.

The resignation of Chancellor Michaelis was reported by Berlin newspapers last week, but no confirmation of the report has reached this country. At the time Dr. Michaelis was made Chancellor it was said the place had been offered to Count von Hertling and that he declined it, suggesting Dr. Michaelis.

Much attention was attracted by a visit made by Count von Hertling to Vienna last April for a discussion of peace prospects with Austro-Hungarian officials. After his return from Vienna the Bavarian Staats-Zeitung, personal organ of the Count, declared for a peace without indemnities. In an interview in a Hungarian paper the Count was quoted as expressing the conviction that the war would end by Fall.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The steamer on which were United States Senators John D. Kendrick of Wyoming and William S. Kenyon of Ohio and Representatives John J. Rogers of Massachusetts and James S. Parker of New York was attacked by a German submarine off the coast of Wales Saturday.

The gunners on the steamer opened fire immediately and the submarine submerged before having time to launch a torpedo.

At a dinner given at the Athenaeum Club tonight by the Lord High Chancellor, Sir R. B. Finlay, in honor of the American Senators and Representatives, the Chancellor confirmed the report of the attack on the liner.

The four legislators, who are to join other American Congressmen now here for visits to various points in the war area, were entertained at a luncheon in the House of Commons today by Ian Z. Malcolm, Unionist member for Croyden. The other guests included former Premier Balfour, the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Horace Plunkett, Lord Beresford, Sir Eric Drummond and Colonel John Buchan.

Mr. Balfour delivered a speech of welcome to the Congressmen. Congressman Dill replied by saying that while the visit of the Americans was unofficial, the party was in the war area to learn, and hoped to go back to the United States better equipped to be more helpful to the Allies.

HILLQUIT GIVES PRESIDENT ONLY DIVIDED LOYALTY

IDENTITY OF "MR. X." GIVEN

Dudley Field Malone Turns Out to be the Mysterious Convert, but He Stays Away from the Dinner.

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, declared last night that he stands behind President Wilson when he honestly believes the President is right, and only then.

Mr. Hillquit's public declaration was part of a categorical definition of his position with regard to the war before a gathering of well-known radicals in the Fifth Avenue Restaurant. It was elicited by a woman who interrupted him to demand:

"Mr. Hillquit, are you an American and do you back the President? Or do you want a German peace?"

While Mr. Hillquit tried to answer, amid a chorus of hisses and demands that the interrupter be ejected, the woman, who said she was Georgiana M. Owen of the Junior Patriots of America, cried some not quite distinguishable charge of Germanism at the speaker, asserted she would not remain to hear more of him, and withdrew.

The audience, made up of what one of the managers of the gathering described as "the highbrow elements of radicalism," leaned forward eagerly to hear what Mr. Hillquit would have to say.

For President if He's Right.

"I am not in favor of a German peace," he began. "Neither am I in favor of a British peace, or any peace which implies a subjugation, a humiliation, a punishment of any nation. I am sorry the lady has gone. I wanted to tell her that in this I do stand behind the President. A victory of arms, said our President, would mean terms of peace imposed upon the vanquished. It would lead to rancor and striving for vengeance. It would not be a peace on firm foundation but one founded on quicksand and would lead to more war.

"I am an American if that means a citizen who seeks for the greatest welfare of his country, of his fellow citizens."

Mr. Hillquit's voice had been gradually rising, his whole manner growing more intense, and he finished almost in a shriek.

"No profiteer can monopolize the word 'American' and identify it solely with the predatory interests, hurling it against the great masses of the American people. I stand behind the President when I honestly believe he is right and only then. I stand behind the people all the time. The lady has been answered. The lady has departed, but there are countless millions of your fellow men in all the fighting nations who expect an answer, not from the diplomats, not from the Government, but from the people, and that answer, my friends, the voters of the City of New York will give in loud and unmistakable tones on Nov. 6 next."

Wave Red Flags.

In the beginning Mr. Hillquit's audience, while cordial, had shown no such enthusiasm as has met his oratorical efforts on the east side, but as he wound up his peroration, men and women leaped to their feet, cheering and waving the little red flags with which many of them were decorated.

There seemed earlier to be less unanimity of sentiment, when the candidate asserted that after all the international issue was not the greatest of the campaign, since peace might come in a few months, while the Administration would be elected for four years.

"Bear in mind," he said in discussing the international issue, "that when we entered this war the peoples of Europe already were war-weary. Bear in mind, the peoples all over, as distinguished from the rulers were sick of the savagery and butchery and cruelty and wanted peace—a return to sanity and human reason, a chance to enjoy nature and to enjoy life. They were expecting peace month after month for the last year, and then suddenly we joined the world conflagration—the great fresh, unexhausted democracy of the West, we, the one power strong enough, fresh enough to be in position to determine the fate of mankind, whether a termination that would insure peace for all time or a peace without punishment or humiliation, that would emphasize the horrors and the inhumanity of this world war and would make another such war impossible.

Says He's Not a Millionaire.

"One of the greatest principles for which we fight is democracy, a real democracy. I tell you that is no democracy which says, 'Don't you fear, boys, your liberties have been taken away from you, but they are in good hands, and as soon as the war is over they will be taken off the shelf and handed back to you.' We Socialists want to make two points. The Constitution was made for all times, war times and peace times. A democracy which can be taken away from us for one second by any man or any group of men, however great or however wise, is no democracy at all."

"I want to make a frank confession that after all I am not a millionaire at all," said Mr. Hillquit in discussing the local issue of the campaign. "The great wealth I am said to possess unfortunately is all in the columns of the newspapers, and there it sticks. It is a hoax given out by my campaign man-

ALLIES PLEDGED TO AID

London Times Says Italy Has Been Assured of Fullest Assistance.

GENERAL SMUTS OPTIMISTIC

FRENCH FOR INSTANT HELP

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Times gives prominence to the following statement:

"There is reason to believe that the critical situation on the Italian front has received and is receiving prompt and sympathetic consideration from the French and British Governments. Though, in the nature of things, no positive announcement can made, it is understood that the Italian Commander in Chief already knows he may rely upon the promptest and fullest support which it may be in the power of the allies of Italy to give."

The Daily Sketch says:

"The German threat to Italy is closely bound up with the question of our war strategy and the effectiveness of the higher command. It is an open secret that the Prime Minister, perceiving the possibility of concentration against Italy, was in favor some months ago of sending further substantial military assistance to our ally, but the military view prevailed that we could best help by an effort on the western front. While Parliament does not attempt and would be unwise to dictate strategy, it cannot be altogether indifferent to these grave matters. The Italian reverse will probably force them to the front."

Press Urges Haste to Help.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—That Great Britain and France must go promptly to Italy's help is the view expressed by several morning newspapers. The Times, which prints a statement implying knowledge that such help is contemplated, says editorially:

"Our word to the people of Italy is to stand firm, for help will surely come. * * * Italy must not and will not be deprived of the fruits of the ultimate victory for which she has battled so long and so arduously. * * * In the truest sense the Isonzo is our front as much as the Somme, and now that it has collapsed we must do our utmost without delay to repair it. There is no need for alarm, but there is the utmost need for promptitude and broadness of vision."

The Daily Chronicle, taking a similar view, says it ought to be possible to have British or French divisions, or both in North Italy in a very short time. The Daily News, on the other hand, while holding it incumbent on the Allies to consider how best to succor Italy, thinks it is impossible to send direct relief on the scale the situation demands.

While all the newspapers recognize the gravity of Italy's peril, strong confidence is expressed in General Cadorna and the Italian Army, with the conviction that they ultimately will emerge victorious. Italian perseverance and successes of the past are recalled with warm admiration, and the weakness of some links in the defensive chain is condoned. The Times says:

"The troops so suddenly and fiercely tried may well have blanched. The gallant Italian Army has proved its courage and devotion so often in this war that a single unfortunate episode leaves no stain on its honor."

The Pall Mall Gazette, referring to the fact that the Entente Allies have taken steps to send assistance to the Italians, says it is recalled that some months ago an appeal was made by Italy for guns. The newspaper adds that this appeal was strongly supported by Premier Lloyd George, but at the time the exigencies of the campaign on the western front, which was then opening, rendered full compliance impossible, as the War Office and the Generals at the front were making demands for guns which it was impossible to resist.

Smuts Says Germany Can't Win.

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 29.—Speaking in regard to the Italian situation here today, General Smuts, the former South African Commander, said:

"Germany sees America rushing in with tremendous weight. Therefore she is trying to dodge the issue and catch some advantage in a minor theatre of war. It will not help her. It will only prolong the war a few months. The issue is no longer in doubt.

"The German offensive against Italy is a repetition of the history of previous Autumns. You remember the first Autumn of the war, when Germany crushed Serbia. She had to offer her people some encouragement to go through the Winter on, and, as with Salomé and John the Baptist, she brought the head of Serbia on a platter. In the Autumn of 1916 she brought Rumania's head on a platter, and now we see the onslaught against Italy.

"Italy's position is serious, but not discouraging. Italy already knows that the Allies will stand by her to the end. We shall not see her head on a platter. I shall not be surprised to see the boomerang come back on the Germans. The war was not decided in Serbia nor Rumania and will not be decided in Italy.

"In the principal theatre of the war

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—General Cadorna's reference to the failure of the Second Army is supplemented by the following dispatch, dated Friday evening, from Ward Price, the British correspondent with the Italian Army:

"What has happened is that the enemy has overwhelmed a single army corps—the Italian Second Army—and forced its way into the gap thus formed. That breach in the Italian line is rendering necessary the evacuation of the Bainsizza Plateau.

"The first German attack against the left wing of the Second Army was made formidable by much use of a special gas, to which the Italian troops are not accustomed. This took some of the men by surprise. Moreover, they were attacked in a drenching rain and mist under the most depressing conditions.

"The gas attack was followed by a tremendously heavy bombardment by all sorts of new batteries, whose presence was entirely unknown, as they had not even registered. They used ranges already registered by guns there previously. This terrific fire broke the Italian resistance and opened the way for the advance.

"Of course, a certain number of guns have been lost, though not so many as the Germans will doubtless claim. You cannot get big guns away from mountain positions, and the batteries were fought gallantly to the last."

MAY FORCE US TO WAR ON AUSTRIA

HER PLEAS ARE RECALLED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The great German victory over the Italian armies has brought the United States Government to a realization of the dangers to the entire allied cause involved in the German and Austrian advance into Italy. Little else was talked of in Washington today. But inquiry failed to reveal that this Government is giving consideration to the matter of joining Italy in war against Austria in order that it may be in a position to do its share toward bringing an end to the Teutonic autocracy.

There was a time not far in the past when officials of the United States discussed the attitude this Government should display toward Austria as an enemy of the countries that were joined with America in the common effort to make the world safe for democracy. Diplomatic relations between the United States and Austria-Hungary have been broken, but the two Governments are not at war, and nothing definite has occurred to change the situation that prevailed at the time when President Wilson felt that it was incumbent, in order to maintain the national dignity, to sever intercourse with the dual monarchy. This Government realizes that Austria is its enemy, but for its own purposes, not entirely explained, has refrained from taking the step that will put the United States and Austria on terms of actual hostilities.

A serious clash occurred between the Washington and Vienna Governments over the sinking of the steamship Ancona without warning, presumably by an Austrian submarine. The Vienna Government, when called on for an explanation, made suitable expression of regret and gave the pledge, which Germany gave and deliberately broke, that merchant vessels would not be sunk without warning or without giving those on board a chance to escape to places of safety. Since then, according to what was said in official circles today, there has been no direct evidence that Austrian submarines had sunk merchant vessels in violation of the rules of civilized warfare. The Government was convinced that the Ancona was torpedoed by a German and not by an Austrian submarine, but Germany, in order to prevent the chance of war with the United States at that time over the Ancona incident, induced or compelled Austria to admit that she was responsible for the violation.

Must Wait for Congress.

But wider and more momentous considerations now confront the Government with reference to Austria. Germany, the common enemy of the United States and Italy, is doing the work that has brought about the Italian defeat. This victory is a blow affecting the United States as one of the nation's engaged in seeking to prevent Germany from ruling the world. That the situation will be considered in that light is not doubted here, although there is no evidence that the matter has been taken up by the President and his advisers.

The opinion prevails that decision will be held in abeyance until just before Congress meets in December, as it will be necessary to obtain the direct sanction of Congress to enable the United States to enter into a state of war with the Vienna Government.

As the matter stands now, the hands of this Government are tied in its desire to afford military assistance to Italy. It has furnished money to the Italian Government, and has otherwise showed itself to be an ally. Austria has not made the point that these acts are unneutral or indicated a disposition to force the issue of whether the United States is at peace or war with the Dual Monarchy. There the matter stands, but it is felt that the exigencies of the Italian situation may compel the United States to take an active part in the Italian campaign, and it would not be surprising to observers in Washington if the President was prepared to act when Congress reassembles five weeks from today.

"We are in the war and we are going through with it to the end," said an official today in commenting on the aspect given to the military situation in Europe by the German victory. He meant by this, as his conversation indicated, that, no matter what additional victories Germany gained, there could be no backward step by the United States, which would feel compelled to fight on until German autocracy was defeated, without regard to the sacrifice of men and money. That is he spirit that prevails throughout the Govern-

ITALY'S SALVATION IS TO GAIN TIME

WARNING OF BLOW GIVEN

Came to The Times Six Weeks Ago—Disaster to Bring Evidence of Greater Allied Unity.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Perhaps in the light of the latest news from Italy the Allies will now come to a realization that henceforth there can be only one front and one enemy. Perhaps America may now better understand that she is really at war against Austria, Turkey, and Bulgaria as well as Germany.

The present hour is grave. It is folly to minimize the importance of Mackensen's drive. The pity of it all is that it should ever have begun. Six weeks ago I cabled to THE TIMES from the Italian field headquarters that the hour had struck when both Germany and Austria were riveting their attention on the Italian front. I added: "If Italy's allies don't"—well, then I may be permitted to cable an inadequate expression—"it's a pity."

Since yesterday the French Cabinet has been in session considering the situation. I am not permitted to tell the result of its deliberations, but I can affirm definitely that a decision has been reached which will demonstrate allied unity in the future more than in the past.

The one thing certain is that the German Army now operating in Italy has come entirely from Russia and Rumania and there have been no withdrawals from the French front. This makes the situation still more serious for it brings no diminution of the difficulties in the way of the Anglo-French counteroffensive. It is now also certain that Germany is attempting to beat Italy out of the war before America can get in after the same fashion she attempted to beat France down at Verdun while England was still preparing.

The present offensive has been a masterpiece of organization, strategy, and surprise—although the handwriting was on the wall for all the world to read.

The great need at present is time. The old saying that time works for the Allies has been worked overtime, but in this case it is true. If Italy can hold on to either the defensive lines of the Tagliamento or Piavo Rivers, France and England may be able to save her.

If time does not immediately aid the Allies their only remedy will be the Americans—not by divisions, but by armies. The United States must do more than make the world safe for democracy. She must jump into the widening breach and save civilization. She must do it today—tomorrow may be too late.

AUSTRIA'S PEACE HOPES HIGH.

Raised by Isonzo Victory, the President of the Reichsrat Says.

ZURICH, Oct. 29.—Austrian hopes of a "speedy and honorable peace" have been raised by the Austro-German successes on the Italian front, the President of the Reichsrat said in an address to the Deputies, as quoted in Vienna dispatches. He admitted there had been great anxiety in regard to Triest, which had now been removed.

The report of the proceedings in Parliament adds that the German and Polish Deputies arose and cheered the Emperor and the army, implying that the Czechs did not join in the demonstration.

The safety of Triest seems to be the chief cause of rejoicing in Austria. The Neue Freie Presse of Vienna says that ever since Italy declared war the monarchy has not ceased to be anxious for that city. It speculates as to whether British and French influence will prove strong enough to prevent the collapse of Italy's war policy, or whether the mass of the population, recognizing the seriousness of the situation, will become convinced that peace is necessary.

NORTHERN LINES YIELDING

Berlin Claims Gains on a Broad Sector Extending to Ploecken Pass.

CHECKING FOES, ROME SAYS

BERLIN, Oct. 29, (via London.)—The Austro-German troops invading Northern Italy are standing before Udine, where the main Italian Headquarters have been located, according to today's Army Headquarters announcement.

The Third Italian Army made a brief resistance to the advancing Teutonic forces from the Wippach (Vippaco) River to the Adriatic. This army is now in retreat along the Adriatic coast.

Cormons [an Austrian town seven miles west of Gorizia] has been captured, and the Austro-German troops are approaching the frontier of the Italian coast region.

The number of prisoners is increasing.

The Italian front is yielding north of the broad sector which was pierced in the Teutonic attack, the weakening extending as far as Ploecken Pass. [In the Carnic Alps, on the frontier north of Tolmezzo.]

The entire Italian Isonzo front has collapsed, the statement adds. The Second Italian Army is retreating toward the Tagliamento. All the roads are covered with columns in disorderly retreat, the crowds comprising both soldiers and civil population.

Gen. Otto von Below Commanding.

The successes attained by the rapid attack of German and Austrian-Hungarian divisions under General Otto von Below, due to the high-rising offensive spirit of the troops, has brought about a collapse of the whole Ietalian about a collapse of the whole Italian Isonzo front.

The defeated Second Italian Army is retreating toward the Tagliamento. The Third Italian Army offered only brief resistance to our attack against their positions from Wippach to the sea and is hastily retreating along the Adriatic Coast.

North of the broad sector which has been pierced the Italian front also is yielding as far as the Ploecken Pass.

Hostile rearguards thus far vainly have endeavored to stem the impetuous advance of the armies of the Central Powers.

Austro-Hungarian divisions have captured Cormons, and are approaching the frontier in the coastal region.

All roads are covered with disorderly retreating columns and cars belonging to the Italian Army and to the Italian population.

The number of prisoners and the quantity of booty are continually increasing.

Violent tempests and heavy rains have prevailed on the vast fighting area of the twelfth Isonzo battle.

The supplementary report issued tonight says only:

Checking Invaders, Rome Says.

ROME, Oct. 29.—The Italians are checking the advance of the Austro-German troops into the plains of northern Italy, the War Office announces, the statement adding that the troops are fulfilling their duty, and that all movements ordered by the General Staff are being carried out. The text of the announcement follows:

All movements ordered by the General Staff are being carried out quite regularly, and the troops which are opposing the enemy are fulfilling their duty by keeping in check his advance into the plains

Amends "Cowardice" Report.

ROME, Sunday, Oct. 28, (Delayed.)—The Italian War Office has issued an amended version of the official statement on operations issued early today. As amended, the first sentence of the announcement reads:

The violence of the attack and the failure to resist on the part of some units forming our Second Army allowed the Austro-German forces to break into our left wing on the Julian front.

This version eliminates the words "which in cowardice retired without fighting or surrendered to the enemy."

More German Reinforcements.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Rome says it is reported from Berne that the Austro-Swiss frontier again has been closed, and that the Germans are hurrying reinforcements to the Italian war front.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—A dispatch received here from Vienna says Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary has congratulated Emperor William on the capture of the Italian town of Cividale by the German troops, and has thanked the Emperor for placing at his disposal "a number of your splendid divisions."

"The attacking energy of your troops," said the message of the Austrian monarch, "proved, as ever, to be unconquerable."

The operations so successfully begun under your command against the Italian Army give promise of progress. I rejoice that beside your well-tried Isonzo fighters the German troops in comradeship of arms have beaten our disloyal former ally. Congratulations on the recapture of Gorizia and the Carso plateau. Forward with God.

All Italy realizes that the Italian Second Army is standing a supreme test as a result of the combined German and Austro-Hungarian offensive on the eastern frontier. The tone of the press is courageous, despite the setbacks that thus far have been reported. The newspapers agree that the Germans are aiding the Austrians in the belief that Italy is starving, rent by internal disorders, and ready to desert the Entente. Also, they say, Italy offered the best grounds for a new success with the German armies which were found to be no longer needed on the Russian front.

The reason for the attack through the Tolmino region is asserted to be partly due to the opportunity provided for threatening the outflanking of the entire Carso Plateau and the lower Isonzo, where the Italians made gains during the Summer, and because the Italians long have sought to penetrate the passes of Tolmino, through which lie the railroads running into the heart of Austria.

One incident of the retreat of the Italians has been the defense of Monte Nero, where most fierce fighting took place for an entire week, with the Italians able to retreat, but refusing to do so. This gallant defense was made because Monte Nero literally has been consecrated with the blood of Italians since the beginning of the war.

Tagliamento Strongly Fortified.

The Tagliamento line, to which it is reported the Italian armies of the Isonzo may retreat, takes its name from the Tagliamento River, which, rising in the northwestern part of the Province of Udini, first flows east at about fifteen miles from the boundary of the Carnic Alps, and then, turning south five miles east of Tolmezzo, flows through numerous channels generally parallel to the Isonzo and about thirty miles west of it.

The right bank has always been strongly fortified, as the treaty of 1866, by which Austria surrendered the Regione of Veneto to Italy, prohibited fortifications nearer the eastern frontier. In March and April, 1915, its fortifications were modernized in anticipation of an Italian retreat from the frontier after the declaration of war on Austria.

The sudden withdrawal of several hundred thousand Austrian troops from the Isonzo front for service in Galicia, however, caused the Italian General Staff to change its plans, almost over night, and to attack over the frontier, twenty-five miles to the eastward, when war was finally declared.

VICTORY DELIGHTS GERMANY.

"Strong Enough to Win Peace by Force," Says Weser Zeitung.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—The German papers are in raptures over the victory on the Italian front. The Weser Zeitung of Bremen says:

"The blow inflicted on Italy is as strong as that which drove the Government of France to Bordeaux, but more formidable in its effect, because we are wiser, calmer, and more experienced than in the last days of August, 1914. The worst of pessimists must now see that Germany is strong enough to win peace by force. The success achieved against Italy will result in a complete change of attitude on the part of Italy toward the Entente, which, if not manifested immediately, will be manifested at the peace conference.

"One of our chief aims must be to carry on peace negotiations in such a way that we do not negotiate with England about the affairs of the whole world, but with each enemy about himself. Italy affords the best starting point for this procedure."

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A school holiday has been proclaimed throughout Germany in celebration of the Austro-German victories against Italy, and the display of flags has been ordered, the Amsterdam correspondent of The Exchange Telegraph Company cables.

ITALIAN PRESS FOR DEATH BEFORE SLAVERY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Oct. 29.—Rather death than slavery is the clarion note sounded in the national press today in face of the new barbarian invasion of Italy. In political spheres there is a tendency to sink the partisan dissensions and dilly dallying which recently afforded so sorry a spectacle during the Parliamentary discussions.

King Victor Emmanuel is bent on getting the political situation straightened out in the constitution of a new Ministry under the Presidency of Professor Orlando, so as to enable his Majesty to hasten back immediately to the battlefield.

Thrilling incidents are narrated today of the titantic fight that rages around the Isonzo. Austrian troops have been raked together for a supreme endeavor, with the co-operation of the German allies. Separate but simultaneous thrusts made by the enemy at points between Plezo Hollow and St. Gabriele were favored by dense fog, and the assailants managed to advance right up to the barbed-wire defenses before they were discovered.

Three converging columns, composed exclusively of Germans, swooped down upon Caporetto and then upon Lucio, where, during a bloody fray, the village changed hands eight times. The Italian gunners kept the invaders at bay a couple of hours and then leaped back into the trenches to sustain the battalians which, under overwhelming pressure, had been obliged to fall back from the banks of the Isonzo, with heavy losses. By these tactics the Germans were finally repulsed and the guns saved.

As on Friday, the Germans showed no signs of activity in that sector. The commanding General ordered a strong cavalry reconnoissance, himself following in their rear in a motor car. Arriving at a sharp bend in the road near Idersko, they found themselves faced with a swiftly oncoming corps of German motor cyclists, with mitrailleuses affixed to their machines. The latter forthwith opened a withering fire, which causes the horses to stampede.

The General hardly had ordered a retirement when his car was struck and he was severely wounded. The few surviving horsemen, seizing their stricken leader, succeded in regaining their lines.

The Austrian column, issuing at Tolmino, scaled the summit of Globocak, but later were dislodged by the Fifth Berzaglieri Bridage, whose gallantry not only saved the big batteries but made possible the orderly evacuation of the Bainsizza tableland.

These sorely tried troops, after withstanding a destructive bombardment for more than one hour and fifty minutes, drove back in furious counterattack a foe five times more numerous and capturing 700 prisoners.

Despite a dearth of roads in that recently occupied region, all guns were got away safely and the invaders held in check until Saturday morning at dawn.

The latest tidings are far from reassuring.

URGES AID TO ITALY, LEST SHE GIVE UP

SEES HOPE IN DISASTER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Under the heading, "Save Italy; Urgent need of Franco-British Help," Sidney Low writes as follows in The Daily Chronicle on a subject which has been much discussed in London circles, though not in the press:

"Another sudden and terrible crisis of the war has arisen. It may prove the beginning of the end for good or ill.

"The Italian armies of the Isonzo have been disastrously defeated for the moment—we hope only for the moment. It is almost a débâcle. The Italian line is falling back before the Austro-German host, with its concentrated and overpowering artillery.

"Cardona may have to retire behind Tagliamento or even further. We seem to be witnessing the beginning of one of those great drives with massed infantry and the march of heavy guns like those which carried the Austro-Germans over Poland, Serbia, and Rumania. Another large tract of allied territory—Friuli and Veneto, with their rich and noble cities and fertile fields—may fall into the destroying hands which have ravaged Belgium and Northern France.

"If Cadorna cannot stay the rush, he might even be compelled to withdraw across the Po and leave all Lombardy and Piedmont to the mercy of the invader. That, however, will not happen for the reason that before this stage is reached Italy will have made peace.

Drive's Political Significance.

"It is well to speak plainly. The German stroke has political, not less than strategic, significance. The Socialists, neutralists, pacifists, and Teutophiles who brought about the fall of the Boselli Cabinet are more active than they have been since May, 1915. German gold and intrigue have kept the cross-currents moving. They would flow with sufficient volume to compel any Government to stop the war if it seemed that Italy's cause was hopeless, and that her allies could not or would not avert from her the fate of Belgium, Rumania and Serbia, those minor members of the Alliance whom the Entente powers were pledged to protect and did not protect.

"From that fate Italy must be saved, and saved at all costs, by France and England—partly for her sake, quite as much, nay, more, for their own. It is not merely that the spectacle of German and Austrian soldiers robbing, murdering and wrecking in such places as Udine, Verona, Vicenza and Padua would be an outrage to humanity, but also it would be an irreparable disaster and disgrace to ourselves. Russia may soon be virtually out of the war. If Italy were to go out, too, America's help may come too late to prevent that drawn or negotiated peace which for us means defeat.

Too Big a Task for Unaided Italy.

"Therfore must the Western Powers strain every nerve to help and deliver their southern partner. It is a moment big with fate, and it must be seized with unsparing energy and prompt decision. Cadorna, with his whole 400-mile frontier to guard, and somewhere near a million Austro-German troops facing his eastern line, is hard pressed and outgunned. Great strategist though he be, and splendidly as the Alpini and Bersaglieri and other contingents of his infantry fight, he will hardly be able to deal with this tremendous assault as he beat back the Austrian irruption in 1916. The odds are too heavy, especially as in the first onrush he has lost a large part of his artillery. If he is to hold his own he must have more men, and, above all, more heavy guns; and for guns he cannot wait. England and France must forward them to him without a day's delay, even though, by so doing they plant wrath and sorrow in the hearts of army commanders elsewhere and cause the pace of the operations on the western front to slow down for a while.

"It will be regrettable if we cannot persistently follow up the push through Houthulst Forest, and if the French cannot reap quickly the full fruits of their recent victory on the Aisne; but in war the greater necessity must supersede the less. There is no duty before us at the moment so urgent as that of warding off the lightning stroke aimed at Italy's heart and keeping her army from being knocked out of the war.

Welcomes End of Trench Warfare.

"On the other hand, if the emergency is rightly handled, Italy's present misfortune may prove the turning point of the war in our favor. Here at length the deadlock of indecisive trench warfare is broken. Here are the Germans, with their Austrian dependents, out in force in the open. Here is the war of movement we have always wanted, and the chance of a great manoeuvre battle. If that battle should be joined when Cadorna has been provided with higher gun power than his opponents, if his own force is stiffened and strengthened by ten or a dozen divisions of British and French infantry, then the result may be and should be the complete defeat of the invaders, followed by an allied advance across the frontier in the wake of the routed army which might carry them right on to Trieste and bring about the collapse of Austria and a separate peace with that State.

"I dare say the higher command will say that the man who speaks of detaching ten or twelve divisions from the main theatre of the war is talking nonsense. The thing, they may insist, simply cannot be done; but that is the great question of policy which the statesmen of the allied Cabinets must decide. A soldier naturally and properly thinks most of his own front; but, if there is any meaning in the unity of command idea, there is a single front for all the armies, and it is for the supreme joint directorate to determine where the maximum effort at any moment is needed. It seems that we have a chance of forming a new strategic scheme. If neglected, it may lead to irretrievable failure; if used with genius and daring, it may change the whole course of events, and so convert the ambitious enterprise of the enemy into the instrument of his downfall."

THOUSANDS OF CANNON SMASHED ITALIAN LINE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—According to a Daily Mail dispatch from Amsterdam, the Berlin Tageblatt's correspondent at the Italian front telegraphed on Thursday:

"In the last days of impatient expectation Germans have eagerly read the Italian papers. Would the Italians notice anything? They had undoubtedly become uncertain and distrustful. Half a thousand airmen—Italians, English, and French—despite the rain and the German anti-aircraft guns, insistently attempted to penetrate the barred zone and cast inquisitive glances at the forces marching up to the battle ground. General Cadorna could not possibly have taken the signs of the approaching action lightly, but the threatening political situation compelled him to give reassuring declarations to the Rome Cabinet and to inform the Government press in a similar sense.

"In any event the Milan press published extensive comments on the prospects of a second South Tyrol offensive, based on the presence of Emperor Carl, when suddenly feverish life came into the Tolmino section. Several thousand Austro-Hungarian and German guns which systematically and without haste had been doing their firing practice there during the last few weeks began simultaneously an unparalleled drumfire."

Gas Shells Aid the Attack.

The correspondent describes the preparations for the advance, including the use of gas and smoke shells which desolated the foreground and robbed the Italian drumfire posts of their sighting facilities.

"For twenty miles," he continues, "an iron curtain hung over the Isonzo, whose glacier-clear waters spouted up in fountains. The infantry attack followed punctually. At the same time, north and south of Krn Ridge, occupied by the Italians, and near Tolmino and Plezzo, Austro-Hungarian storming columns rushed forward."

The writer proceeds to intimate that the earlier Austro-Hungarian evacuation of half of the Bainsizza Plateau was part of a far-sighted plan of the Central Powers' high command, and that what the Italians thought was a victory has now become the greatest calamity by exposing them to the danger of a flanking movement, which has been systematically carried out.

He says that the German troops encountered little resistance when at a general signal to assault they advanced over the rocky ridges of Santa Lucia, southwest of Tolmino. When they fell upon the few surviving drumfire posts a single flame-thrower spurted its oil streams against them, and only a few machine guns began firing. The storming parties rushed on past these posts and the trench mortars, which had been destroyed by gunfire and pushed through the mine-thrower and trench gun fire to the caverns in which the Italians had taken shelter before the bulk of the latter could escape. The occupants of the caves tried with hand grenades and machine guns to defend the exits, but soon thought better of it and surrendered before the inexorable language of the Austro-Hungarian hand grenades.

From the ridges the batteries meanwhile belched forth death and destruction. This fire zone was also traversed by the Austro-Germans in their attack.

After the favorable development of the first day's fighting in adverse weather conditions, the Austro-Germans were able on Wednesday to follow up their advantage. The Italians, the correspondent says, saw themselves threatened and ordered the evacuation of the plateau. Thursday, to the south of Tolmino, on the north wing of the plateau, they made a strong counterattack with the object of covering their retirement. The Austro-Hungarian troops, however, broke this assault, inflicting great losses.

REPLIES TO SONNINO SPEECH

Vatican Organ Defends Pope's Attitude Regarding Belgium.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 29.—The Osservatore Romano, organ of the Vatican, complains in a long article of that part of Baron Sonnino's recent speech which referred to the Pontifical note.

It recapitulates point by point the Pope's peace proposals, and says that the Pontiff, from authoritative declarations of the belligerents, has been able to ascertain that they are more or less in accord on some fundamental points. Therefore, the paper continues, he asked them to join in a conference to discuss peace conditions in a conciliatory spirit.

The paper goes on to discuss disarmament, which, it says, is absolutely indispensable. After particularizing on other points of the note it says:

"We will not follow Sonnino in his absurd affirmation—his malevolent, gratuitous affirmation relating to Belgium. We can only observe that the Belgian Government in acknowledging the Pontifical note showed it was fully satisfied with the message."

The paper says that Sonnino does not understand that a mediator cannot begin by condemning one of the parties. It asserts that the Pope protested against the invasion of Belgium in a former note, and concludes by charging a lack of courtesy in Sonnino's reply to the first official communication on peace made by the Holy See to the King of Italy, citing his "diatribe" in open Parliament.

GERMAN SUCCESSES DEPRESS STOCKS HERE

The German successes against the Italian Army found sharp reflection in yesterday's stock market and also in the market for European exchange. Declines in stocks ranged from 2 to more than 6 points in the active list and a drop of 6¼ points in Canadian Pacific and of more than 2 points in Erie was the subject of particular attention in bank and brokerage offices because of rumors that these issues were being sold for Swedish account.

Swedish exchange rose to the highest point in history. Active bidding in a market almost bare of supplies carried the rate on Stockholm to 39¾ cents per kroner for cable transfers, with transactions reported as high as 41½. Check transfers were quoted at the close at 38½ cents, a gain of a half cent from the final quotation on Saturday. At this point the rate showed a premium over the normal level of more than 48 per cent.

The fact that Swedish remittances were especially sought after while the exchanges of other European neutral countries were irregular and inactive gave rise to rumors in banking circles that Swedish banks were busy transferring their balances back home. Ever since the embargo against exports to the nations adjacent to Germany went into effect, the exchange rates on these countries have been rising, with the Swedish market the strongest of all. Bankers expressed the opinion yesterday that Swedish bankers were trying to transfer their funds because of apprehension lest their Government should break with the Allies and line up beside Germany in the war.

Sweden is believed to have big balances in this country, and the prohibition against gold leaving the United States precludes any shipment of the metal in process of liquidating bank accounts.

Italian exchange rates declined until 7.90½ lire could be bought for a dollar for remittance by check, against 7.48¾ on Saturday, and a normal quotation of 5.1826. At yesterday's closing figure the lire showed a depreciation of nearly 35 per cent. below the normal level. The downward tendency of Italian exchange was considered directly due to the news of military operations.

Orlando Expected to Name Member of Mission to America.

ROME, Sunday, Oct. 28, (Delayed.)—The effect of the Austro-German offensive on the political situation has been to eliminate party differences. The retiring Cabinet is expected to remain, with comparatively few changes, under the Premiership of Professor Vittorio Orlando. Deputy Francesco Nitti, who was a member of the Italian mission to the United States, will probably enter the Orlando Ministry.

TURIN, Friday, Oct. 26, (Delayed.)—The fall of the Cabinet of Premier Boselli is attributed to Giovanni Giolitti, former Premier, who thus reasserts his old power as Italy's political leader. Before the entrance of Italy into the war he was in favor of the country's neutrality, representing conservative opinion and business interests.

The political situation now enters into a new and interesting phase, which is being watched closely. It is assumed that the new Cabinet will be far stronger at home, in view of the overwhelming majority favorable to Signor Giolitti, which includes the Socialists. On this account it is believed that the new Government will not be forced to temporize and make concessions to troublemakers, as Premier Boselli was. It will probably be able to deal in a practical manner with the problems of food, clothing, and speculation.

If Baron Sonnino remains in the new Cabinet as Foreign Minister, there will be no decided change in the foreign policy.

Since the foregoing dispatch was filed word has been received of the selection of Professor Orlando to form a new Ministry. Signor Giolitti aroused much opposition by his activities in behalf of neutrality, and in the Summer of 1915 was reported to have fled from Italy in fear of his life. In May of that year he was reported to have gone to Berlin for an audience with Emperor William. After Italy entered the war he announced his support of the Government and urged Italians to rally to the King and Government during the war.

REPORTS PEACE OFFER SPURNED BY BELGIUM

German Attempt to Wean Her by Attractive Terms Defeated, Newspaper Says.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—La Metropole, a Belgian newspaper published here, says that a German attempt to separate the Allies has been defeated by Baron de Broqueville, Belgian Foreign Minister.

According to this newspaper, Germany recently made a peace offer to Belgium. La Metropole says the bearer of the proposal was a Belgian industrial and financial magnate, who knew Foreign Minister de Broqueville personally. He went to Paris through Switzerland and asked for a meeting with the Minister, who met him in a Paris hotel.

The emissary said he was commissioned by Baron von der Lancken, legal adviser of the German Government in Belgium, to propose that semi-official Belgian and French delegates should meet German delegates in Berne to lay down a basis for a lasting peace. The following preliminary conditions were presented:

Recognition of Belgian independence.

Indemnity for war expenses.

Reparation for war destruction according to the Belgian common law.

REICHSTAG CHIEFS CALL FOR REFORMS

ASK FOR A LIBERAL BALLOT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 29, (via London.)—The general opinion prevailing here today is that the political situation will be definitely settled before next week. This view finds expression in nearly all the afternoon papers.

The majority parties have shown much tact in avoiding any attempt to assail the constitutional right of the Crown, even the Socialist Vorwärts saying that there is no desire on the part of the people's representatives in this emergency to interfere in any way with the Crown's right of appointing the head of the Government. The majority parties would not even intimate what personages they favored. They merely laid down their program of internal as well as external policy which, they hold, should also be that of the first official of the empire.

Their internal program embodies the immediate introduction in Prussia of ballot reform on the lines of the Reichstag's election law, which is as liberal as that ruling general elections in the United States. This bill they wish to be submitted without any encumbering side issues calculated to weaken its effectiveness and limit the rights of the voters. The reconstruction of the Prussian House of Lords and other reforms are also on this program.

As to foreign policy, the majority parties assert that they will heartily cooperate with any head of the Government who will unreservedly indorse the Reichstag's peace resolution.

The difficulties which the majority parties have had to contend with can hardly be realized in America, where political complications like those existing in Old World countries are unknown. Besides, the recent speeches of Carson and some French and Italian statesmen have created popular resentment that has affected the situation.

The official view here is that the mass of the German people still have unlimited confidence in their army and navy, which they believe will never be beaten by any combination of powers. According to this view, Germany's desire for peace is not to be taken as a sign of exhaustion. The people are simply sick and tired of the awful slaughter as, they believe, are the people in all other countries, including neutrals. Those who want peace here say they want it mainly because they are convinced that the result of the war will be the same two years hence as it would be if peace were made today, and that a continuation of the slaughter merely means the impoverishment of the world.

These elements understand very well that Germany needs certain reforms, and there is no doubt that similar ideas prevail in the highest places. It is asserted that no official efforts have been spared to ascertain the true conditions of the internal political situation in order to do justice to the people's wishes.

Propose Reforms to Unite Germans.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 29.—The Politiken's Berlin correspondent says that leaders of large German associations of State officials and cognate societies propose the immediate formation of a national union to carry out various political reforms, especially with regard to equal suffrage.

The effort will be made, according to the newspaper, in order to revive the spirit of unity in the people with a view to securing the rejection of all German endeavors toward peace. The national union, it is asserted hopes to rouse a new and strong fighting spirit among the people.

FIGHTING NEAR MONASTIR.

Paris and Berlin Both Report Activity There.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The War Office report tonight says:

Eastern Theatre.—On Oct. 27 the enemy's artillery was moderately active along the whole front. The action was more spirited, however, northwest of Monastir. On the 28th the artillery activity was quite serious in the region of the Vardar and Monastir, where we shelled the enemy batteries. Patrol encounters occurred on the lower Struma and at the Cerna Bend.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The official report tonight says:

Macedonian Front.—In the Monastir Basin, in the Cerna Bend, and from the Vardar to Lake Doiran there have been lively artillery duels.

Kaiser Honors von Bernstorff.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 29.—Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, has been made a "Wirklicher Geheimrat," (Active Privy Councilor,) by the German Emperor, with the title of Excellency. The Count is now Ambassador at Constantinople.

'FULLEST SUPPORT' IN ALLIES' POWER

the enemy is going steadily downward, and Germany has been beaten by the French and British Armies."

No Time to Lose, the French View.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Italian situation is summarized by The Temps military expert as follows:

"The Austro-German offensive on the Italian front develops with disquieting energy. The enemy's right, descending in the valleys that converge on Auzza, has reached Cividale. All the Italian forces on the plateau of Bainsizza and on the Carso as far as the sea, menaced with envelopment, have been obliged to evacuate the regions that they were at so much pains to conquer. They are retreating toward the west beyond the Isonzo.

"In the same way as the Germans went to the aid of the Austrian troops, the Allies are going to give their support to the Italian Army. They will find on the Tagliamento a line of resistance where it is to be hoped the Italian position will be re-established, as was ours on the Marne. There is no time to lose. Cividale is only twenty-five miles from the Tagliamento, and the enemy's columns march with prodigious speed."

Porfirio Gonzales Denies Revolt.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 29.—General Porfirio Gonzales, who recently was reported to have rebelled against the Government at Aldamas, arrived here today. He denied that he had been in arms against the Government, and expressed indignation at the press reports from the United States attributing rebellious acts to him.

MAY FORCE US TO WAR ON AUSTRIA

ment, and is likely to lead to the extension of a helping hand to Italy if such a course should be necessary to save the allied cause.

Italy's Pleas for Aid.

Officials are now recalling vividly the cable dispatches in THE NEW YORK TIMES not long ago from its correspondent on the Italian front which emphasized the necessity for help to Italy from the Allies. Throughout those dispatches there was an intimation that those high in authority in Italy felt that some of the allied nations feared the effect of an Italian victory that would give to Italy the credit of having brought defeat to the Cenral Powers. It was emphasized also that Italy was badly in need of coal and munitions and was seeking the aid of her allies in supplying them.

But it was not found that officials here shared the Italian view that they were not receiving sufficient help in the way of supplies from their allies. In Washington official circles there is a cordial disposition to help in every way possible to bring success to the Italian arms. Washington thoroughly realizes Italy's shortage of certain material supplies, and efforts have been made to overcome this.

Indiscreet utterances in Italian quarters in this country are not helping the situation, and a denial that came tonight of allegations attributed to an Italian source has not served to atone for the expression of views which are not believed to be those of the Government at Rome.

It is without question, however, that those having knowledge of Italy's situation have been emphasizing for some time the need of the Italian Government of guns, munitions, coal, and food. Today it was said that Italy did not need men, but was badly off for want of war materials. In one quarter it was declared that if Italy was not quickly supplied with such materials the war would be nearly lost to the Allies on the Italian front. The civilian population, engaged in the work of keeping the armies supplied, required food, it was said.

The United States has been seeking to remedy Italy's troubles, and last week twenty-five ships were allotted to that Government by the United States Shipping Board. In every way the Washington Administration believes that there is an equally strong desire on the part of Great Britain and France.

View of the Military Situation.

The Italian official announcement that General Cadorna's forces are "checking the advance into the plains" of the German Army divisions is not accepted in Washington as marking the ebb of the Teutonic flood which literally swept the Italians out of the Austrian positions along the Isonzo. Until it is officially evident that the Mackensen legions have been "checked," and that the process of "checking" has been completed, military experts here will not be convinced that much of Venetia will be kept from the grip of the Central Powers.

The Isonzo lines of the Italians are now a thing of the past. Every official announcement from Berlin, Vienna, and Rome brings conviction that the Italians will be extremely fortunate if they do not sustain further losses before the last Italian soldier has been driven from Austrian soil, and all signs point to the fact that General Cadorna's best genius is now being concentrated primarily on saving his armies in a masterly retreat.

The problem before the great Italian General is now that which faced General Joffre when the French were forced by the invading Germans to retreat to the points of safety from which they were able later to move forward in what became the famous battle of the Marne, following which warfare on the Western front settled down into trench warfare.

In this colossal retreat from the Isonzo lines it was inevitable that Cadorna's armies should lose thousands of men cut off by the rapid progress of Mackensen's forces into high isolation in the Bainsizza Plateau, and be unable to rescue within a few days heavy guns which had been hoisted into the plateau after weeks of interminable effort punctuated by the hard fighting characterizing the Italian offensives of last Summer.

The capture of Gorizia by the Austro-German forces drove a wedge into and broke the backbone of the snake-like Italian lines curling southward from the Tolmino hinterland across the Bainsizza plateau, down into the valley of the Vippaco River, and up over the western ridges of the Carso plateau to the shores of the Adriatic at Duino. Before the Mackensen drive the Italians were within cannon shot of Trieste—the distance from the Italian lines to Trieste was only ten miles. Only the topography of the country, the Carso plateau, rising from 500 to 1,000 feet in height, and the higher Hermada mountains stood between the Italians and their goal.

The Italians had been in possession of Gorizia since Aug. 9, 1916, more than a year since they captured it from the Austrians. The Bainsizza Plateau, occupied by the Austrians, was a constant menace to the Italians. This menace was removed when General Cadorna succeeded in his drives of last Summer. The Second Italian Army was sent into the Bainsizza Plateau campaign. South of Gorizia the Third Italian Army hammered away at the Italian lines facing the Carso Plateau between the River Vippaco and the sea.

In the operations now in progress General Cadorna is making the most determined effort to save his Third Army, the Carso Plateau army, from annihilation. Gorizia and Monfalcone were the nearest supply bases for the Carso army.

Mackensen's Need of Haste.

Field Marshal von Mackensen is wasting no time at Gorizia. Evidently he is intent upon inflicting the severest possible injury before attempting to bring his forces to a halt whenever compelled by Winter and military exigencies to halt. That Goriza is not his halting point is evident from the announcement in this afternoon's official Berlin report stating that Cormons has been captured. Cormons is ninety-seven miles east of Venice on the main railway line which winds via Treviso, and Udine and Gorizia toward Trieste. Cormons is five miles west of Gorizia. The taking of Cormons means that the Teutonic forces were within rifle distance of the Italian frontier at another point, and that by this time they have probably crossed the small Indrio River into Italy on their way to Udine.

The immediate objective of Mackensen—if he has not already taken the place—is Udine, the principal railroad crossroads between Venice and Trieste. In his plan for taking Udine, Mackensen has a column moving from the northeast down the railway and the main highway from Cividale, only nine miles away, and a second force moving westward from Gorizia. The distance from Gorizia to Udine is only eighteen miles, and at Cormons the German forces would be only thirteen miles from Udine. Reflecting backward on Mackensen's Serbian and Rumanian campaigns, it would not prove surprising if Mackensen has still another strong column moving southward toward Udine from the direction of the main passes through the Carnic Alps, which form the boundary line between the northern part of Venetia and the Carinthian section of Austria.

This seems to be indicated by the significant allusion in this afternoon's official Berlin announcement to the Ploecken Pass. According to this announcement the Italian Army is yielding on a broad sector as far north as the Ploecken Pass. The German forces that took Cividale and then pressed forward toward Udine, penetrated the Austro-Italian frontier at Starasella Pass, moving forward from Caporetto. This force came from the direction of Villach, in Austria, and branched off toward the southwest from the vicinity of Tarvis.

Italian forces as far north as the Ploecken Pass frontier region of the Carnic Alps would have to move with very great rapidity to avoid being cut off after the Germans were once in possession of Udine. The only escape would be to avoid the rail route from Gemona toward Udine and take the alternative rail route from Gemona leading southeastward through the Italian town of San Daniele toward Casarso and Santo Vito at the intersection of the Tagliamento River with the railway which runs westward from Udine toward Venice.

It is feared that these retreating Italians from the Carnic Alps section of the far northern Italian front are in no worse plight than any units of the Third Italian Army retreating from the Carso Plateau along the coastal railway westward toward San Giorgio. Mackensen has two striking points in his effort to cut off such of this Third Italian Army as may not yet have crossed the frontier on their retreat back into Italy. At both Monfalcone in Austria and San Giorgio in Italy, the communication lines of the Third Army may be cut by the Mackensen columns.

Since Mackensen has thrown out advancing columns which, Berlin asserts, have captured Cormons to the west of Gorizia, it is not to be assumed that he has not also sent a strong column southward from Gorizia toward Monfalcone. This column would seek to prevent any remnants of the Third Italian Army from retreating from the Carso region into Italy over the bridge at Gradisca, about half way between Gorizia and Monfalcone, and also attempt to block other remnants of the Italians moving out of the Carso Plateau through Monfalcone. With Udine and Monfalcone both in Mackensen's hands, his forces would have good rail and road connections southward from Udine and westward from Monfalcone toward the important coast junction point of San Giorgio.

The three pivotal objectives sought by Mackensen in his advance toward the Friulian plains are Gemona, on the north; Udine in the centre, and San Girogio on the south. All these points are in Venetia, in Italian territory, and from them rail lines lead toward the Tagliamento River, where Cadorna will probably try to make his first real stand.

Possession of the Gemona-Udine-San Giorgio line would mean that the Isonzo line of the Italians has been crumpled and driven back from ten to thirty miles, and that the Italians would have relinquished territory averaging twenty miles in width for a distance of more than sixty miles from the Carnic Alps to the Gulf of Trieste.

Cadorna's Defense Plan.

There is every indication that the rapidity and initial success of the Mackensen surprise drive will transform the whole aspect of the Italian front from plateau and valley warfare to trench warfare in the Friulian Plains, provided Cadorna, with Anglo-French aid, is able to succeed in his effort to check the Germans.

The opinion of military experts here is that Cadorna will retreat to trench lines for defensive warfare along the western edge of the Tagliamento, and it will be regarded as fortunate if he can do even this in view of his losses, the vast stores of munitions that had to be destroyed at Cividale, Gorizia, and other abandoned points, and the shortage of Italian supplies.

Italian officials here believe that Germany is now playing her greatest card of the war in the drive toward Venice in the hope that victory there will almost win the war. However, these same Italian officials assert that they are expecting that Cadorna will be able to establish the Tagliamento trench line, and this wil spell ultimate defeat for the Austro-Germans. The region in which Mackensen and Cadorna are now matching military wit and ingenuity for position has been almost as much of a "cockpit of Europe" as the Waterloo region of Belgium.

This is the region that was overrun by Attila and his Huns, the place where the Romans sought refuge from their Lombard conquerors in the islands of the Venetian lagoons, the region which was overrun by the Venetians in their land conquests which gave them Verona, Padua, Treviso, and Vicenzo, and the scene of exploits by Napoleon when he overthrew the tottering Venetian Republic.

The Venetian region was adjudged to Austria after it had been taken by French troops in 1797, but the Austrians were compelled to cede it to Italy, and on the fall of Napoleon it was again awarded to Austria, to whom it belonged until 1866, when, in consequence of the events of that year, it was finally incorporated with the Kingdom of Italy. Thus after a lapse of fifty-one years Austrian forces have against penetrated Venetia in a drive that must have been in preparation for some weeks, but which is as yet less than a week old in actual striking activity.

TELLS HOW NAVY HAS SAVED BRITAIN

Lloyd George Says It Has Transported 13,000,000 Men and Lost Only 3,500.

130,000,000 TONS IN CARGOES

THANKED BY PARLIAMENT

Army and Navy Are Subjects of Resolutions—Tributes Paid by Nation's Leaders.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Parliament today adopted a resolution presented by Premier Lloyd George, expressing the thanks of the Parliament to the navy and the army, including the overseas troops and the Mercantile Marine, for their services in the war, and to the women in the medical and other auxiliary services, and further expressing sympathy to the relatives and friends of those who have given their lives for their country.

The Premier in moving the resolution said that even if he had leisure in these terrible times, especially the anxiety of the last two or three days, he felt he could not do justice to this great theme. The deeds mentioned in the resolution were known to and had won the admiration of every subject of the King.

The British Navy was like one of those internal organs essential to life, of which we are unconscious until something goes wrong. In this war, said the Premier, the navy had been the anchor of the allied cause. If it lost its hold the hopes of the alliance would be shattered.

Great Achievements of Navy.

The Premier told how the navy had guaranteed supplies to the army abroad, and of material which it had enabled the Allies to get from abroad, adding:

"But for the navy, disaster would have fallen upon the allied cause. Prussia would be mistress of Europe and, through Europe, of the world. Despite hidden foes, despite illegitimate naval warfare, despite black piracy, the navy has preserved the highways of the seas for Britain and her allies. Since the beginning of the war the navy has insured the safe transportation to the British and allied armies of 13,000,000 men, 2,000,000 horses, 25,000,000 tons of explosives and supplies, and 51,000,000 tons of coal and oil.

"The losses of men out of the whole 13,000,000 were only 3,500, of which only 2,700 were lost through the action of the enemy. Altogether, 130,000,000 tons have been transported by British ships."

It was too early to summarize the effect of the blockade by the British Navy, which would be complete, declared the Premier, if it had not left the gate to the Balkans unlocked. It was not the fault of the Grand Fleet if it had not had many opportunities; that was due to the enemy's knowledge of its efficacy. Since the battle of Jutland the Germans had never seen fit to challenge it.

Mercantile Marine Praised.

Mr. Lloyd George paid a tribute to the work of the smaller craft, which were to be found in all seas, being numbered by the thousands. Their hardships and dangers were barely realized, yet the fruits of their action were enjoyed by the people of these islands. While before the war difficulty had been found in getting men to join the mercantile marine, on account of better conditions ashore, yet, despite the strain of hardships and peril that had increased manifoldly since the war began, there had not been found one man afraid to return to the sea. Men torpedoed once or twice hardly waited for their papers before they returned.

The British expeditionary force, continued Mr. Lloyd George, now numbered more than three million. It was a great triumph of organization, but was only rendered possible by the heroism of the old army—"the finest fighting troops in the world." It saved France and Europe, but hardly a man of that army was left.

The time had not come to deal with individual achievements, but he must refer to Field Marshals French and Haig and General Maude. Of Haig, one of the most brilliant members of the General Staff had said:

"Splendid as the fighting qualities of the troops have been, the success has been due in large measure to the power of organization, the persistence and forethought of Haig."

Seventy-five per cent. of the contribution in men, said the Premier, had come from England, and 75 per cent. of the loss had fallen upon England. Scotland had done its share, Ireland had made a distinguished contribution, and in voluntary recruiting Wales had beaten the record by a shade. The Dominions had contributed between 700,000 and 800,000 men. He praised the work of the Canadians on the western front, the Anzacs in Gallipoli and France, and the South Africans particularly in clearing Delville Wood. The memory of the powerful aid given by India would never be forgotten.

Union of British Empire.

"Never has the British Empire shown greater or more effective union," exclaimed the Premier. "It had been regarded as a dream; it is now a fact, a powerful fact, in fashioning the history of the world."

After references to the various auxiliary services, the Premier, in moving words, offered the sympathy of the House to the relatives of those who had fallen.

Ex-Premier Asquith, who followed, paid eloquent tribute to the fighting forces.

"It is by their inextinguishable faith that the fight has been well maintained until it ends, as we know it must, in the enthronement of the sovereignty of right. Let it not be said of those who gave their lives, when the judgment of history comes, that 'they gave their lives in vain.'"

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said his object in rising was to emphasize that what the Premier and Mr. Asquith had said was the absolutely unanimous sentiment of the House of Commons. The Irish troops, he said, had shed a lustre upon their race, and, however torn by dissension or misfortune their country might be at this moment, he believed that the whole Irish race today was filled with pride and gratitude for their achievements.

Redmond on Irish Troops.

"The gallant Irish troops have during the last year and a half had a bitter trial imposed upon them in the events happening in their own country," he said. "These events have not touched their valor or their loyalty. They have remained one in their motto, but nevertheless many of them had thought that they were going to fight not only for the liberty of the world but, in a special sense, for the happiness, prosperity, and liberty of Ireland. Now they have seen a section at any rate of their countrymen at home repudiate that idea.

"If my voice could reach them I would say that they need have no misgivings that they were right from the first, and that time will show that, while they are fighting for liberty and civilization in Europe, they are also fighting for the civilization and liberty of their own land."

BELGIANS EXPLAIN THEIR 'ATROCITIES'

German Indignation Roused by Trivial Incidents in East Africa, Legation Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A statement was issued today by the Belgian Legation in challenge of the charge made by the German Government that the Belgian Colonial Army committed atrocities in East Africa. It was on the basis of these alleged atrocities that Germany tried to justify that Government's action in deporting to Germany twenty prominent Belgians as a "reprisal." The legation's statement follows in part:

"Among the Teutons taken prisoner in Tabora was the German official in charge of the district, a certain Otto Weber, who has given the following description of what happened:

"'Personally I have no complaint to make of the Belgian troops on their entry into Tabora. However, some complaints were made to me on the subject of the Belgian troops at Tabora, and I have taken personal cognizance of the damage done in the house of Mrs. Horn. I was also told that a butcher shop had been plundered by Italians on the day the Belgians entered Tabora, but I have not been able to certify this statement. At another house the awning outside had been torn by bayonets.'

"East Africa is now the only German colony which has not been entirely conquered. The British attacked it from the south and the Belgians from the west. The Belgian Government has received a telegram announcing that on Oct. 9 the Belgian troops under Major Muller captured Mahenge, the last remaining place of importance in the district held by the Germans."

EXTOLS TO ENGLAND OUR WAR PROGRAM

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Sir Edward Morris, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, arrived in England today with news of the vast preparations now going on in America for "kanning the Kaiser," which The Daily Mail describes as "most heartening news." In an interview in The Daily Mail he outlined America's war aims, citing Henry Morgenthau's declaration regarding the German Emperor as their clearest-cut definition, and then spoke of American preparations to insure air supremacy. He added:

"This time next year at the outside, probably long before that, Americans, as they put it to me, are going to run by day and night an air service to Berlin. They are going to drop bombs in Germany from the sky at something approximating the rate at which Haig and Pétain are now dropping shells over the German lines in Flanders and France.

"Do people in these islands realize that the money America is spending on aircraft and air preparations alone exceeds the sum total of our old imperial prepay budget for military naval and civil service combined, and does anybody hereabouts know that the air bill appropriating this billion dollars was passed by the United States Senate after just three hours' debate?

"I know that the Americans' reputation in Europe with those who do not know them is that of money grubbers. Well, they are doing their best to become the biggest money spenders in human history. I cannot adequately picture the scenes of enthusiasm which accompanied the launching of the first Liberty Loan."

Sir Edward declared that, graphic as had been many of the accounts sent to England relative to American plans in the fields of finance, food, shipping, and military and navy organizations, it was impossible until one had been on the spot to grasp the magnitude of the effort the United States was getting ready to make in democracy's cause.

REPULSE AIR RAIDERS ATTACKING ENGLAND

British Fliers, Guns, and Lights Save the Southeast Counties From Bombing.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Hostile airplanes endeavored to carry out a raid tonight on the southeast counties of England, but none of them was able to pass the outer defenses, according to an official communication issued late tonight by Field Marshal Viscount French, Commander in Chief of the Home Forces.

The statement of Viscount French follows:

"Hostile airplanes attempted to raid the southeast counties tonight. Our airplanes went up, and the guns and lights were in action. No hostile airplanes succeeded in passing the outer defenses."

Warning of the air raid was given Londoners by police and special officers, but in the absence of gunfire in the city area there was no excitement. A few persons entered the underground railways or went into buildings. As usual, the streets were cleared quickly, except that here and there automobiles, buses, and a few pedestrians were going about their business, apparently unconcerned.

Crowds in the theatres and restaurants remained there until the bugle sounded their "all clear" message which was greeted by cheers. For the most part, however, the residents of London were in bed and apparently a comparatively small number knew that an air raid warning had ben given.

$25,000,000 TO BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Another advance of $25,000,000 was made today by the Government to Great Britain, bringing the total loaned that country thus far up to $1,400,000,000, and the total to all the Allies up to $2,851,400,000.

Advances to other allies now total as follows: France, $810,000,000; Italy, $225,000,000; Russia, $325,000,000; Belgium, $58,400,000; Serbia, $3,000,000.

BAKER EXPECTS FOE TO RETREAT IN WEST

BAD WEATHER AIDS ENEMY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Important developments are impending in the great war, Secretary Baker indicates in his official review of last week's operations on all fronts, which concludes with the brief statement that certain units of the American forces in France have taken their places on the battle front to complete their training. This is the War Department's first mention of the fact that General Pershing's men are on the firing line.

It is the wave of activity during the week on nearly every front, however, that catches the Secretary's attention. Significant operations are in progress, he says, both east and west, on the Italian fronts, in Macedonia, Rumania, Mesopotamia, and even in East Africa. On the western front, he says, a new strategic retreat of the German forces appears to be the next move expected, and they must move back under critical circumstances from between the two wedges, those of Flanders and the Aisne, which have been driven relentlessly into their line by the British and French.

Italy is passing through a difficult moment, Mr. Baker says. The Austro-German drive is being pressed forward by imposing forces. But once before Italy stemmed the tide of an Austrian rush, under less favorable conditions for the defenders, he points out, and hurled the enemy back with only a taste of victory during the first days of his terrific onslaught. Winter is now coming to the aid of the Italians.

Activity on All Fronts.

The Secretary's review follows:

"Renewed activity prevails in all theatres of war.

"Important developments would appear to be impending.

"Along the western, eastern, and Italian fronts, in Macedonia, Rumania, Mesopotamia, and even in East Africa, significant operations are in progress.

"The two outstanding features of the situation of the week are the relentless British offensive in the Ypres salient, resulting in substantal gains of terrain of important strategc value and the sudden, well-aimed and sustained thrust of the French north of the Aisne.

"It is evident that the Allied drives along the western front are broadening in scope and in intensity. The whole front from the Houthulst Wood through the Passchendaele ridge southward to Lens and on to the Aisne is becoming the scene of increasingly heavy Allied pressure, which the enemy is withstanding with difficulty.

"Side by side the French and British are pushing on through the Flemish lowlands toward Roulers.

"The enemy, believing he might find a rift in the otherwise impregnable Allied line at the point of junction between the Franco-British forces, directed repeated heavy counterattacks in this segment. There were repulsed.

"While the British attacks during the past week have been carried out with imposing effectives, it is apparent that the British command is manoeuvring in order to gain important tacical advantages at a minimum cost.

"The casualties to the enemy are rising steadily.

"Slowly the Allies are enlarging their gains in Flanders, driving into the heart of German resistance in the west.

"The German armies fight on stubbornly. If any further evidence of allied superiority be needed, it seems to be supplied by the decisive successes won by the French during the week.

"This offensive was launched on a six-mile front near the west end of the Chemin-des-Dames at dawn on Oct. 23.

"General Pétain so well masked his preparations that the enemy was taken by surprise as to the exact terrain chosen for the attack and was overwhelmed before being able to organize a concentrated resistance.

Triumph of the French.

"This first attack was immediately followed by a second assault in this same sector crowned with full success.

"In three days' fighting the French have taken 12,000 prisoners, 120 guns of large calibre, and a great quantity of other booty not yet enumerated.

"The possession of the captured Fort of Malmaison, the key to the entire ridge and the villages beyond, now makes it possible for the French to enfilade the German positions along the Chemin-des-Dames, as well as to fire directly through the valley toward the fortress of Laon.

"General Pétain showed himself a past master of strategy in being able to attain so decisive a victory in so brief a period.

"The time has apparently come for another 'strategic retreat' of the enemy. It means that the Germans must again retire to a new intrenched and carefully prepared line if they intend to resist further in the west.

"It must be admitted that the German 'retreat' executed as a result of the battles of the Somme last year was carried through with consummate skill. The enemy retired, destroying all cover and taking up positions of marked tactical and strategic strength.

"But the battle of the Somme had but one wedge. Today we have the wedge of Flanders and that of the Aisne is being outlined.

"The bad weather continues to be the enemy's best protection. He is relying upon this factor to impede the allied advance and by shrouding the battle area in slush, rain and fog, give him a respite until he can prepare himself to meet a fresh onslaught.

"News from the Italian front proves that the Austrians were able to bring sufficient pressure to bear in Berlin in order to secure German assistance.

"As the result of the concentration of an imposing array of artillery and massed battalions, the Austro-German forces have succeeded in penetrating the recently won Italian positions in the Tolmino sector.

"The broken, steep mountainous character of the terrain makes it difficult to hold intrenchments when once certain strategic objectives have been attained. These the Austrians have apparently captured in this sector, which may result in the abandonment by the Italians of the Bainsizza plateau which they won after so valiant a struggle only a few weeks ago.

Italy's "Difficult Moment."

"Italy is passing through a difficult moment.

"We must remember, however, that in May, 1916, the Austrians attempted a similar onslaught. Then they had fine weather, a well-chosen terrain, and above all, the far superior fighting vigor of their armies to rely upon. At that time the Austrians won decided successes during the initial days of the fighting and pressed on to the edge of the Italian plan, only to be stopped and driven back.

"In the east, German naval operations in the vicinity of the islands at the mouth of the Finnish Gulf were not carried through, with serious losses, both in men and material.

"The Russian resistance apparently is consolidating.

"The Germans, using the islands as a base, have now gained a foothold on the adjacent mainland.

"The first landing on the Werder Peninsula at the northern end of the Gulf of Riga was successfully carried out. A further attempt at another point failed.

"It is not probable that the Germans will undertake for the time being more than a strengthening of the positions now held in the Riga sector.

"The retirement of the advanced enemy lines to a depth of fifteen miles in the region of the Dwina is reported.

"Engagements of some magnitude are noted along the Rumanian and Macedonian fronts, where artillery duels and raids are increasing in frequency. These, however, are not of more than local importance.

"In Mesopotamia the British are continuing and consolidating their advance, driving enemy detachments out of important tactical points on the flanks, thus strengthening their whole line of defense.

"Rumors of an important move by the Turks, reinforced by certain picked German and Austrian units under the command of General Falkenhayn, which have repeatedly been reported throughout the Near East, have as yet failed to materialize.

"The training of our troops in France progresses steadily and favorably. Certain units have taken their places in the front line trenches under actual battle conditions."

WAR CONDUCT IS ONLY TOPIC

Bonar Law Says Allied Conference Won't Discuss Aims.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons today informed a questioner that the approaching inter-allied conference at Paris had been summoned not to consider war aims but the conduct of the war.

The question arose out of a report that the Russian Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates were sending a representative to the conference to discuss war aims.

PACIFIST WHIPPED IN KUKLUX STYLE

INVOKE BELGIAN SUFFERERS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Herbert S. Bigelow, head of the People's Church of this city, one of the leaders of the People's Council, Socialist, and pacifist, who was seized as he was about to enter a hall in Newport, Ky., across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, to deliver a Socialist speech last night, thrust into a waiting automobile and spirited away, was taken into a dense woods near Florence, Ky., about midnight, tied to a tree and horsewhipped by men "who wore long robes and hoods, similar to those described as worn by the renowned Kuklux Klan, according to a report received here from Florence.

The report said the abductors, with Bigelow gagged and handcuffed, worked their way to the middle of the woods. There they removed the handcuffs long enough to disrobe Bigelow, then they tied him to a tree. One of the leaders then read these words from a sheet of paper, with the light of a lantern held by one of his associates reflected over his shoulder:

At a signal a man clad from head to foot in white stepped out of a huge circle that had been formed, produced a long blacksnake whip, and delivered numerous lashes upon the back of Bigelow. The ropes were then cut. Bigelow was warned to stay away from Cincinnati, and was released, while the members of the party made their way back to their waiting automobiles and disappeared.

Bigelow wandered an hour in the woods. Seeing a church spire in the distance, he made his way there, finding himself in Florence, twenty miles from this city. At the home of Dr. H. K. Grant, he received medical attention. He stayed up the remainder of the night writing in detail his experiences of the evening. It was not until late in the morning that he notified his friends in this city where he was.

His Condition Serious.

He was removed to a hospital in this city. It was said there tonight that he was resting under the influence of opiates, but that his condition was quite serious. His physician said he counted forty whip welts on Bigelow's back.

A man's voice, calling up by telephone at Bigelow's home today, said the speaker was one of those who were in the kidnapping party, and that "the protestations of loyalty made by Mr. Bigelow today are accepted at their face value, and that Mr. Bigelow is free to remain in this vicinity, subject to his remaining loyal in the future."

Attorney Edward Alexander of counsel for Bigelow has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person connected with the kidnapping and whipping of Bigelow. Investigations are under way, and friends of Bigelow say they will be prosecuted until the guilty persons are apprehended and dealt with according to the law.

It was reported in Newport today that among those seen in the vicinity of the hall just before Bigelow was seized were several members of the Home Guard. This could not be confirmed, however.

Bigelow's written statement bears out the earlier story of the abduction and whipping. He said that before being taken into the woods, he was blindfolded, then a bag was thrown over his head, henco he had no idea of the locality or of the direction in which he was being led. He said oil was poured over his head after the lashes were administered. Owing to the men "wearing long white robes," Bigelow said, he was unable to recognize any of them. He said he did not know the men who seized him in Newport; he asked where he was to be taken and received the answer, "to headquarters."

He says that owing to the darkness he was unable to ascertain how many persons made up the party. Residents along the Lexington Pike said they saw a line of twenty-two autos pass on the way to Florence, some of which were so crowded that they were carrying men on the running boards.

"An experience of this kind shakes one's faith in the doctrine of non-resistance," said Bigelow in his statement. "It has converted me, at least temporarily, to the gospel of preparedness. As these chivalrous gentlemen have notified me to leave Cincinnati in thirty-six hours I am going to apply both to the municipal and Federal Government for their protection.

"Two men were left to guard me in the woods. One pointed a revolver at me and ordered me to sit down. I asked him in what direction home was and how far away I was. He pointed in the direction in which we had come and said it was quite a distance. He told me that I should inquire my way at a certain farm house, the first house on the right.

Feared to Go to the House.

"After he left I began to speculate on why they put oil on my hair. The only theory that seemed reasonable was that it was intended for identification later. I concluded that others might be waiting at that house to do a deed which the big crowd couldn't be trusted to witness and that the oil was put on to make sure that the wrong man would not be assassinated. So I decided to go in the other direction.

"I had walked about two hours when first one machine and then another came up in my rear. I eluded both of them. Once I stepped into a field of standing corn; the second machine I escaped by climbing over a bridge and dropping down on a railroad track.

"I knew I was walking in the direction of Erlanger, as I inquired my way of a couple in a buggy. I saw what was evidently the steeple of a Catholic church and determined to go to the house of a priest. While looking for this house I saw the sign of Dr. Grant. I knocked, and the door of a good Samaritan was opened unto me.

"I want the Kaiser sent the way that Nicholas Romanoff went. I desire nothing in all the world so much as to see the achievement of all the war aims which President Wilson announced in his address of Jan. 22."

Federal authorities recently conducted a raid on Bigelow's office in Cincinnati, where documents concerning the activities of the local People's Council was seized. Sunday afternoon, at his People's Church services, Bigelow prayed for "the repose of the soul of Emperor William and the proud men surrounding him."

In 1902 Bigelow was the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State of Ohio. He was a delegate from Hamilton County to the Constitutional Convention in 1912, and was elected by this convention as its President. For the last few years he has been actively associated with the Socialist Party.

Offers Reward for Kidnappers.

Dr. Frederic H. Robinson, publisher of The Medical Review of Reviews, prompted by humane motives, it was said yesterday, sent telegrams to the Cincinnati newspapers offering a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension and conviction of any of the Bigelow kidnappers. Dr. Robinson said his offer was not inspired by the fact that Bigelow was a pacifist. He said his attorney would leave for Cincinnati today to get full details.

CAPTURE VON LUCKNER, SEEADLER COMMANDER

Fiji Islanders Picked Up Leader and Five Members of German Raiding Party.

A PACIFIC PORT, Oct. 29.—Count von Luckner, commander of the German raider Seeadler, was captured on Sept. 21 off the Fiji Islands by Fijian constabulary, according to word brought by a steamer arriving today from a trans-Pacific port.

Five German members of the Seeadler's crew were taken with their commander, officers of the arriving vessel said. The Germans were in an armed launch, and were pursued by the constables, who were aboard the steamer Amra. This report of the capture of the Germans confirms a message to this effect received some time ago from Australia.

Just what became of the others of the Seeadler's crew is not known. One report was that they were at sea in a commandeered vessel.

The Seeadler, wrecked on the Mohepa Islands in the South Pacific some months ago, sank three American vessels during her cruise in the Pacific. Previously, in the Atlantic, she put an end to sixteen vessels of various types.

News of the destruction of the Seeadler was announced in Washington on Oct. 4.

Where Progress Begins

TRUST company functions are common to all trust companies. All operate under the same legal safeguards. The difference comes in the individuals who administer the institution's affairs, and the individuals who use its banking and trust facilities. For the officers and depositors of a banking institution not to know each other, argues a mutual lack of recognition of how to get the most out of the banking relation. Are you getting better and better acquainted with your banking connections? They, with you? Progress begins at this point.

As the cockney craftsman observed: "It isn't the fit, it's the 'ang!"

The dictum is a little general, but it'll do, if we add, that Aquascutum collars and shoulders fit firmly and fondly, like a woman's farewell.

Thereafter they develop a free and easy immobility of line which is essentially English and would be essential if it wasn't English.

CANADIANS HEROIC AT BELLEVUE SPUR

GERMAN DEFENSE STUBBORN

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 28.—The most important position in the attack yesterday was given to the Canadians to carry, and the story of their capture of Bellevue spur is fine and thrilling as an act of persistent courage by bodies of men struggling against great hardships and under great fire.

It was only a little while ago that these Canadians were fighting round Lens, and there can be no worry for brave men if the character and quality of that fighting are already forgotten. The taking of Hill 70, the fight to the death of two battalions who met the enemy in No Man's Land, and the hand-to-hand struggles in the streets and tunnels of Lens.

I think the Canadians were sorry to come up into the Ypres salient, though it is an old ground of theirs. But they did not shirk the task of assaulting the higher slopes of Passchendaele above the ground carried by the Australians in the great battles of September and October.

Nothing that they did at Courcelette and Vimy and round about Lens was finer than the way in which on Friday they fought their way up Bellevue spur, were beaten back by an intense and destructive fire, and then, reorganizing, went back through the wounded and scaled the slope again and drove the German machine gunners out of their blockhouses.

I have seen those Germans as prisoners of the Canadians. They are men of the Eleventh Bavarian Division, which includes the Third Bavarian Infantry regiment and two reserve infantry regiments.

The other day I wrote about the undersized, half-witted fellows who were caught by the British and said that the German Army must be wearing thin if they sent recruits like this. These Bavarian soldiers are not undersized, but tall, proper men and stout fellows who fought hard. They carried their mud with a certain swagger, not as men who had surrendered easily, and were not utterly dejected like so many of the prisoners. They had been picked to hold Bellevue because of their good morale and they were full of confidence in their defensive position.

They were perched up above the swamps through which the Canadians had to wade to get at them. They had plenty of concrete houses for their shelter and their machine guns. The weather was in their favor. They guessed that the British would try to attack them again, but they looked at the floods and the rainclouds and felt safe, or pretty safe.

For some reason of psychology, which is greatly influenced by shell fire, these men of the Eleventh Bavarian Division were not mutinous against discipline like other Bavarians who are cursing the Prussians because of too much fighting and maligning and jeering at the officers or refusing to go into the forward positions like 800 men of the Ninety-ninth Reserve Infantry Regiment, who, according to a prisoner, revolted against going into the line at Lens. They were all sent to prison, says the man, and seem to have been very well pleased with the change.

A look at a contour map explained the reason why the Eleventh Bavarians were satisfied with their defensive position at Bellevue on Goudberg or Meetschele spur, which strikes out westward from the main Passchendaele ridge. The deep gully of Ravebeek runs below the slopes on which Bellevue is raised, and down there there is one filthy swamp of mud and water. On the other side of the gully is a hill which rises to Passchendaele, and the separate hummock of Crest farm, southeast of that high pile of ruins, which commands a long, wide view of the plains beyond.

Commanded Slopes Both Ways.

Bellevue on the one side and Crest Farm and Passchendaele on the other support each other from attack, and from their blockhouses they are able to sweep machine gun fire upon any bodies of men advancing up either slope. So the Australians found in the great attack on Oct. 12, and had to fall back, when Passchendaele itself was almost in their grip, because of an enfilade fire from the ground about Bellevue, while other Australians, trying to work up these slopes on the west side of Ravebeek, were terribly scourged by a machine gun barrage.

The Canadians knew all that. They, too, had the black luck of that terrible twelfth of October when the English and New Zealand and Australian troops advanced into bogs, struggled through a sea of mud and failed to gain a great victory, not by lack of valor, for the courage of them all was almost superhuman, or rather human as we know it in this war, but the sheer impossibility of getting one leg after the other in the slime that covered all this ground.

It was as bad on Friday morning and worse. Rain had poured down all night and the shell craters brimmed over and every track was so slippery that men with packs and rifles fell at every few steps. Beyond the dockboard tracks there were no tracks for 1,500 yards and there was a morass knee deep and sticky so that the men had to haul each other to get unstuck.

In the darkness and the pouring rain and shellfire it was hard going. The nightmare of reality was worse than a black dream but the men got to their places and lay in the mud and hoped that they were not seen.

As I said in my last message, some of them seem to have been seen by hostile aircraft, coming out before the moon went down, and the enemy's guns ravaged the ground, searching for them.

Canadians Under Fierce Fire.

The right body of Canadian troops worked up toward Crest Farm along the main Passchendaele Ridge, that is to say, on the right of the Ravebeek Gully. Their ground here was very bad, but nothing like that on the left below Bellevue. They got close to Duck Wood, where there are a few stumps of trees to give a meaning to the name and on their right other troops pushed forward toward a decline in the wood which protected their flank.

Heavy machine-gun fire came at them out of Duck Wood from shell craters and pill boxes, and the enemy shelled very fiercely all around them with high explosives. A great number of whizzbangs from the field batteries fell very close to them just below Passchendaele. All the Canadian soldiers speak of these whizzbangs directed, after the ground was taken, by low-flying airplanes which signaled with flash lamps or with a round or two of machine-gun fire when their observers saw any group of men. The signals were answered rapidly by the flight of the small shells.

From a tactical point of view, apart from the hardships and perils of the men, the situation on the Canadians' right was good. They had their ground and would have found it easier to hold if all had been well on the other side of Ravebeek.

Up by Bellevue all was not well. There at that time the Canadian troops on the left were having the same tragic adventure as befell the Australians in the same place two weeks before. In trying to work up beyond Peter Pan House they were caught in a mass of mud, and moving slowly behind their barrage, came under the fire of many machine guns worked by the Eleventh Bavarians from a row of blockhouses along the road running across the crest of the ridge and from other strong points above and below that line.

The Canadian Brigade made desperate attempts to get as far as those little forts, and small parties of grim, resolute fellows did get a footing on the higher slopes, scrambling and stumbling and falling with the deadly swish of bullets about them, and those Bavarians waiting for them with their thumbs on the triggers of the weapons behind the walls.

It was difficult to get news of that heroic Canadian brigade. Mists and smoke lay low over them and no signals or messages came back. An airman who flew along the line to work in contact with the guns, could see nothing at 2,000 feet, nothing when he risked his wings at 1,000 feet, and nothing still on another journey at half that height. The Canadian rockets were all wet and no light answered the airman's signals. Ten times he flew along the line, twice, at last, within 200 yards of the ground when he did see the infantry struggling through the enemy's lash of bullets.

A bit of shrapnel or shell casing smashed through the airman's engine and his wings were pierced. He flew in a staggering way on our side of the lines and crashed down and got back with his report.

Rally for Winning Attack.

The next news was not good, it looked like a tragedy. Under continuous fire the Canadian brigade had to fall back from Bellevue almost to its original lines.

It was then that the officers and men of this Canadian brigade showed of what stuff they were made of—stuff of spirit and of body. Imagine them, those muddy wet men with their ranks thinned out by losses up those hellish slopes of Bellevue and with all their efforts gone to nothing as they gathered together in the mist on low ground. It was enough to take the heart out of these men.

Strengthened by a small body of Canadian comrades they reformed and attacked again. It was great and splendid of them.

The barrage was brought back and the lines of its shell fire moved slowly before them again as when they had first started. So they began all over again the struggle through which they had already been and went out again into its abomination. Even now I do not know how they gained success where they had failed. I doubt whether they know. The enemy was still up the slopes and on the slopes, still protected in his concrete and with his machine guns undamaged. But these Canadians worked their way forward in small packs and each man among them must have been inspired by a kind of rage to get close to the blockhouses and have done with them. They went through those who had fallen in the first attack and others fell, but there were enough of them to close around the concrete forts and put them out of action.

The garrisons of these places, thirty in the largest of them and fifteen to twenty in the smaller kind, had been told to hold them until they were killed or captured. They obeyed their orders, but preferred capture when the Canadians swarmed about them and gave them the choice. There were about 400 prisoners brought down from Bellevue and nearly all of them were taken from blockhouses on the way up to the crest and from the row of them along the road which goes across the crest.

It was a few hours before the enemy behind launched his counterattacks, after a heavy shelling of Bellevue, which he now knew was lost to him—a bitter surprise to his regimental and divisional commanders. It is uncertain what delayed his counterattacks, but mud had something to do with it, for on the German side as well as on ours there are swamps in which tall men sink to their necks and bogs in which they are stuck to their knees, so badly that some of our prisoners lost their boots in getting free of this grip.

It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the first German column tried to advance upon Bellevue from the northern end of the spur. These troops were caught in our barrage and shattered. Half an hour later another heavy attack was delivered against the Canadians on the Passchendaele Ridge, and this was repulsed after close and fierce fighting, in which sixty prisoners were taken by our side.

Endured Suffering Heroically.

The price of victory for the Canadians was heavy in physical suffering. Unwounded men as well as wounded had to endure agonies of wetness and coldness, and thirst, and exhaustion. It was only their hardness which enabled them to endure. They lay in the cold slime, and a drop of rum would have been an elixir vitae to them.

Away behind the carrying parties were stuck in bogs as fighting men had been stuck. A pack of mules was floundering in shell craters. Men were rescuing their comrades out of pits and then sinking themselves and crying for help. At ten yards distance no shout was heard because of the roar of gunfire, the howling of shells and the high wailing of the wind.

"I saw some fellows in front of me," said a wounded lad, "and I helloed to them because I wanted company and a bit of help, but they didn't hear all my helloing. They went faster than I could and I could not catch up with them because my leg was bad."

"It was water we wanted most," said a young Canadian, "and some of us went for days thirsty in the front line. No blame was due anybody. It was that condition of ground."

"I had a poisoned finger," said a young field gunner, "and my arm swelled up, but I couldn't leave the battery before the show, as they were shorthanded."

Meanwhile, on the left of our line, around the flooded areas west of Houlthulst Forest, the French made great progress on Friday and Saturday. The Belgians made a dash, too. A small party of Belgian soldiers crossed the marshes in a punt, found the ground deserted by the enemy, and went forward at a great pace to join the French in a freshly captured village.

The French have cleared a great tract of marshland during these two days' operations, cleared it of men and cleared it of guns which the enemy had just time to drag away around a spit of land on the edge of the floods.

These floods are very deep and broad. Above Bixschoote and below Dixmude, where the St. Jansbeek slops over by Langewaarde and swirls around a peninsula of mud, the French on Friday routed out the German outposts which guarded that mud bank several thousand yards in length. Yesterday the French made a bigger attack above St. Jansbeek and Draibank.

Before their gallant infantrymen advanced through these bogs—for it is all bog—the French gunners were in full orchestra and played a terrible symphony on the 75's and 120's. Then, under cover of this fury of fire, the French infantry advanced in waves. In spite of the ground they went very fast and very far, and spread out in a fan-shaped phalanx between Merckem and Aschoop.

Their field guns are now able to enfilade Houlthulst Forest on the western side, and the German guns north of that must be making their escape. This is an important tactical success which will make Houlthulst Forest less tenable by the enemy.

FRENCH RUSH BIG GUNS TO NEW AISNE FRONT

Gains Consolidated Without Interference by the Shattered German Army.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE ARMY OF THE AISNE, Sunday, Oct. 28, (via London, Oct. 29.)—The occupation on Friday morning of La Royere and Les Bovettes Farms, the village of Filain, and the low ground thence to the canal, rounds off General Maistre's great victory, which will be remembered as one of the most complete, clean, and smashing successes of the war. With this news and that of General Anthoine's fine advance on the British left in Flanders, the French Army is in high spirits.

I spent yesterday examining the central part of the French front, and particularly the plateau and Fort of Malmaison. It was a day of practically undisturbed consolidation and forward movement.

Only on such days following a victory one fully appreciates the magnitude and intricacy of the war machine. The normal movement of supply service and army reliefs is impressive enough and demands a fearful and wonderful organization, but for the whole host to get under way is possible only after the sound establishment of a new front on a wide stretch of country, swarmed like an ant hill and humming like a beehive. Everything has to be shifted forward two, three, or four miles.

First of all, new roads have to be built, and on this task thousands of Territorials and African and Asiatic natives are now engaged. Then the batteries must get into new emplacements. This is very rapid, for you cannot afford to have the guns out of action. A good many were sent far up, riskily far up, before and during the battle. Now the whole artillery system has to be permanently recased in new dugouts.

Dressing stations and stores of all kinds in the new camps have to be designed and set up, and all the time on the extreme front they are digging trenches, building shelters, and getting up stocks of ammunition and food.

One might define a clean victory at this stage of the war as one in which the enemy has received such a blow that he cannot pull himself together fast enough to interfere with these movements before they are practically completed. Such is the German case today. The enemy artillery has been captured to the extent of at least 160 pieces and destroyed to an extent probably greater. The remainder had to be dragged back as far as the French guns have been put forward.

Yesterday the French batteries were moderately active, but, like B'r'er Rabbit, Mr. Boche lay low and said nothing. The endless files of guns, caissons, motor wagons and hooded carts wound snakelike up and down. Men who had lived through the battle came down and reliefs went up.

Accustomed as one grows to the débris of a battlefield, it is impossible not to be shocked at such a spectacle as that presented on the ridge of the Aisne heights at Hurtebise. When I climbed up there a couple of months ago it was but a narrow saddle of tortured soil. Now on the Malmaison Plateau we have a broad plain on which there is not left a square foot of grass, around the edges of which every tree is shattered, every bush burned, every yard of which, and I speak literally, has been worked into a thick brown paste by explosions of shells, mines, and bombs and by millions of bullets.

We passed over a faint trace of crossroad, that is to say underlying chalk appeared through an expanse of brown mud and waterlogged shellholes. It was over the famous Chemin des Dames that we were picking our way carefully, so as not to strike an unexploded shell or grenade.

We passed faint traces of two old lines of German trenches, and so reached a deep ditch, long dry and now shapeless, surrounding the Fort of Malmaison. The capture of the fort was a shorter and easier operation than my first information indicated. There was no tunnel from the fort to the neighboring quarries, as had been thought. The structure of the fort was so broken by the French big guns that of itself it could not have been long defended. The outer wall is not simply smashed, but for the most part submerged in the earth.

There is here little occasion for military moralizing, because the Fort of Malmaison had long ceased to deserve its name. After being used as a butt for experimental artillery fire it had been sold to a builder, who had begun before the war to dig out the stone for use in constructing barracks in Laon. The fort had therefore only a trivial value.

Every high point of this and the neighboring plateau is available for observatories, and from one point or another the whole of the new German front will be under constant and deadly vigilance. I looked at it over the broad, quiet prospect northwestward toward Coucy Forest, northward to the Mont Bavin Plateau, up the valley to Laon, northeastward to the Monampereuil Plateau, and eastward along the Aillette Valley and the Chemin des Dames.

FRENCH THRUST BACK GERMANS ON MEUSE

FOG PALL OVER FLANDERS

Sharp Artillery Fighting There, but Infantry Hampered—Haig Praises Canadians.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The sharpest fighting on the western front reported today was near Chaume Wood, northwest of Verdun, where the German Crown Prince's Army made a strong assault on advanced French positions. The attack was preceded by a violent bombardment. In the infantry advance, the Germans gained a footing for about 500 yards north of Courrières Wood, but were soon subjected to a counterattack, which drove them from most of the ground they had gained.

On the Aisne and Yser fronts, the artillery exchanges were severe, but there was no important action. The British and French are consolidating their recent gains in Flanders.

Today's official statement says:

We raided the enemy's trenches last night opposite Warneton. A hostile reconnoitring party was repulsed in the neighborhood of Reutel.

In the course of yesterday's operations north of Marckem a Belgian patrol captured a German post of twenty-one men. Early in the night Belgian troops carried out a successful raid north of Dixmude and brought back twenty-three prisoners and a machine gun.

Aviation—Sunday the weather was fine, but a thick haze overhung the lines, greatly hindering work in the air. Our low-flying airplanes fired a great many rounds at the enemy troops in their trenches and shell holes. During the day over 100 bombs were dropped by us on hostile airdromes and billets. At night the Gontrode airdrome, the Courtrai station, and the billets and railway station in the neighborhood of Roulers were bombed. There was not much fighting, owing to the mist. One German machine was brought down, and one was driven down out of control. One of our machines is missing.

The official statement from British Headquarters in France and Belgium issued tonight reads:

A detachment of Inniskilling Fusiliers entered the enemy trenches this afternoon northeast of Croisilles southeast of Arras) and captured a few prisoners.

Successful raids, in which a number of prisoners were taken, were carried out early this morning by Belgian troops north and south of Dixmude. On the battle front the hostile artillery has been active north of the Ypres-Roulers railway. Our own artillery has shown great activity northeast of Ypres.

Haig Congratulates Troops.

In a dispatch from the British front in Belgium The Associated Press correspondent says:

"The striking victory won by the British on Friday last just west of Passchendaele has called out high praise from Field Marshal Haig. In a telegram sent on Saturday to Lieut. Gen. Sir Herbert Plumer, commander of the army which made this remarkable drive through the marsh lands, the Field Marshal said:

"'The successes gained by your troops yesterday under such conditions are deserving of the highest praise. While all the troops did well and contributed materially to the results achieved, the performance of the Canadian division in particular was remarkably fine. The ground gained is of high importance, and I congratulate you and all under you on the results of the great efforts made.'"

Paris Reports Meuse Attack.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Today's War Office statement reads:

South of St. Quentin we made an attack which enabled us to bring back a machine gun and prisoners.

On the Aisne front spirited artillery fighting occurred near Hurtebise, and in the sector north of Vaudesson.

On the right bank of the Meuse the German artillery violently bombarded our positions on the front between Chaume Wood and Bezonvaux. An attack followed. The enemy, beaten back by our fire, was not able to approach our lines except at a single point north of Caurrières Wood, where he gained a footing for a distance of about 500 meters in our advanced positions. Our troops counterattacked immediately, and regained the greater part of the occupied ground. We took prisoners.

The communication issued tonight reads:

During the course of the day the artillery action was maintained with violence on the right bank of the Meuse, in the sector of Chaume Wood-Bezonvaux. There was intermittent cannonading on the rest of the front.

Belgian Communication.—Our troops carried out last night several raids north and south of Dixmude. South of Dixmude a detachment went beyond a line of support and brought back in all about fifty prisoners and several machine guns. Our troops blew up several enemy bomb throwers and shelters. During the day our batteries continued the destruction of numerous enemy works and batteries. The German artillery responded only feebly.

Berlin Reports Hot Artillery Fire.

BERLIN, Oct. 29, (via London.)—The official report from Army Headquarters tonight says:

Western Front.—Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht—Mist and fog restricted the fighting activity in Flanders, but nevertheless the artillery activity along the Yser has been lively and reached great violence, especially near Dixmude, during the night. Attacks by enemy detachments north of the [illegible] failed.

Between the Houlthulst Wood and the Lys the enemy directed some strong waves of firing on our fighting zone. Some English infantry advancing behind drumfire and smoke shells attacked north of the Boesinghe-Staden Railway. The storming waves collapsed as a result of our defense.

Army of the German Crown Prince—On the Chemin des Dames strong French forces attacked twice after violent artillery preparation near Braye. As the result of our fire and at some places counterthrusts by our trench garrison, the enemy had to retreat. He sustained heavy losses and left prisoners in our hands.

On isolated sectors of the Flanders front and along the Chemin des Dames the artillery duels were livelier.

London Papers Discuss Americans' First Shot in France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Commenting on the American expeditionary force's first shot in France, The Daily News says:

"Germany by her own act has called the New World to redress the balance of the Old. The balance will be redressed."

The Daily Graphic says:

"Descendants of the embattled farmers of Concord have fired a shot which, like that of the Minutemen, will be heard round the world. As in the American war of independence, so today in the great world conflict the initial round of the American battery on the western front has been fired for freedom. We realize today as never before that the revolt of the American colonies was a rebellion of the free spirit of man against Teutonic despotism, and as it was the Germanism of George III. which severed America from England, so it is the Germanism of the Kaiser which has ranged the fighting men of America by the side of the Allies." victory. however long delayed, is assured. It warns that this does not justify a relaxation of British efforts.

SHEDS NO LIGHT ON 'RED-HEAD'

War Department Answers Query on Firer of First Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A telegram received by Secretary of War Baker today read:

"Press dispatches contain the information that the first shot fired by American troops in France was by a red-headed gunner. Will you kindly furnish me his name for honorary membership in the Clemmer Red-Head Club of Spokane—the only organization of its kind in the world?

"HOWARD S. CLEMMER,
"President."

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS FOR MITCHEL

relief has actually been given to the mother who needed it most, to enable her to keep her home and keep her children in it, instead of sending the children out to be taken care of in institutions.

"I could tell you how under Mitchel this city has for the first time taken the lead in matters of charities and corrections; in the matter of education; so that instead of being held up everywhere as it was, instead of being held up everywhere as a conspicuous instance of the failure of democracy, during the last four years New York City has become a city where the conditions are studied by men who live in other cities, so that they may in other cities copy the principles of good government that have worked here.

"Now friends, by accident it is always possible anywhere to elect a good man. The test of the people comes in retaining that good man in office. [Applause.] Now Mitchel has stood by you; it is up to you to stand by Mitchel.

"It will be a real misfortune, it will be a matter of lasting damage to this city, if you make the average political organization, and, above all, the unspeakably sordid political organization of Tammany Hall, feel that they needn't trouble to give good government, that they needn't trouble to take care of the welfare of the average man and average woman, that people don't remember that if a man stands up like a man, does his work as a man, he will tread on so many feet that he will pay for it at the next election. The prime need in our democracy is to make the public servant feel that if he stands squarely by the people, the people will stand squarely by him. . . .

"The Chance for the People."

"And this is the chance for the people of New York, a chance they have not had for over fifty years—I speak of the time I have seen myself—this is the chance for the people of New York to impress the politicians of New York with the fact that if a public servant stands by them they will stand by him. I really don't feel that it is Mitchel who is on trial, as much as I feel that it is the people of New York who are on trial.

"And now, my friends, so much—and I have to speak briefly, as you see—so much for this election from the local standpoint; but in addition to the local issue, the issue of good government, there is a much greater question involved in this election, and it is because of that greater question that I feel that a man from outside the city, although, remember, I was born in this city, and I was the eighth in line from father to son who was born here, so I have middling straight New York blood in me—that is why I feel that we have a right to come to you—and, understand, I am speaking of Mr. Mitchel, and, of course, I am speaking for the entire Fusion ticket, it is not enough only to elect the Mayor, you have got to elect Mr. Prendergast and Mr. Adamson, and all five Borough Presidents, because if you don't, extravagance and jobbery can be carried on, no matter what the Mayor may do.

"You have to elect Judge Ransome District Attorney because you want to have a man whom nothing in the world could prevent from doing what is straight and that no consideration in the [illegible] would induce to pardon what is crooked.

"[illegible] got to put Lyons and all his associates in office, and I speak of Lyons—he was with me, he was in the Spanish war. [Applause.] It was a very little war, but it was all the war there was. [Laughter.] You have got to support the whole ticket, the judiciary, support it all, so as to back up this administration. I am speaking for Mr. Mitchel and I am speaking for his colleagues. I am speaking for the entire administration and for what that administration has done during the last four years.

Takes Up National Issue.

"But, as I said, in addition to the issue of good government we have the national issue of Americanism injected into this campaign. The foes of Mr. Mitchel have asked, 'Why should he drape himself in the American flag?' I can answer. It is because that flag would look out of place on either of the two other candidates. [Applause.] You may notice, gentlemen, I say 'two other candidates.' I am not speaking of Mr. Bennett. I like Mr. Bennett and I am therefore very, very sorry that he should be in this fight as a decoy duck for Mr. Hylan.

"You do not have to take my word for it. Mr. Hylan's—I was going to say two backers—but I ought to say perhaps that Mr. Hylan is one-half Mr. Hearst and one-half Mr. Murphy. And Mr. Hearst has been boasting that he nominated Mr. Bennett and has been championing Mr. Bennett. It is not that he cares a snap of his fingers for Mr. Bennett. He would not back Mr. Bennett if there was any earthly chance of electing him. He is backing Mr. Bennett because he knows that every good citizen who votes for Mr. Bennett throws away his vote and deprives himself of the chance of doing the only thing, of doing the duty of every good American at this time, of supporting Mr. Mitchel. We have then the two other candidates. Now, let me explain. The Socialist candidate—— [Applause.]

Voice: "He is a traitor!"

"The Socialist candidate in this election does not stand for Socialism primarily. He stands as an aid to the Prussianized autocracy of the Hohenzollerns. [Applause.]

Calls Hillquit "Ally of the Hun."

"I do not like the Hun outside our gates, but I tell you I like him more than I like the Hun inside our gates. [Great applause.] I have seen in the press the verbatim reports, repeatedly, of Mr. Hillquit, that he won't buy a Liberty bond, [applause,] saying that he wished to prevent in any way he could the success of the loan; that he was against the loan because he did not wish us to have victory in this war, because he wished a negotiated peace now; saying that he wishes to see the nations of the world make a negotiated peace, although he well knows that is the peace which the Prussianized Germany of the Hohenzollerns now demands.

"Now, friends, the man who takes that position is—I don't care whether he calls himself Socialist, pacifist, or anything else—the man who takes that position is the ally of the Hun in world politics. [Applause.] He is playing the game of the most ruthless militaristic autocracy that the world has seen; that has been armed with weapons of modern scientific civilization. The man who takes that position is against the United States and for Germany. [Several voices, "Right, right!" Applause.]

"Now, wait a minute. Mr. Hillquit says that he has not purchased a Liberty bond; that he won't purchase a Liberty bond. Now, you people think what that means. It means that if enough of our citizens followed Mr. Hillquit's advice and did not purchase those bonds our soldiers would go against the soldiers of the Hohenzollern with broomsticks instead of rifles. Mr. Hillquit won't purchase a Liberty bond. The brother or son of any of you who is down at Yaphank when the Winter comes on and wears a cotton uniform instead of a woolen uniform, when he has not got an overcoat—why? It will be because enough men have followed Mr. Hillquit's example and not purchased Liberty bonds. The men who try to defeat the Liberty Loan, the men who say that they won't purchase the Liberty bonds because they wish a peace, a peace that means the triumph of Germany, those men are helping the Hun against Uncle Sam.

"They are helping the forces of this country against the people of this country. We have our sons and brothers on the other side of the water or out in the camps here, drafted to do their work. We have those men prepared to fight for democracy and liberty. We have to raise the money to put them on an equality with their foes. The man who refuses to buy a Liberty bond, although he has the money, the man who says he won't buy it as a matter of political principle, is endeavoring to deprive our sons and brothers of their equipment, of their blankets, of their coats."

[A voice: "Don't buy a Socialist bond." There was considerable confusion and the man was ejected from the hall.]

Colonel Roosevelt: "Leave everybody inside you can. I would be glad to have him listen."

After the interruption Colonel Roosevelt went on:

"Friends, I want to repeat, there is no chance at this time of being a half and half American. If you are not for the United States in this war then you are against the United States. We are to decide whether we have got a country, or whether we have simply got a polyglot boarding house. [Laughter and applause.] If we have got a country, then stand by it. It is up to us to fight for it, or back the men who are doing the fighting. There can be nothing baser than to endeavor to handicap the men who are in the field, and to provide them with food and clothing and equipment in order that they may fight for us. Now, I hear some people say now and then, 'Why have we sent our men across the water to fight?' The answer is easy—so that they don't have to fight at home.

"We have sent them across the water to fight beside our allies so that they won't have to fight in the ruins of our cities without allies. [Applause.]

"But now, friends, there is one point upon which I sympathize with Mr. Hillquit. He was reported as saying the other day that everybody knew where Mitchel stood, and everybody knew where he stood—and they do—Mr. Mitchel is for the United States, [applause,] but that nobody knew where Mr. Hylan stood. [Laughter.] I think there he was quite right. I suppose Mr. Hylan had not had a chance to ask Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy where he did stand.

"Now, friends, in speaking of Mr. Hylan I do not speak about the man at all, because I do not think him important enough to speak of. I speak of him only as representing the alliance of Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy. And I don't have to say anything about either Mr. Hearst or Mr. Murphy except to refer you to what each has said of the other in time past. Each has objected in the strongest terms to the other, and that attitude has been creditable to both. [Laughter.]

"Now, it is not often that you get a campaign where the names of the two backers—if I felt unkind I would say 'proprietors'—of the candidate are sufficient to excuse any man from discussing the candidate himself, but that is the case in this particular contest. Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy have disagreed in the past. They have come together now. Mr. Murphy, I believe—I don't know—I believe that he is interested primarily in securing the government of this city, and Mr. Hearst's attitude toward the war has been such as to make patriotic Americans feel that he is one of the efficient allies of Germany on this side of the water. We can't afford, from the national standpoint, or from the standpoint of the interests of this city, to put in power the nominee of Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy.

Voting for a Symbol.

"You are voting for a symbol if you vote for Mr. Hylan. You are putting this great city back into the grip of Tammany. You are voting to re-establish Mr. Murphy and Mr. Hearst in control of this city.

"Now, gentlemen, if there is one thing that we, who live in a free democratic country, should insist upon, it is that our rulers should be the men who hold office and not the men behind those who hold office. We want to know that the man who is in power over us is the man whom we wish to hold accountable. As long as Mr. Mitchel is in office every human being knows that the man who is Mayor is the man who tells the Mayor what to do. [Applause.]

"If Mr. Hylan were elected, and then a question came up, we might all of us speculate as to how Mr. Hearst felt about it, and how Mr. Murphy felt about it, but nobody would think of asking how Mr. Hylan felt about it. Now I ask you, and, as I said, while I don't agree with Mr. Hillquit in much of anything else, I do entirely agree with him in saying that his position is clear, and Mitchel's position is clear, but I would like to know what Mr. Hylan's position has been on Americanism, on the war, on everything of that kind. I would like to know it. As I said, Mr. Hillquit has placed himself beside the shadow Huns; Mr. Mitchel has placed himself squarely and straight on the platform of Americanism. [Applause.]

"Now, I should like to know whether Mr. Hylan is the shadow of a shadow Hun, or whether he is prepared on sufficient provocation to be a 'me, too' type of American. I hope we shall have enlightenment. I don't look for it from Mr. Hylan, because he seems by his actions to be averse to enlightenment, but I hope to see some of his sponsors tell us what his position is.

"Now, friends, I came here because it is of the utmost consequence for America that the Government of the City of New York should continue to be carried on on the plane on which it has been carried on for four years. I come here, furthermore, because the issue of Americanism has been injected into this campaign, and I accept the challenge of our foes. [Applause.] They say that Mr. Mitchel wraps himself in the American flag. I say that he is the only candidate that can do it and make us understand that he means it.

"I ask you to support the Fusion ticket because it represents all of our citizenship, because it represents a sincere purpose to put and to keep this city on the highest plane of socialized justice. I ask you to support Mr. Mitchel and his colleagues because every vote that you cast for Mitchel means a vote that will hearten every true American in the United States, and because the man who votes against Mitchel will have the poor satisfaction of feeling that he has voted in a way that will give comfort to the Prussianized Germany that we are fighting at this moment." [Great applause.]

Colonel Roosevelt also made a speech last night to 3,000 cheering negroes at the Palace Casino, 14 East 135th Street. The Colonel prefaced his speech by saying:

"In the first place, I want to say to you that it is a very real pleasure to be here. The last time we met I addressed my remarks to people of your color in Carnegie Hall, and there were nine of you there." The Colonel got the crowd with him when he said that as Governor he appointed colored men to office, and had done the same thing when he was President. He added:

"I believe and have always shown it, that the colored man's position in the South can be made just as secure in justice for him as in the North, but in the North especially can the colored man get justice because of the opportunities which he has to help form an administration which will be upright and unbiased. The colored race must stand for itself in association with the whites, and if one of your race goes wrong your entire race is held responsible."

Getting down to the issues of the campaign, the Colonel said:

"Anything I say to you is representative of my deepest conviction. I am keenly conscious that it is difficult for you to get justice, but I want you to remember just what I say tonight and that is that your choice of approving the present administration or putting Tammany into power rests with yourselves. You will get nothing from Tammany unless you have the power to extort it. Remember that. Remember your duty to America as a whole.

"I won't say that America has done everything that she should for the colored people, but I have never been in any other country where any of our people wanted to live; they always wanted to come here. Although I am not satisfied with what the United States has done, nevertheless here in the United States the colored race rises higher than anywhere else on earth."

When Controller Prendergast, who preceded the Colonel, tried to speak the crowd began to jeer and hiss. Mr. Prendergast tried to make himself heard, but gave up and waited, but the noise grew louder and the hissing more intense until the Controller yelled for fair play.

"Never mind fair play, talk about yourself," yelled some one.

The uproar partially subsided, whereupon Mr. Prendergast took the opportunity to say that during the time he has been in office he has handled $3,500,000,000 and done it fairly. A heckler shouted:

"Did you ever appoint a colored man to office?"

"Yes!" shouted back the Controller.

"To what job?"

THE STORY OF A SPECIAL PURCHASE.

When the Eastman Kodak Company brought out their new line in the spring, they made a few slight changes in two of the models—the No. 1-A Autographic Kodak Special and the No. 2-C Autographic Brownie Camera; a third, the No. 2 Hawkeye Camera, identical in every respect with the No. 2 Brownie Camera, was discontinued because of this duplication. They found themselves with over two thousand unlisted cameras on hand. With faith in our ability to dispose of them, they sold the entire lot to us at remarkable price concessions which we now turn over to you.

THE STORY OF TWO CAMERAS AND A KODAK

No. 2 Hawkeye Camera, $1.49
Catalogue Price Was $2.00

CALLS ON PRESIDENT TO PUNISH HILLQUIT

J. D. Baucus Says Socialist Candidate Should Be Arrested for Speech.

CHARGES HIM WITH TREASON

Great Effort to Get Votes for Hillquit in All Parts of the City Will Be Made This Week.

President Wilson has been urged to order the arrest of Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor on a charge of high treason, as a result of his utterances in a speech made on Sunday afternoon at the New Star Casino, Lexington Avenue and 107th Street. In this address Mr. Hillquit said that a Socialist victory in New York City would be a mandate to the Government to open immediate negotiations for peace, and suggested that the United States had made war on Germany to promote the interests of "our money Kaisers." The request for this drastic step against the Socialist candidate was made by Joseph D. Baucus, a lawyer of 44 Broad Street, who sent a telegram to President Wilson, which read:

> This morning's TIMES states that Morris Hillquit, a Socialist candidate for Mayor of New York, stated to an audience of 4,000 at the New Star Casino, 107th Street and Lexington Avenue, yesterday afternoon, that "a socialistic victory in the city election will be a clear mandate to our Government to open immediate negotiations for peace." There were other statements to the effect that our action in declaring war against Germany was unwarranted and made for selfish or base reasons. This is high treason, and demands prompt and drastic action. He should be immediately arrested, court-martialed, and, if guilty of high treason, shot at sunrise. Manifestly he is giving aid and comfort to the enemy in a most insidious, dangerous, not to say cowardly, way. Your taking drastic action right now is not an interference in local politics. His present prominence makes action on your part imperative, and would have a wholesome and restraining effect upon men like Hillquit and his traitorous associates, whose actions mean needless expenditure of enormous sums of American money and the sacrifice of valuable lives to indicate our pledge and the success of the world's fight for democracy.

The Princeton Club is given as the residence of Mr. Baucus in the City Directory. At the club it was said last night that Mr. Baucus had moved away and that his present residence was not known.

During the final week of the campaign, the Hillquit campaign managers will make great exertions to reach voters in all parts of the city. Aside from several large meetings an open-air campaign will be conducted with a score of meetings nightly. Brooklyn, outside of the Brownsville section, where the Hillquit managers feel that they have a safe margin in favor of their candidate, Richmond and the west side of Manhattan and the Washington Heights section will be special points of attack. A house to house canvass for the purpose of distributing Socialist literature, has been started on the west side under the auspices of the Non-Partisan League for Hillquit. The Collegiate League for Hillquit will conduct meetings on the west side every night. The Irish Progressive League is working hard for the Socialist candidates in the Irish sections of the city.

"We have the candidates of the old parties on the run; we are gaining on them every day," said Usher Solomon, Secretary of the Socialist State Committee and manager of the Hillquit campaign, last week. The campaign managers have found it necessary to draw a sharp line between the campaign activities on the east side and those of the west side of Manhattan. Many of the new recruits in the Socialist camp, it was said, have manifested their reluctance to doing team work with the distinctly pro-German element which has come to swell the Socialist ranks this year for reasons growing out of the war.

Professor J. McKeen Cattell, head of the Hillquit Nonpartisan Committee, announced last night that the mass meeting scheduled for Saturday night at the Madison Square Garden had been abandoned. The meeting had been arranged to afford the four leading Mayoralty candidates an opportunity to review the outstanding issues as the campaign was about to close. Mr. Bennett and Mr. Hillquit, it was announced, had accepted the invitation unconditionally, and Mayor Mitchel had accepted on condition that Judge Hylan would attend.

Ex-Collector of the Port Dudley Field Malone will deliver his maiden speech under Socialist auspices at the Academy of Music rally in Brooklyn this evening. Mr. Hillquit will also speak at the meeting, which will be held under the auspices of the Collegiate League, with Darwin J. Meserole of the Civic Club presiding. Mr. Malone and Mr. Hillquit will again speak from the same platform at the mass meeting in Madison Square Garden tomorrow evening.

Morris Hillquit yesterday turned down a request made by Max Levy, attorney for the Master Bakers' Association of Brooklyn, that he intercede with their workers to prevent a strike which would leave the people of Williamsburgh without bread.

HYLAN'S TAX CHARGE DENIED BY PURDY

ONLY ONE REDUCTION MADE

In All Other Cases Cited by Judge, He Declares, There Has Been an Increase in Assessments.

Lawson Purdy, President of the Tax Board, made public yesterday some of the tax assessment figures in the last three years to show that the statement of Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, that the Tax Board had favored special interests and millionaire individuals by having their assessments reduced was untrue. Judge Hylan gave a list of such interests and individuals whose assessments, he said, had been reduced $29,349,800. Mr. Purdy said that among the corporations named by Judge Hylan, only one, the Edison Electric Light and Illuminating Company, had had its assessment decreased, and that for but $52,100.

Mr. Purdy showed that instead of the New York Central Railroad having had its assessment reduced $4,058,500, as alleged by Judge Hylan, its assessment in 1917 over 1914 was increased $30,692,855. He pointed out that Judge Hylan had been misled by the tentative assessment figures, which are always higher than the final figures. The assessments that count, he said, are the assessments on which taxes must be paid. In his statement he said:

"The man who hands figures to Judge Hylan about taxes thinks he finds a reduction of $29,000,000, and names the New York Central Railroad as one of the beneficiaries. The New York Central has enjoyed an increase in 1917 over 1914 of over $30,000,000. almost equally divided between the four years. The actual increase for four years is as follows:

Total	$30,602,855

"It would be easy to give real decreases in assessed values, for the Tax Department has met declining values by decreasing assessments in Manhattan over $200,0[illegible]000 in two years. Almost all the decrease is in the declining sections south of Fortieth Street and in Harlem. Some of the public service corporations named as receiving decreases are the following:

Name.	Increase 1914 to 1917.
United Elec. Light & Power Co.	5,742,500
Manhattan Railway Co.	3,780,100
New York Telephone Co.	13,792,800

"The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is also named as a beneficiary, and this company was increased $6,556,100. Among the corporations he names there was just one that suffered a decrease; that was the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn. It decreased $52,100. The above statement involves many parcels of real estate, and it was prepared for publication in the 1917 report. For this reason the increase is given for the period from 1914 to 1917. Property belonging to various persons is alleged to be decreased, but as no specifications are given it is impossible to check up the assessed values, with a few exceptions.

"The statement is made that the assessments of real estate of banks and insurance companies have been decreased. This is not true. Judge Hylan's informant has been misled by tentative assessments. The assessments that count are the assessments on which taxes must be paid. A number of banks formerly reported to the Superintendent of Banks and insurance companies to the Superintendent of Insurance higher values for their office buildings than the assessed values. The Deputies were requested to use these book values for their tentative assessments for 1916, in order that the department might obtain proper explanations of the values reported and the actual values. In some cases the companies reduced their book values to actual values, and in all cases the department has a proper record of facts justifying the assessments finally made. In most cases the assessments were finally fixed at the same amount as the previous year, and these assessments represent actual full value."

SULZER ACCUSES MURPHY.

Former Governor Says Tammany Leader Offered Him Bribes.

Ex-Governor William Sulzer spoke at three crowded meetings on the upper and lower east side last night in favor of Mayor Mitchel's re-election. Mr. Sulzer openly accused Charles F. Murphy of offering him bribes prior to his taking office as Governor, during his tenure of office, and since. He assailed the Pennsylvania Railroad, and accused Murphy of being in league with it. He asked of Judge Hylan, if he were elected, if he would do Murphy's bidding and hand over to that corporation certain east side and Long Island water front lands which he said the road had been seeking for years.

Mr. Sulzer's first meeting was at Kreuter Hall, 228 East Eighty-sixth Street; the second at Cinderella Hall, 144 East Eighty-sixth Street, and the last at Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Avenue. At one of the meetings he was hailed as "Our next Governor!" and "Our next President!" It required a squad of police and the official party to get him out of the last meeting.

agers in the other parties' headquarters."

There were cries of shame and hisses as he went on:

"On the 8th day of October of this year and in the midst of the pending campaign the Board of Estimate and Apportionment adopted three interesting resolutions: One directing the transfer of $50,000 for an appropriation to the Board of Child Welfare to the Police Department for the purchase of overcoats for members of the Home Defense League, another transferring the sum of $1,400 from the Board of Child Welfare for repairing an old barn at the city reformatory at New Hampton, and a third transferring the sum of $18,900 from the Board of Child Welfare for forage and veterinary supplies for the Fire Department.

"At about the same time Health Commissioner Emerson attributed 400 infant deaths to the lack of milk.

"The Board of Child Welfare is about the only human note in the present plan of our city government, yet the institution is practically reduced to a mere paper existence, and its meagre appropriation is diverted to Home Guard uniforms, stables and horses, while the babies of the poor are allowed to die for lack of proper nutrition. The old political parties, including Mayor Mitchel's private fusion party, are utterly incapable of understanding the social functions of a modern municipality. To them the administration of a great community like New York is nothing but dry and cold-blooded business, feelingless, heartless business, the business of the business interests.

"Our Disgraceful Home."

"To the Socialists the city is primarily an extended household. In our case a household of 6,000,000 human beings who need bread and shelter, air and sunshine, health and happiness."

Mr. Hillquit called New York City "our disgraceful home," explaining that it was the slums, a part of the city, which he so described, and turned to an attack on the Socialists who have turned from his candidacy to Mayor Mitchel.

Treasurer Boissevain of the Collegiate League for Hillquit, under whose auspices the dinner was held, leaped to his feet when the candidate had finished and cried that the speaker's great message would never be allowed to reach the public unless a great fund were subscribed. He called for contributions, asserting that $50,000 was needed. From the rate at which pledges came in, it appeared that about $5,000 would be raised.

"Mr. X." Is D. F. Malone.

In the course of the dinner the party managers removed the camouflage from their widely heralded "Mr. X.," who, it was asserted, was "a Democrat of national importance who had come into the Socialist camp." As every one expected, "Mr. X." proved to be Dudley Field Malone, ex-Collector of the Port of New York and son-in-law of ex-United States Senator James A. O'Groman. He was not there in person, but sent from Baltimore a telegram which read:

"I am deeply sorry that I cannot be with you all tonight, as I have to remain in Baltimore. But I shall be on the firing line for the next week, urging my fellow-citizens of New York to elect Morris Hillquit Mayor, so that he may provide a liberalized people's government for the greatest city of the country. My warmest remembrances to all."

Another speaker was Gilbert E. Roe, introduced as "the representative of the Republicans." Mr. Roe was urged upon the Fusion Committee four years ago as a candidate for the Supreme Court bench.

Mr. Roe asserted he might be arrested and in that case he wanted his hearers to swear that he had read from the manuscript before him, which was entirely safe. He then launched into a bitter denunciation of the flogging of Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, a former pastor, for alleged pacifist utterances. Mr. Roe called the incident a cowardly and degrading assault upon "the man whom we are proud to call our friend," and said the newspapers heralded the "unspeakable ruffianism" in tones of complacency so that he "kept wondering how much more of that sort of thing the people were going to stand. He said not the immediate perpetrators of the act, but the great newspapers and the men mentioned in them every day, great officials and ex-officials, were the ones who should be scourged in punishment of the act.

The Foreign Language and Sedition act of 1917, he continued, was a worse act than the Sedition act in the time of President Adams, although President Jefferson pardoned the men convicted under the last-named act and remitted all their fines. "As bad as it was," he said, "it was not as destructive of liberty and freedom as was the act of 1917 as interpreted by the officers of our present Government."

Other speakers were Amos Pinchot, described by the press representative as "a Wilson supporter who has come over to us," and former State Progressive Chairman J. A. H. Hopkins of New Jersey, who talked about free speech and a free press.

After the dinner Mr. Hillquit went to Long Island City, where he addressed an audience of about 1,000 persons, who had been waiting since 8 o'clock in Hettinger's Hall to hear him speak. It was after 11 when he reached the hall. It was a crowd with a large sprinkling of Germans in it, and it set up a roar of welcome when Mr. Hillquit showed himself on the platform. A large portion of his speech had to do with the war.

MAYOR TO TELL WHY THEY BACK HYLAN

Promises to Make Public Reasons for Staats-Zeitung and Hearst Support.

SWING AWAY FROM HILLQUIT

Mayor Mitchel served notice last night upon William R. Hearst and "the Ridders" that within twenty-four hours he would reveal the reasons why they are supporting Judge John F. Hylan, the Tammany candidate for Mayor. In a statement the Mayor gave out at Fusion Headquarters he said he had asked the question many times of Mr. Hylan, as well as of the Ridders, but having received no answer he considered their refusal was evidently final and therefore he intended to make public the reasons himself. The Mayor said:

"I have asked John F. Hylan what he has ever done to win the support of Mr. Hearst and the Ridders. I have asked Mr. Hearst this question. I have asked the Ridders. Not one has answered.

"For the last time I have demanded from these men the real reason for the Hylan nomination. Their refusal is evidently final. I shall therefore make public the answer within twenty-four hours.

"That Mr. Hearst realizes the importance of my question is shown by the fact that he devotes two columns of his newspaper to reprinting a telegram which is now two months old, not as an answer but as an alibi. This reprint is especially interesting not only because of what it repeats, but because of what it fails to repeat.

"In the reprint Mr. Hearst repeats that he has 'supported Judge Hylan several times in his political campaigns.' He repeats that his high opinion of Judge Hylan was confirmed by Judge Hylan's 'lofty, unselfish purposes.' He repeats that to have entered the primary against Judge Hylan would have been 'unfair to the great cause which we all have primarily at heart.'

"Mr. Hearst repeats everything that he said about Judge Hylan last September, with the exception of one paragraph. This paragraph is worth consideration.

"In his original telegram last September, Mr. Hearst said:

> I know of no man in public life who is more honorable than Judge Hylan, more courageous, or more fit to lead in this battle in behalf of the public welfare.

"Mr. Hearst does not include this statement in his newer version."

Mayor Mitchel then asserts that he assumes that the omission was due to the recent published exposures of Judge Hylan's relations with Goslin and with the Black Diamond Automobile Company. In conclusion he says:

"In 1914 a prominent German newspaper described Mr. Hearst as the greatest champion of the German cause in America. For three years Mr. Hearst has been giving a public demonstration of what this German eulogy meant.

"Last September, in his telegram of congratulation to Judge Hylan, Mr. Hearst declared that he had supported Judge Hylan several times on the 'sound Americanism of his deeds, his declarations, and his decisions.' I shall let the public know within twenty-four hours what that eulogy from Mr. Hearst really meant."

Swing Away from Hillquit.

Alarmed at the reports of the rapidly growing strength of Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, thousands of anti-Mitchel voters who intended to vote for Judge Hylan are now swinging back to Mayor Mitchel as the only hope of saving the city from socialism, according to Mitchel-Fusion campaign managers. The campaign managers said yesterday that all their reports showed the Mayor running neck and neck with Hillquit, with the Tammany candidate slipping into third place.

"The race at present is distinctly between Mitchel and Hillquit, said Emory R. Buckner, in charge of the Mitchel campaign. "Hylan is going down fast. The Hillquit vote has also about reached its maximum, and the swing to Mitchel is perceptible all over the city. The Bennett vote is nowhere now, and so many Democrats who cannot stand for Hylan, the candidate of Murphy and Hearst, are coming over to the Mitchel banner that they more than offset the Mitchel strength that is going to Hillquit. The large independent silent vote that will play such a big part in this election is also strongly for Mitchel, and it will swing the balance in his favor.

"Hillquit is now openly trying to get the vote Hylan is secretly trying for, the un-American vote, the disloyal vote, and the unpatriotic vote. If Hylan would openly repudiate Hearst, O'Leary, Bruckner, Cohalan, and Devoy and tell them to go and vote for Hillquit then you would have a clear-cut issue between Hylan and Hillquit. But he won't do it because he needs and wants their support. If Hillquit continues to advance in the running as he is now, and if he makes support of the Government an issue, who is the logical candidate to meet that issue? Mitchel, of course. I expect Hillquit will get many more votes than Hylan."

It was said yesterday that the Tammany leaders were distinctly worried over the reports they had received that the pro-Teutonic support in all parts of the city had swung from Hylan to Hillquit. Tammany has relied upon this vote and to see it slipping away has given the leaders considerable concern. The Mitchel people are thoroughly satisfied over this condition as it weakens the Hylan strength, and although it adds at the same time to the strength of Hillquit, the Mitchel supporters feel that with the race beween the Mayor and the Socialist candidate, it will mean thousand of more votes for Mitchel. The Mitchel men have received reports that many men who intended to vote for Hillquit are now leaving him because of his open stand on the war and above all because of his announced refusal to purchase Liberty bonds. These men, they say, are coming back to Mitchel almost solidly.

East Side's Support of Loan.

Some Liberty Loan figures that are regarded as having a significent bearing upon the east side's position with respect to the war and Hillquit were furnished yesterday by the State Bank, at 376 Grand Street. This institution, besides subscribing $2,000,000 to the loan for its own account, received subscriptions from 6,511 individuals and sold bonds for cash to 809 persons living in the neighborhood, making a total of 7,320 prospective bondholders. The other banks on the east side did equally well, according to reports. The Mitchel managers believe that these loan subscribers will not now support Mr. Hillquit after his announcement that he would have nothing to do with the loan.

"Republicans should need no further evidence of the menace of Hillquit and socialism," said Manager Buckner yesterday, "than the words of Morris Hillquit last night when he said: 'A Socialist victory in the city election will be a clear mandate to our Government to open immediate negotiations for a general peace. We don't want a war of attrition, a peace dictated by a victor. Such a termination of the great world catastrophe would be a triumph of militarism, not a defeat.'

"The news that Hillquit had carried New York for Mayor would cause as much rejoicing in Berlin as the news of the rout of General Cadorna's Italian army. If any Republican contemplates throwing his vote away by casting it for Bennett, he should pause and consider. The great duty of the hour is to beat Hillquit. Every American who believes in overthrowing Kaiserism should vote for Mitchel. Mitchel is the man who can defeat Hillquit. Every man who bought a Liberty bond should vote for Mitchel, for he stands for the same thing—the support of our boys at the front. Hillquit not only refuses such support, but by attacks seeks to create the impression of a divided nation, the only result of which will be to keep the boys in the trenches."

Will Vote for Mitchel.

Many citizens continue to inform the Fusion Committee that they will support Mayor Mitchel, according to the Fusion managers. Yesterday Jacob H. Schiff and Adolph Lewisohn declared that they were for the Mayor and that failure to re-elect him would be harmful to the city.

"Ahead of anything else," said Mr. Schiff, "I am supporting Mayor Mitchel and his associates because of the splendid businesslike non-partisan administration we have enjoyed in this municipality for the past four years, and secondly, because past experiences have taught me that naught but the reverse of this can be expected from any administration under the influence of Tammany Hall. Although I consider Mr. Hillquit personally irreproachable, I believe a socialistic administration of this city is not to be desired. Nor has, in my opinion, Mr. Hillquit's candidacy any chance of success, so the question is in reality solely between Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Hylan."

Mr. Lewisohn said:

"Fusion today stands for good government, good appointments in every branch of the public service, honesty, and efficiency, and because of this I think Mayor Mitchel should be continued in office. Any change, in my opinion, would be most harmful to the welfare of the city."

Mr. Schiff also signed a statement in conjunction with Henry Morgenthau, Joseph N. Francolini, Timothy Healy, Edward C. Blum, William A. Marble, and S. R. Bertron, addressed to the voters of the city, pointing out the grave danger of allowing Murphy to capture the next Board of Estimate. Especially, the statement said, was it necessary to elect Robert Adamson as President of the Board of Aldermen.

It was announced at Fusion headquarters yesterday that the Sam Paul Association had come out for the election of Judge Hylan. At its headquarters on the first floor of a tenement house at 63 St. Mark's Place, a Hylan banner was stretched across the street.

"The interesting thing about this association coming out for the Tammany candidate," said Chairman Buckner, "is that its membership is composed of some of the men who were prosecuted in the Rosenthal murder trial and the association evidently wants a change."

RUSH SAYS FRAUD ABOUNDED

Declares More Than 1,000 Evidences Were Found in Recount.

Thomas E. Rush, Surveyor of the Port, who contested the Supreme Court nomination with John V. McAvoy in the Democratic primaries, said yesterday that the re-examination of the ballots by the Board of Elections showed there were more than 1,000 evidences of fraud and irregularities as a result of the primary vote. He also said that his count has been increased over 2,500 votes, not counting 4,900 ballots which have been shown to be illegally counted for Judge McAvoy because of the erasure of cross marks in front of Rush's name. He said the statement of Herbert R. Limburg, counsel for McAvoy, that no evidence of fraud was shown, was not true.

"If, as Mr. Limburg states," he added, "the primaries were conducted with fairness and honesty, why did he deliberately oppose my application for recount from the 9th until the 19th of October and constantly obstruct every effort made by me to open the ballot boxes? When he says, 'I have constantly urged Mr. Rush to begin a recount proceeding,' he states what is deliberately false. The evidence in my possession shows there was no pretense of conducting an honest primary; that over 7,500 votes were improperly and illegally cast, and that there is an extraordinary similarity in handwriting in the signatures in many of the boxes in the various assembly districts. Mr. Limburg will have a chance before this week is out to make his statements to the Supreme Court."

PUTNAM ASSAILS TAMMANY.

Rights League Head Tells Why He Supports Fusion Ticket.

George Haven Putnam, President of the American Rights League, made public yesterday a copy of a letter he sent to Charles L. Craig, Tammany candidate for Controller, explaining why he intended to vote the Fusion ticket. His letter in part read as follows:

"As a matter of mere business common sense, New Yorkers will make a great mistake if they fail to keep the Mitchel group in office. Apart, however, from this question of the business of the city, I consider it of first importance that it should be made clear to the country and to our allies on the other side of the Atlantic that New Yorkers want an administration which is thoroughly loyal, with no reservations, and which is prepared to make its loyalty effective.

"Apart from my approval of the work done by the Mitchel administration, I should be entirely unwilling to give my vote or whatever influence may attach to my name, in behalf of Mr. Hylan and his associates.

"A citizen who is willing to make libelous attacks, but who runs away when the opportunity is given to him of proving his charges, and who refuses to meet before the voters of the community the candidates whom he has accused, is a man who is not worthy of the votes or of the respect of New Yorkers. The candidate, however respectable himself, who accepts nomination on Judge Hylan's ticket, must share the disgrace of Hylan's irresponsibility and cowardice."

Have You Many "Off" Days?

Do you frequently get up in the morning unrefreshed? Do you have to often whip yourself to the work you should enjoy? Is your appetite not as good as formerly, and are you pale, nervous and irritable?

If so, look to your blood; you may be developing anemia.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

brings back the joy of living by enriching the blood, by creating thousands of rich, new, red blood cells and by putting plenty of iron in it. When the blood is rich in iron and red cells it is difficult for the health to be below par, for strong, healthy blood brings nourishment and vigor to all the vital organs.

If you feel "run down," and this condition is not caused by serious organic disease, a course in Pepto-Mangan will help you.

Pepto-Mangan is also a valuable tonic for convalescents, pale, puny children, and weak, old people. Its color and taste are pleasing. It can not disturb digestion or hurt the teeth, and its good results are usually prompt.

Friendly Warning: Be sure to get Gude's, the only genuine Pepto-Mangan, as there are many imitations. It is sold only in the bottle and package, pictured here—never in bulk. Read circular around bottle. For sale by all druggists.

MITCHEL SILENCES HECKLING NEGROES

SPEAKS AT NINE MEETINGS

Mayor Mitchel spoke at nine meetings in Brooklyn and Manhattan last night to enthusiastic audiences, and at one of the last meetings held in the Palace Casino, at 116th Street and Eighth Avenue, under the auspices of the Colored Men's Political League, the contentions of two factions of the audience called forth a denunciation by the Mayor of all candidates and citizens who failed to support the Government by buying its bonds or aiding in the war in some way. He decried efforts to stimulate talk of a peace that he said would only be an armed truce, and his manner of speaking and his gestures were so emphatic that the cries from the audience ceased, and the Mayor was able to continue without interruption.

Colonel Roosevelt had already spoken to an orderly audience in the hall earlier in the evening in support of the candidacy of the Mayor, but when Mr. Mitchel entered an organized group in the rear began to shout for Hillquit, and the cries of others who sought to make the noisy party keep quiet so disrupted the meeting that the Mayor was able to speak only with dificulty.

One of the cries made by this group was "Why didn't you stop 'The Birth of a Nation?'" but others in the hall who wished to hear the Mayor silenced the noise, and the Mayor proceeded. Six policemen walked up the main aisle to attempt to restore order among the 1,000 negroes, but the Mayor requested the policemen to withdraw.

In speaking of patriotism of candidates who refuse to support the Government by buying Liberty bonds, and speaking of peace, the Mayor said:

"I am glad to say I am talking to citizens of a race that has never shown disloyalty to the Government. A man who refuses to help his Government by supporting it or by buying its bonds in a crisis like this is a traitor."

Cries for Hillquit were again heard, but the other part of the audience again took up its cheers for the Mayor, and he was unable to continue his speech for several minutes. Finally some of the members of the committee succeeded in restoring order on the plea that all who opposed the Mayor, as well as those who supported him, would have a chance to speak after the Mayor, who was described as a guest of the meeting, had a quiet period to tell his audience what he stood for.

German success on the Italian front was the theme of the Mayor's address to a gathering of Italian-Americans at Cooper Union. The Mayor said that Germany would be greatly heartened if she succeeded in sowing dissension in this country under the inspiration of Hearst, "the best friend the Kaiser has ever had in the United States."

"And let me tell you that Germany is trying to do the same thing here," the Mayor went on to point out. "She has been trying to sow dissension here since the outbreak of the war. She is trying to see if she can secure a verdict from the first great community which registers a popular vote this year—a verdict that will tell whether a Government inspired by the man who has been the Kaiser's best friend in this country should prevail. If she can do that, won't Germany feel with reason and have just ground for believing that we are divided here at home? She will have encouragement to continue to the limit."

The Mayor spoke at two noonday meetings in Long Island City and was enthusiastically applauded at both places when he defended the Gary school system. At Brewster & Co.'s automobile plant at the Queensboro Bridge Plaza he was greeted by 200 employes. The next stop was at the factory of the American Ever Ready Company in Thompson Avenue, where 1,000 employes of the factory had their lunch hour extended so they could hear the Mayor.

"Judge Hylan and Mr. Murphy and those who have promoted the strikes of school children in this city, who have promoted the teachers' organizations against the so-called Gary plan, have tried to tell the people of New York that the purpose of this Administration was to deprive the children of something that they had before, and to take away from them something of advantage in the kind of education that they received before, to impoverish education. In fact, they have said that this so-called Gary plan, which is more properly termed the work-study and play school, was for the purpose of enslaving the school children of New York to industry, in the interest of Mr. Rockefeller or somebody else, tha the object was to turn out artisans from the primary school—mechanics, carpenters, plumbers, or what you will.

"It is no more the purpose to do that than it is to turn out lawyers, or doctors, or clergymen from the elementary schools. Neither is the one nor the other the purpose of this thing. The purpose of it is to give a seat to every child in the City of New York, for full time every day, and to give all the children a richer, a broader, and a better education."

MITCHEL MEETINGS TONIGHT

Mayor Mitchel is scheduled to make five speeches tonight, all of them in Brooklyn. The first will be at Public School 143, North Sixth Street, at 8:15; Palm Garden, Greene Avenue, corner of Hamubrg Avenue, 9 o'clock; Erasmus High School, Flatbush Avenue, near Church Street, 9:50; Borough Park Club house, Thirteenth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, 10:30, and Imperial Hotel, Fulton Street and Red Hook, at 11:20.

The French colony of New York will hold a mass meeting at Grand Central Palace on Thursday night. Maurice Leon will preside and Mayor Mitchel will speak, besides Frederic R. Coudert, Lucien Jouvaud and J. H. Venon. There are about 125,000 persons in the French colony, including some 15,000 voters. It was stated that the one paper printed in the French language refused to print any news concerning Mayor Mitchel's campaign or any statement for his side, and that a committee was appointed to arrange a mass meeting.

Tonight at Carnegie Hall the Humanitarian Cult will hold a meeting, during which Misch Appelbaum will answer Morris Hillquit on his peace and war platform. Mr. Appelbaum will also ask Hylan, Bennett anl Hillquit certain questions and will announce the number of Socialists who are turing to the Mitchel banner because of Mr. Hillquit's utterances.

William Sulzer will speak tonight at Public School 84, Glenmore and Stone Avenues, Brownsville, Brooklyn, and at Royal Palace, 18 Manhattan Avenue, Williamsburg, Brooklyn.

ELECTION BETTING IS LIGHT.

Only $20,000 Has Been Wagered So Far on Mayoralty Contest.

Election betting on the Curb yesterday continued at the former quotations of 2 to 1 on Hylan to win over Mayor Mitchel. Percy Guard, a Curb broker who has been handling some of the wagers, estimated that about $20,000 was put up, all told, almost all upon these two candidates. Mitchel money, he said, was not plentiful, and most of the Mayor's backers asked odds of 2¼ to 1. Other odds quoted yesterday were 8 to 5, Mitchel to beat Hillquit.

In Brooklyn the odds also remained at 2 to 1 on Hylan. Fred Schumm, a betting commissioner, said last night that he had placed at these odds about $4,000 in small wagers on Hylan during the day.

ROOSEVELT TARGET OF HYLAN'S ATTACK

Judge Predicts Trouble if the Colonel Challenges His Patriotism.

THEN TURNS TO THE MAYOR

Declares Wall Street Corporations Will "Gamble with Eyes Shut" if Mitchel Is Elected.

The entry of Colonel Roosevelt into the campaign as an advocate of Mayor Mitchel's re-election furnished the text of some bitter comment embodied in a speech which Judge John F. Hylan, the Mayor's Tammany rival, read to five audiences in the Borough of Queens last night.

"Mr. Mitchel and the interests he serves," read Judge Hylan, "have called to their aid in this hour of their desperation Colonel Roosevelt. They hope that he will have more success with his attack on the patriotism of this city than Mr. Mitchel had. They hope that he will provide the shield for the corruption of this city administration which is so badly needed by the Mitchel ticket. I am willing to accord to Colonel Roosevelt a full measure of devotion and love for his country. But I demand that he accord that same measure of loyalty and patriotism to me. If he comes here to discuss the issues of the campaign—well and good. But if he comes here to challenge my patriotism or the patriotism of the party whose candidate I am, he will not have a pleasant visit to our city."

Judge Hylan returned to his attacks on Mayor Mitchel, whom he accused of being in league with predatory interests. In connection with this Judge Hylan declared that a $2,000,000 campaign fund had been raised, of which $1,000,000 as yet remained untouched.

"What is to become of the $1,000,000 that still remains?" queried the Judge. "You might find an answer to that question if you could learn of the negotiations being carried on on behalf of Mr. Mitchel by those who attempted to steal the Republican primaries for him."

Judge Hylan said that Colonel Roosevelt ought to start his campaign by telling the voters whether he approves of the "land steals and of Reynolds, Bailey, Greve, and O'Malley, the quartet indicted for conspiring to rob the taxpayers of the city."

"I am willing, as I said, to accord to Colonel Roosevelt a full measure of devotion to his country," said Judge Hylan. "But if he intends to defend these infamous deals I will not accord him any regard for the interests of the people of this city, a city in which he does not live to pay taxes. The taxpayer of Oyster Bay must stick to the issues of this campaign. The Boston News Bureau, one of the official publications of Wall Street, in its issue of last Friday says:

"'Hylan is an anti-corporation man, and especially anti-Rockefeller corporation, and it will be a bear argument on traction and gas stock if he happens to win. On the other hand, if Mayor Mitchel is elected, one can buy these stocks with his eyes shut.'

"Why can Wall Street speculators buy gas and traction stocks with their eyes shut if Mr. Mitchel is re-elected? In my speech of acceptance I said: 'I shall give no quarter to exploiters and oppressors of the people.'

"My friends, that is why these Wall Street corporations fear my election, and will gamble in gas and traction stocks with their eyes shut if Mayor Mitchel is re-elected. It is these same interests who have a blind faith in Mayor Mitchel, and will gamble with confidence and their eyes shut with him in office, who have now opened their money chests to re-elect him. Every one of those interests has its representative on Mayor Mitchel's Campaign Committee."

Mr. Hylan said that if he and his Tammany running mates were victorious, municipal ownership would be inaugurated and become a bonanza to the Borough of Queens. Charles L. Craig, Tammany candidate for Controller, and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith spoke at all the meetings Judge Hylan addressed. The Hylan speaking tour last night took in Astoria, where he spoke to a large audience at Schuetzen Park, in which the German and Irish elements were strongly represented; Elmhurst and Flushing, where he spoke at the high schools; College Point, where he spoke to another audience with a large German sprinkling in Muehlingbrink Hall, and Maspeth, where his address was delivered at the Metropolitan Park Casino.

Harry Kuhn, Chief of Division 419, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which Judge Hylan is still a member, sent a letter yesterday to Coroner Timothy Healy in response to the latter's demand that Judge Hylan tell what his attitude was in the Brooklyn trolley strike in 1895. Mr. Kuhn said that Hylan and he were both employed on the old Brooklyn elevated road while the strike was on the surface roads, which were competing lines under different management, and that the union to which the strikers belonged was not the Brotherhood, but the Knights of Labor. Mr. Kuhn said the Brotherhood gave financial assistance to the strikers, and that both Judge Hylan and he were contributors to the strike fund.

Coroner Timothy Healy, the labor leader, repeated last night his call upon Judge Hylan to answer where he had stood with labor in the Brooklyn street-car strike of 1895, when he was employed by the B. R. T.

"After four days an apologist tries to come to the rescue of the tongue-tied candidate," he said. "He cannot enlighten me on the subject. I was a member of District Assembly 49 of the Knights of Labor, and I was active in the fight. We know where Mayor Mitchel stands in regard to labor because of his record in labor difficulties, but it took twenty-two years to bring to the surface Judge Hylan's 'sympathies.'"

CAPT. SULLIVAN ON STAND.

Denies Testimony of Enlisted Men—Trial May End Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, Spartanburg, Oct. 29.—Captain Howard E. Sullivan of Battery D, 105th Field Artillery, who is on trial for directing a public whipping administered to Private Otto Gottschalk, resumed his testimony at today's session of the court-martial and was put through a two-hour cross-examination during which he denied much of the testimony previously given by enlisted men in the battery. Sullivan testified that he summoned the battery together not to ask the men's advice on what should be done to Private Gottschalk for his violation of sanitary regulations, but merely to let Gottschalk hear what his comrades thought of his act.

The Captain swore that he had not witnessed Gottschalk's whipping and that he knew nothing about the affair until late in the afternoon.

Captain O. Richardson of the Former Second, who investigated the matter for Colonel Wingate, was called to the stand and testified that Sullivan admitted that he had told the men to "drag him (Gottschalk) in the ditch, take him to the showers and spank him, but don't hurt him."

Lieut. Col. John B. Tuck, Sullivan's counsel, asked that this evidence be stricken out as it was in the nature of a confession. After some debate the court sustained Colonel Tuck.

The trial is expected to end tomorrow.

BENNETT STICKS TO HYLAN.

Real Fight Against Him, He Says, Not Against Hillquit.

William M. Bennett, Republican nominee for Mayor, addressed four meetings last night, of which one was in the open air at Eighth Avenue and 145th Street and the others in Queens and Brooklyn. The speeches in Queens were delivered at the Republican Club in Woodhaven and Public School 77 in Ridgewood. In Brooklyn he spoke before the Italian-American Republican Club on Spencer Avenue.

In his speeches he said that Mayor Mitchel's backers were preparing "to debauch the electorate by the use of money," and that the Fusion papers were "engaged in a conspiracy to scare voters by talk about the great Socialistic vote." The real fight, Mr. Bennett said, was against Judge Hylan.

LYONS AT SPARTANBURG.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 29.—John J. Lyons, Republican-Fusion candidate for Sheriff of New York County, addressed 10,000 soldiers assembled outside the camp reservation today and got round after round of cheers by a vigorous attack on Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor. At the end of the meeting a committee of soldiers handed Lyons a document with the request that he deliver it to Hillquit upon his return to New York. The document was an invitation to the Socialist candidate to visit Wadsworth and bring along "a gas mask, a steel helmet, and win your iron cross like a regular German does."

Warning his enthusiastic audience that any uniformed man who votes for Hillquit votes against America and helps the Kaiser, Lyons flayed Hillquit as "the 'Poor Little Rich' candidate." He reiterated again and again the Socialist's notorious utterance in regard to buying Liberty bonds, and every time the angry mood of the soldiers forced the speaker

"You men have given up your homes and everything dear to you," he said, "in order to fight for and protect these United States. You are even fighting for such men as Morris Hillquit. To fight well and to keep your homes intact you must have the money that Liberty bonds will raise. How would you like to have Hillquit, the man who refused to buy a bond, who refused to help you and yours, stand up before you here and talk the way he does back home?"

PENNED BY QUEEN OF SCOTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—What has been described as the most precious autograph letter in history, the last letter written by Mary, Queen of Scots, on the night before her execution, will be sold at Sotheby's next month. Froude speaks of it as a few lines to the King of France, dated two hours after midnight, but it is in fact three folio pages, and is a protest by the Queen that she dies for her hereditary rights and the Catholic faith, an entreaty to be buried in France, and a commendation of her son to the King's care.

A short letter of the Queen was sold for $500 six years ago.

Over Your Head?

You set apart this morning to clear your desk. But you couldn't cut the telephone-wires, bar your door, or detail a strong-arm squad to clear the waiting-room.

So the telephone interrupted and interrupted. Matters that only you could attend to kept butting in. There were callers you couldn't afford to turn down or even keep waiting.

All this waste will be stopped the day you install The Dictaphone System.

It will cut letter-writing to one operation—typewriting. It will reduce the cost of each letter one-third. Your operators will produce at least 50 per cent more each day.

We'll gladly send you a list of Dictaphone users in your line of business. They have found The Dictaphone to be satisfactory—and so will you.

If you would prefer an actual demonstration in your office on your work, phone or write us when such a demonstration will be most convenient for you.

MAYFLOWER GINGER ALE

Made and Bottled by The Great Radium Spring Water Company, Pittsfield Mass.

¶ Winding their untraced ways through the rich soil of the Berkshire Hills, a thousand gathering springs sip up Nature's own energy. Filtering through those health-laden grounds, these waters become as pure as the free winds playing above the forests—and, sparkling and cool, they spring forth from their deep mountain beds. ¶ But here and there, in those pine-covered hills, are springs more fully charged with that hidden spark of forest-life. And the purest of them all, richest in those unseen powers of Nature, has been caught and stemmed—and now is made to serve your health and taste. ¶ To this truly wonderful water of that famous Radium Spring of the Berkshires, is added the delightful flavor of piquant ginger, and the blending of the whole is carefully tended with experienced skill. And so it happens that you enjoy each dainty glass of "MAYFLOWER" as you would the vigorous purity of mountain breezes. ¶ Today you'll find Mayflower Ginger Ale on sale at all good retail stores. And here is further evidence of its high quality: Those old-established Merchant Houses, whose names are given below, take real pride in acting as its wholesale distributors.

SINN FEIN DRAWS UP SECESSION PROGRAM

"BY ANY AND EVERY MEANS"

Provision for Calling an Assembly to Establish Complete Machinery of Government.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Following is the constitution of the Sinn Fein, as proposed by the executive and set out in agenda for the convention:

"Article I.—Whereas, the people of Ireland never relinquished their claim to separate nationhood; and, whereas, the Provisional Government of the Irish Republic at Easter, 1916, in the name of the Irish people, and continuing the fight made by previous generations, reasserted the inalienable right of the Irish nation to sovereign independence, and reaffirmed the determination of the Irish people to achieve it; and,

"Whereas, the proclamation of the Irish Republic at Easter, 1916, and the supreme courage and glorious sacrifices of the me nwho gave their lives to maintain it have united the people of Ireland under the flag of the Irish Republic, be it

"Resolved, That we, the delegated representatives of Irish people in convention assembled, hereby declare the following to be the constitution of Sinn Fein:

"1. The name of this organization shall be Sinn Fein.

"2. Sinn Fein aims at securing international recognition of Ireland as an independent Irish Republic. Having achieved that status, the Irish people may by referendum freely choose their own form of Government.

"3. This object shall be attained through the Sinn Fein organization, which shall in the name of the sovereign Irish people, (a) deny the right and oppose the will of the British Parliament and the British Crown or any other foreign Government to legislate for Ireland, (b) make use of any and every means available to render impotent the power of England to hold Ireland in subjection by military force or otherwise.

For Constituent Assembly.

"Whereas, no law made without the authority and consent of the Irish people is or ever can be binding on their conscience, therefore in accordance with the resolution of Sinn Fein, adopted in the convention of 1915, a constituent assembly shall be convoked, comprising persons chosen by Irish constituencies as supreme national authority to speak and act in the name of the Irish people and to devise and formulate measures for the welfare of the whole people of Ireland such as

(a) The introduction of a prospective system for Irish industries and commerce by combined action of the Irish councils, urban councils, rural councils, por law boards, harbor boards and other bdies directly responsible to the Irish people;

(b) The establishment and maintenance under the direction of the National Assembly or other authority approved by the people of Ireland, or an Irish consular service for the advancement of Irish commerce and Irish interests generally;

(c) The re-establishment of an Irish mercantile marine to facilitate direct trading between Ireland and the couutries of Continental Europe, America, Africa and the Far East;

(d) An industrial survey of Ireland and development of its mineral resources under the auspices of the National Assembly or other national authority, approved by the people of Ireland;

(f) The creation of a national civil service embracing all employes of county councils, rural councils, poor law boards, harbord boards and other bodies responsible to the Irish people by the institution of a common, national qualifying examination and local competitive examinations, the latter at the discretion of the local bodies;

(g) The establishment of Sinn Fein courts of arbitration for the speedy and satisfactory adjustment of disputes;

(h) The development of transit by railroad and water, and of waste lands for the national benefit by a national authority approved by the people of Ireland;

(i) The development of the Irish Sea fisheries by the national Assembly or other national authority, approved by the people of Ireland;

(j) The reform of education to render its basis national and industrial by the compulsory teaching of Irish language, Irish history, and Irish agriculture and manufacturing potentialities in a primary system and, in addition, to elevate to a position of dominance in the university system Irish agriculture and economics;

(k) The abolition of the poor law system and the substitution in its stead of adequate outdoor relief to the aged and infirm and employment of the ablebodied in the reclamation of waste lands, afforestation, and other national and reproductive works.

Meetings of the Executive.

"Article II.—A special meeting of the executive may be summoned on three days' notice by the President on a requisition presented to him, signed by six members of the executive, specifying the object for which the meeting is called. In a case of urgent emergency the President shall call all the members of the executive to an urgency meeting, and may take action in the name of the executive. In case he secures the approval of an absolute majority of the entire executive, the action taken is to be reported for confirmation at the next ordinary meeting of the executive.

"Article III.—Where Irish resources are being developed ro where industries exist, Sinn Feiners should make it their business to secure assurance that wrokers are paid living wages.

"Article IV.—That equality of men and women in this organization shall be emphasized in all speeches and leaflets."

PLEAD TO MAINTAIN BROADWAY'S LIGHTS

Property Owners Tell Garfield That Only Surplus Electric Current Is Used.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—On the outcome of a conference with Fuel Administrator Garfield this afternoon depends whether New York's night lights are to be dimmed for the rest of the war. In the conference with Mr. Garfield were about 100 property owners along Broadway and Fifth Avenue, whose signboards or building tops are used for the illumination.

The Fuel Administrator was informed by the delegation of New Yorkers that to order the lights out would not only deprive those who have gone to an appreciable investment of the income on it, but inflict an unnecessary curtailment of light that attracts hundreds of thousands to Broadway at night.

The light used in the illumination, the delegation told Mr. Garfeld, was surplus product from the electric lighting or public service power plants which, if not utilized in that way, would be lost in any event. There was therefore, they argued, no extravagance involved and no wastage of coal.

Mr. Garfield assured the delegation that the Fuel Administration would look into the matter. He admitted that it had been taken up by the Fuel Administration, but that no decision had been made as to curtailment of the lights. He spoke of the urgent necessity of saving as much coal as possible, and informed the delegation that everything must be done to minimize the waste.

A compromise proposal, it was said tonight, probably would be made effective, under which lights on Broadway would not be turned on until 8 o'clock P. M. this Winter instead of at 4:30 o'clock or 5 o'clock as formerly. This, it was declared, would reduce the apex-load now carried by electric producing companies early in the night, which means the consumption of a great amount of coal. Factories will have closed by 8 o'clock and the subway rush will have subsided.

One feature that developed at the conference was a probable ruling before long to curtail the use of pleasure motor cars, electric pianos and other non-essentials, the utilization of which involves wastage of fuel. It may be also that the Fuel Administration will intervene against the operation of many greenhouses in which coal is used extensively in Winter.

The recent order cutting down the supply of sugar to manufacturers of candy by 50 per cent. also may be extended to prevent owners of such factories diverting their product to other non-essentials that would still involve use of fuel. If they apply themselves to the manufacture of necessities they will not be disturbed.

Retailers of bituminous coal throughout the city said yesterday that the retail price would not be advanced here now because of the 45 cents a ton increase in the price at the mines ordered Saturday by President Wilson. Practically all retailers of bituminous are protected by contracts until Jan. 1 or April 1 next.

According to an official of the Thedford-Eltz Coal Company, the present increase in price may cause free coal to accumulate at the mines for lack of purchasers, which may enable retailers to buy it cheaper when their contracts expire in a few months.

OCTOBER 29, 1917,
NEW YORK.

With the City's Wealth Dissipated to His Friends and Favorite Corporations, Will You Citizens of New York Vote to Continue Mr. Mitchel in Office?

Voters of New York, let us talk the issues of this campaign over frankly and freely between ourselves. In a week from to-night you will have made up your mind whether you are going to vote for Mr. Hylan, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Mitchel, or Mr. Hillquit for Mayor. You know that this is a very important election. You are going to decide it and it is natural that you want to decide it right.

Now, we are going to tell you in very plain language why you ought to vote for Mr. Hylan and against Mr. Mitchel. We may have told you all this before, but it will do no harm to repeat it.

The interest of the city that we all love is so bound up in this campaign that you voters cannot understand it too thoroughly before doing your part in it a week from to-morrow.

We have told you, and we now tell you again, that the real issue is Mr. Mitchel's record for the last four years. We assure you solemnly that it has been a very bad record, and we are going to prove it to you.

In the first place, Mr. Mitchel's budget for the next year is two hundred and forty million, seven hundred and ninety-six thousand, one hundred and nineteen dollars. That is twenty-nine million, six hundred and eighty-one thousand, nine hundred and eighty-three dollars more than the budget of the year before. In other words, you people are going to pay nearly thirty million dollars more for city expenses than you paid last year. We think you will agree with us that this is a pretty high price to pay for the privilege of having a friend of Mr. Vanderbilt's as your Mayor for a single year.

Even with such an enormous debt saddled upon you—and every one of you has got to pay your share of it—you might still think Mr. Mitchel was a good man to vote for if he would only promise to try to cut down your taxes and practise real economy during his second term.

But Mr. Mitchel will not promise anything of the kind. He doesn't even tell you in his talks to you from the platform WHY he is making you spend all that money, or what you are getting for it beside a load of debt which is driving our city to the very brink of bankruptcy.

We ask you rentpayers to think what this sort of thing means to you. Don't you know that next year your rent is going to be raised twelve per cent, in order that the man who owns the property you live in, or have your business in, can get the money to pay his taxes?

Don't you know that every shopkeeper who sells your wife the food that you and your children eat has got to raise his prices, so that he can pay that twelve per cent raise in his rent? Mr. Mitchel is not going to worry about high taxes, and his rich friends are not going to worry about them, but you people who constitute ninety-five per cent of the six million inhabitants of this town will have to worry about them, and the worry is going to keep some of you awake nights if Mr. Mitchel is re-elected.

At the beginning of this campaign, before there had been any primary frauds, or any indictments of Mr. Mitchel's friends, or any of the other big, new reasons why you people should vote against Mr. Mitchel, William Randolph Hearst in a letter to Judge Hylan summed up very clearly the reasons for voting against him at that time. Mr. Hearst wrote:

> "The defeat of Mayor Mitchel is absolutely essential to the safeguarding of Democratic principles and the restoration of the rights of the citizens in their own government.
> "I have no personal hostility to Mayor Mitchel. He is an amiable young man, but without character or principles. He has a silly ambition for social recognition, and a weak willingness to place himself entirely in the hands of selfish and sinister interests and allow himself and his great public office to be used for the private advantage of these selfish interests and against the public welfare.
>
> "I am opposed to Mayor Mitchel, politically, because he has violated the pledges upon which he was elected, and has betrayed the people who trusted him and voted for him; because he has given away vast values of the people's wealth in public property to personal friends and privilege-seeking interests, and because he has tried to give away still vaster values in public rights and properties, and undoubtedly will surrender these values regardless of the claims and protests of the citizenship, if he be re-elected and if his course in public betrayal and private favoritism be endorsed.
>
> "I am opposed to Mayor Mitchel because he has plunged the city into disastrous debts through his dissipation of the city's wealth to friends and favorite corporations, and because he has sought to make the citizens and the city employes pay for his largesses to privilege-seeking individuals and interests.
>
> "As an inevitable result of his personal policy of dissipating the city's wealth and distributing the public property to private interests, he has been compelled to secure funds for the conduct of the municipal government through borrowing to the exhaustion of the city's credit, through excessively burdensome taxation and through petty and parsimonious reduction in the wages of ill-paid city employes at a time when higher wages are customary in all private and public institutions and are made necessary to the maintenance of decent standards of existence through their continual increase in the cost of living.
> "I am opposed to Mayor Mitchel because he has made the public schools the football of politics and the sport of faddists. He has put our children on half rations of education, when in a republic the hope of the State is the fully educated and enlightened intelligence of the coming generation.
>
> "The half-time system in the schools, which all denounce as the most damning vice of Tammany, Mitchel has sought to make a virtue by putting it into general operation and giving it the high sounding title, 'The Gary System.'
> "I am opposed to Mayor Mitchel because there have been more sordid scandals in the Mitchel administration than in all the Tammany administrations which have preceded him since the days of Van Wyck.
> "I think the re-election of Mayor Mitchel would be an endorsement of utter incompetency and unfaithfulness in public life, a complete surrender of public rights to private interests and a distinct danger not only to public rights and public properties but to the essential principles of popular government and the fundamental American idea of loyal execution of the will of the citizens by their elected officials."

Surely, citizens, that letter gives you enough reasons for voting against Mr. Mitchel, even if no new reasons were added. But think of what has happened since that letter was written:

1—Very recently a Grand Jury, called on the order of Governor Whitman, who says he expects to vote for Mitchel, indicted four of Mr. Mitchel's friends—Reynolds, Bailey, Greve and O'Malley—on a charge of trying to "cheat and defraud the city out of its money and property" in connection with the notorious Rockaway Park transaction.

2—When Mr. Mitchel ran for the Republican nomination in the primaries, the most shameful and flagrant frauds were committed in an effort to give him the nomination—frauds for which seventy election inspectors were indicted and are now on their way to jail. But Mr. Mitchel has never yet told you that he proposes to hunt down the men who ordered the frauds, done in his behalf, and who ought to go to jail with the poor, little crooked ward heelers who committed them.

3—Despite the election frauds, a number of Republican leaders have declared that they would support Mitchel. We were not at all mystified by these declarations, and in order that they should not mystify you voters we reprinted from Mr. Mitchel's organ, the New York World, a confession that these men had driven a bargain for patronage before they gave Mitchel their support. Such a bargain is, of course, a felony, and when the Grand Jury is through investigating Mr. Mitchel's other friends, we hope that it will follow up these disclosures by The World.

4—Then there is, of course, the budget of two hundred and forty million, seven hundred and ninety-six thousand and one hundred and nineteen dollars, which Mr. Mitchel has just loaded on you people—nearly a quarter of a billion dollars.

There are four more very big and very ample reasons for voting against Mr. Mitchel, and, honestly, we do not see how in the world any of you people, knowing all this, can do otherwise than to vote against him on each and every one of the counts we have given.

We are not making loose charges such as Mr. Mitchel has been making against every one who opposes him. We can assure you positively that Mr. Mitchel's interests are not your interests, and that Mr. Mitchel can never truly represent you in the office of Mayor.

We do not have to go very far afield to do that. We will take, for example, the case of the attempt of the New York Central to grab Riverside Park and the upper West Side on its own terms.

You know that for many years the greed of the New York Central has been one of the most deadly menaces to our greatest of cities. You know that time and time again public-spirited citizens have got together for the purpose of ridding Death Avenue of the murderous freight trains that have killed so many women and children there.

You know that always the railroad has offered to remove the tracks on condition that the city would present to it practically the whole of Riverside Park, as well as the whole of the upper West Side water front.

Well, last year the New York Central made a demand on the city so extravagant, so ridiculous, that it would not have been considered by the worst city government we ever had before Mr. Mitchel's administration. In fact, the railroad, even in the most corrupt of the old days, had never before dared broach such a proposition.

We do not need to tell you what Mr. Mitchel did about it. You know as well as we do that he not only welcomed that infamous proposal with open arms but even sent his man Prendergast to Albany to lobby it through the Legislature, where the influence of Mr. Barnes, which is now behind Mitchel, was enlisted in its support.

It was the Hearst papers which stopped that shameful surrender to the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Mitchel was forced, temporarily at least, to abandon his proposed munificence to his friend the railroad because we let daylight into the whole business and let you people know exactly what was going on.

But we warn you that if you elect Mr. Mitchel a second time there will be another attempt to put that deal through. You cannot doubt that for a single instant when you know that the Vanderbilts and all the other people connected with the ownership of the New York Central are doing their level best to put Mr. Mitchel back into the City Hall.

You know that corporations like the New York Central would not favor any candidate unless they expected him to favor them in return. And doesn't it stand to reason that a man who tried so hard to bestow a priceless gift on the railroad would try the same thing the very next time he saw a good chance?

Voters of New York, if you re-elect Mr. Mitchel he is going to take his re-election for an indorsement of his record, and you may depend that he will go as far and farther in the future than he has gone in the past. And you certainly ought to know what that will mean to you.

We do not think that any of you have been fooled in the least by Mr. Mitchel's repeated assertions that everybody who opposes him is an enemy of the nation. We believe that you think, as we do, that nothing could be more unpatriotic than for Mr. Mitchel to insist, as he is doing, that if he is defeated New York City will be on record as against the Administration. You know, and we know, and Mr. Mitchel knows, that you citizens will continue to stand right behind the President, as you have since the beginning of the war.

You cannot, of course, expect us to go into all the arguments against Mr. Mitchel. It would take all the columns of this editorial page for the rest of the campaign to do that. We do hope, however, that we have convinced you that every interest in this splendid city except the interests of the greedy corporations and the hungry real estate speculators will be best served by voting against Mr. Mitchel and by voting for Judge Hylan, who is a man of the people, and who has promised to devote all his energies to serving the people's interests.

Before we have concluded our talk with you we want to remind you once more of that budget of two hundred and forty million seven hundred and ninety-six thousand one hundred and nineteen dollars. We want to remind you of that budget, because in those colossal figures are contained in condensed form nearly all the reasons which you people have got for voting Mr. Mitchel out of office.

Contained in that budget is the twelve-million-dollar courthouse site, which you will never be able to use; the marginal railway site, which will also be useless to you forever; the Rockaway Park transaction, for which four of Mr. Mitchel's friends are under indictment, and the Dreamland Park transaction.

In those figures of nearly a quarter of a billion dollars is the record of such extravagance as this good city of ours never witnessed in all its history. No administration, however bad, however corrupt, has ever before dared put such a load on the shoulders of the people as the load contained in that budget.

Citizens, this is a time when we are all working together to help the Government fight and win a great war. Every one of you will pay his share of war taxes, and pay them cheerfully and gladly. Nearly every one of you has invested in Liberty Bonds to the extent of his or her ability, proud to do so at any sacrifice in order to be of assistance to our common country in her hour of need.

That service, we know, is a duty, not a burden, but even if it were a burden we would gladly bear it. Now we ask you is it right, is it fair, that at a time like this, when all the people are freely giving of their money to the nation, for Mr. Mitchel and his friends to levy upon them a tribute of nearly thirty million dollars a year MORE than the expenses of a year ago?

Do you believe that such an administration can have the interests of the people at heart? Do you believe that Mr. Mitchel and his associates, who have been so utterly careless of your interests as to plunge you into this vast sea of debt, are fit to serve you for another four years?

Citizens, we do not believe that you do. We are confident that with all the facts before you—facts that are unanswerable and indisputable—you will never vote for the indorsement of utter incompetency and the complete surrender of public rights to private interests such as would be encompassed by returning Mr. Mitchel to the City Hall.

BASEBALL SALARIES LIKELY TO BE CUT

Proposed to Pay Players According to Income from Admissions During War.

That the salaries of major league baseball players will be reduced next season on account of the war conditions was intimated yesterday in a statement made by President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club. Mr. Ebbets is in favor of reducing the season's schedule from 154 to 140 games, and also reducing the number of players. He advocates that the players be paid salaries consistent with the gate receipts of the clubs. This would sound the death knell of the long term, high salaries, and the ball players may consider themselves lucky next season if the clubs carry as many as eighteen or twenty players.

If Mr. Ebbets voices the sentiments of the other club owners, it means that there will be a curtailment of expenses by all clubs next season. During the past week, Mr. Ebbets, together with President Baker of the Phillies, has been in conference with President Tener of the National League, and when the organization meets here next month, it is likely that some radical action will be taken in reducing the players' salaries. Most of the long-term contracts which the players were able to demand because of the unsettled conditions in the national game a few seasons ago have expired, and it is certain that the contracts which will be signed by the players this Winter will be decidedly different from the old contracts.

President Ebbets also announced yesterday that he had re-engaged Wilbert Robinson to manage the Dodgers, and this puts at rest many rumors to the effect that there would be a change next season at Ebbets Field.

It is the patriotic duty of owners to continue operations, as by so doing the Government will receive from baseball interests over a half million dollars (possibly a million dollars) in taxes annually.

The public will require recreation during the continuance of the war.

Professional baseball would be seriously injured; property interests destroyed, and thousands of young men deprived of the emoluments of the game if it were discontinued.

I believe that the game should be continued along precisely the same lines as it has been conducted for the last fifteen years.

Salaries should be paid consistent with the income.

The Government requires that the public must pay the tax of 10 per cent. on admission tickets to the local internal revenue representative.

Length of schedule is a matter for joint action of the National and American Leagues. I favor a 140-game schedule, commencing about April 25 and ending about Sept. 28. We prefer to pay nineteen or twenty players a fair gross salary rather than divide the gross among twenty-five players.

TALES TOLD BY FIGURES.

Season's Baseball Statistics Reveal Unsuspected Facts.

The records of the sixteen major league clubs during the past baseball season present some unusual and interesting features. While the statistics employed are not based upon the official league averages, they conform closely to the authentic percentages and for the purposes of comparison are thoroughly reliable, being compiled in many cases from the official box scores.

The records show that the Chicago American League Club, winner of the world's championship series, led the junior organization in both the number of games won and the total number of runs scored. In no other department did the White Sox hold the premier position, although the average of the team was very high. Boston played the greatest number of games during the season, due to five tie contests. Detroit, which finished fourth, led in hitting, while the Boston Red Sox held the opposing teams to the lowest number of runs.

The figures also give a clear insight into the loose play of the Philadelphia Athletics, who finished in last place. The Mackmen scored next to the largest total of runs, being but thirty-three behind the Chicago club in this respect, and but twenty-three hits short of the Detroit record, which enabled the Tigers to win first place in this department of the game. As an off-set to this excellent offense, however, the Athletics showed the poorest defensive play of any club in the American League. The Philadelphia team made the largest number of errors; had the greatest number of runners left on the bases, and their opponents scored more runs against the team than against any other club on the circuit.

In the National League the New York Giants, winners of the pennant and losers of the world's series, played the most games, completing their full schedule of 154 games, with four tie contests, bringing the total up to 158. As was the case with the Chicago White Sox, the pennant winning combination in the senior organization also scored the most runs, the Giants' record in this respect being 636. Cincinnati, however, piled up the largest total of hits, while the Chicago Nationals perpetrated the greatest number of errors. The Boston Braves had the most runners stranded on the bases during the season of 1917, and Cincinnati proved the easiest to score against, as the other seven clubs collected a total of 611 runs from the Reds in the 157 games played.

The Brooklyn club, winner of the 1916 pennant, aside from its feat in playing the largest number of tie games, failed to show the form of a year ago. The Superbas made less runs than any team in the league, with the exception of Pittsburgh; was third in total hits; made the third largest number of errors, and was about at the halfway mark in men left on the bases and in runs scored by opponents.

FEW PLAYERS ON PHILLIES.

Quakers Go Through Season with Small Club.

The Philadelphia Club, which finished second in the National League race during the past season, had the least number of players on its roster. The Phils used only 24 players during the season, while Pittsburgh, which finished in last place, had the greatest number of players—41. The Giants used 33 players during the season and Brooklyn 31.

St. Louis used the most pitchers, 13 twirlers trying their fortunes with Miller Huggins's Cards. The Phillies used only 7 pitchers, while the Giants had 10. Chicago used half a dozen backstops at various times, while Pittsburgh used up 17 infielders during the year. The Pirates also led the list of outfielders with 10. The Phillies used only 5.

HAUGHTON DRILLS SOLDIERS

AYER, Mass., Oct. 29.—Percy Haughton, Harvard's head football coach, took the Camp Devens football squad in hand today. Following his successful system at Harvard, he first gave the men a blackboard drill, and outlined the course he was going to follow. Tomorrow two elevens will be picked for signal drill, punting, and scrimmage work. As Haughton looked over the fifty splendidly conditioned athletes in the squad he said:

"We are going to have a great team. In one month they ought to get into the form it takes a college squad three months to attain."

Associated with Haughton will be eight other former Harvard players, while Lieutenant O'Connor, former Dartmouth coach, will serve as physician, and Daniel Flynn, a Boston boxer, as trainer.

Many of the men already have been grounded in the rudiments of the Harvard system of football under Charles Coolidge, one of Harvard's famous ends. Coolidge coached the depot brigade eleven which held the Harvard informals to a scoreless tie last Saturday.

The camp is showing great interest in the game next Saturday with the Boston navy yard team at the Harvard Stadium. This team is coached by Leo Leary, field coach under Haughton at Cambridge, and has a backfield of real 'Varsity calibre, with Eddie Casey, Billy Murray, and Tom Enwright, Harvard stars, and Jackson Cannell, the sensational Dartmouth quarter back. In the line will be Eddie Wall, the Georgetown end, and other well-known college players.

RUTGERS IN GOOD SHAPE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 29.—With the exception of Gray, centre, the Rutgers team is in good condition after its victory over Fordham. Foster Sanford had the squad out this afternoon in preparation for the contest with West Virginia Saturday and gave the men a long hard workout.

The contest with the Southerners promises to be one of the best of the season from the standpoint of competition. It is by far the hardest game on the Rutgers schedule. The fast Fordham backs gave the Rutgers' line the practice needed if the forwards are to stop such men as Rogers and King of Virginia. These two backs are both fast and heavy and it will need an unusually good defense to keep them from getting away.

Sanford will work this week on Franck, substitute guard, who was sent in as centre in the second half of the Fordham game, even though he had never before passed a ball. Both Gray and Dunham were injured and may not be able to play. Sanford is following his policy of having some one ready in any emergency.

The work of the Rutgers backfield last Saturday was excellent, but the line still needs some hard practice before reaching its best form. Six of the linemen were originally ends and have a lot even yet to learn about their positions.

STEVENS VERSATILE TEAM.

Stevens in Saturday's game proved it can adapt itself to different playing conditions. At the start of the season it met teams of nearly the same weight and played straight football. Middlebury presented a line averaging 195 pounds. When Stevens found it could not buck this line, it changed to an open game.

The engineers tried open formations which netted from 8 to 12 yards each time. Out of eight forward passes six were completed. The new men used during the game impressed the coach favorably. Johnson, the husky centre, played his best game of the season. He was the mainstay of the line.

Phelps, who got into the game in the third quarter, loomed up in great form, and may play permanently before the week is over. During yesterday's practice Drew played at right half, while Wallace took Burns's place at guard.

FORDHAM'S ELEVEN IDLE.

Coach McCaffery Decides On a Day of Rest for Battered Squad.

Fordham's football players were idle yesterday for the first time since the call for candidates was posted last September. Coach McCaffery decided a day's rest would do the battered squad good after the grueling Rutgers game. It will better prepare the Maroon for the hard campaign which will get under way this afternoon for the Georgetown game.

No games have been added to the Maroon schedule after the Cornell fray on Nov. 17. Nov. 10 is also an open date, but as this occurs between the Georgetown and Cornell meetings it will only be filled with a practice game. If a hard team is to be played on Thanksgiving Day, no contest will be arranged for Nov. 24. With the schedule well on in midseason, the locals will probably have to fill the final date of the year with a soldier eleven. Bud Wymard, former Fordham Captain, is coach of an eleven at Camp Dix, and he has asked for a game.

Villanova has played Fordham on Thanksgiving Day every season since the re-establishment of the sport at the Bronx college in 1912. No effort as far as is known has been made to secure the Pennsylvanians this year. It is likely, however, that the two rivals will clash again. Fordham endeavored to secure Notre Dame two weeks ago, but the Westerners were unable to accommodate the Maroon management.

A Thanksgiving Day game has been as much a fixture with Fordham rooters as their turkey dinner, and Manager Delehanty will make great efforts to provide them with one this year.

CORNELL'S SKY BRIGHTENS.

Coach Sharpe Pleased with Eleven's Showing Against Bucknell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Cornell may not be in the same class with Michigan and Pennsylvania this year, but she will put up a much better game against her two big opponents than seemed possible two weeks ago. That seemed to be the consensus of opinion in the football camp today as the men gathered for the first lecture and blackboard talk, military drill calling so many of the players away early in the afternoon that outdoor practice was not feasible.

Al Sharpe, head coach, is frankly pleased with the improvement of the team in the Bucknell game, particularly in the increased speed manifested and the fast aggressive playing of the new guards, Harris and Strauss. He commented favorably on the progress made along this line and also expressed pleasure with the fighting strength of the backfield. He let it be known that with the exception of right end, he regarded the 'Varsity eleven as practically selected. The hunt for a man of caliber for the right wing continues.

Nethercott's snappy playing at quarter back has assured him of the position. With experience the coaches feel that he will prove a satisfactory field general, though they will continue to count on acting Captain Hoffman to act as Nethercott's adviser on the field. Hoffman stands out as the dominant figure on the team.

To Honor Memory of Wendell.

Members of the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. and other officials of the organization will attend the funeral services for Evert Jansen Wendell, who died recently in France, to be held on Thursday mornng at 10 o'clock in Calvary Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street.

OLDER RACERS BOW TO TWO-YEAR-OLD

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 29.—The Brighton Stable's two-year-old Tippity Witchet, which had his winning career interfered with on Saturday after eight straight voctories, came back today and pitted against older horses in the Old Town Liberty Bond Handicap scored another success. Leochares, which took the measure of the two-year-old on Saturday did not look for another tussle with the youngster and Roamer, top weight in the handicap, also was among those scratched. Nevertheless, Tippity Witchet faced a hard task as the distance of a mile and seventy yards was further than a two-year-old had raced this season. He also was asked to concede weight as well as age to the three horses opposed to him.

Buxton again had the mount on Tippity Witchet and he kept in close touch with the pace set by the sprinter Ed Cudihee. When well in the home stretch Buxton called on the gallant two-year-old and he went by his older rival to win with a little to spare. Fenmouse closed fast and took third place from Dorcas.

James Butler's Top Coat repeated in the Convoy Purse race, which was the richest event of the afternoon. There was a good field opposed to the son of Star Shoot, and he was in receipt of weight from Fragonard only. Top Coat was on his toes at the start and made most of the pace with Gold Tassel and Seafarer in close attendance. At the finish Top Coat had a safe margin over Gold Tassel, while Seafarer saved third money from Fragonard.

In the other two-year-old race which called for maidens, Harry Payne Whitney's Blazonry graduated after many unsuccessful attempts. He was chased home by Man o' The Hour and Whippoorwill.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For maiden two-year-olds; purse, $700; six furlongs. Time—1:16.

Cochran Wins Twice with Cue.

Welker Cochran defeated two opponents in his practice matches at Daly's Academy yesterday, in preparation for his 18.2 match with Leonard Howison. In the first, he triumphed over Fred Lowenthal by 200 to 43. His high run was 56 and his average, 22 2-9. In the second game he defeated another amateur, George Spear, by 300 to 87. In this contest his high run was [illegible] and his average, 20.

ARMY POINTS FOR BATTLE.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The big drive for the Notre Dame game was set in motion today when the coaches gave the Army football team a chalk talk. Dissatisfaction over the showing made by the soldiers Sautrday against Villanova was manifested in the grilling today. The "skull practice" was followed by a slight signal drill designed principally to take out the kinks and bruises which resulted from Saturday's battle. Vandegraff is expected back for Notre Dame next Saturday. His presence along with Luce and Adams is expected to bolster up the front wall.

There is hardly a possibility of Gene Vidal getting out for the Army's biggest battle of the season. If the Navy game does not materialize the Notre Dame contest will be the chief attraction on the Army's schedule this year.

BROWN REHEARSES SIGNALS

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 29.—Brown's victorious eleven reported at Andrews Field yesterday almost intact, the much feared jinx of the Brown team—injuries—being practically an absent quantity. Rube Sinclair, 'Varsity left tackle, was the most severely hit of any of the Brown jerseyed players, and will not report for a few days. The ligaments of his left foot were torn twice during the Colgate battle and he is now limping around on crutches. The other Brunonian who is disabled is Shaw, a plunging half back, whose knee will not be right for several weeks yet. It is possible that Albright will be declared ready for the game with Syracuse next Saturday, although his broken rib still causes him considerable pain.

Coach Edward N. Robinson did not give his charges a hard workout to start the week, but contented himself with putting them through short signal practice, in which he pointed out the weaknesses of Saturday. The three Brown coaches are inwardly satisfied with the work of the Brown eleven, but express nothing except loads of adverse criticism during these daily sessions at the Camp Street Athletic Field.

COLUMBIA 'VARSITY RESTS.

Coach Metcalf Devotes Afternoon to Drilling Scrubs.

In the absence of 'Varsity men on the field, Coach Metcalf devoted his attention to the scrubs. He started the substitutes at tackling the dummy to drill them in taking a man out. He also drilled them in falling on the ball, and wound up the afternoon with more work in the fundamentals, after interpolating an hour of strenuous signal drill. Houlahan's injury is not expected to keep him out of Saturday's game against Amherst.

HIGH WEIGHT FOR HOURLESS

Frank J. Bryan, who allots handicaps for the Pimlico meeting, has just issued the weights for the Arlington Handicap, which will be the feature of the opening day next Thursday. He has had a big task, as under the system of no entrance fee the Maryland Jockey Club has received an entry of more than 150 handicap performers for the race at a mile and a sixteenth.

Though it is scarcely likely that either Hourless or Omar Khayyam will start, the weights are interesting as showing how the expert handicapper estimates the ability of the two great three-year-olds. The recent victory of Hourless, though only one out of three starts against Omar Khayyam, has gained him the position of leading three-year-old, according to Mr. Bryan's figures. He has asked Hourless to carry 128 pounds in the Arlington, one pound more than Omar Khayyam.

The handicapper also pays a high tribute to Harry Payne Whitney's great race mare, Regret, which shares the place at the head of the list with Old Rosebud, which under Mr. Vosburgh's handicaps has occupied the pride of place among the handicap horses. Both are asked to carry 134 pounds, and they are the only older horses asked to give weight to Hourless and Omar Khayyam.

The claims of the Western three-year-old Cudgel to consideration as one of the leaders of his age are not taken seriously, as he has been asked to shoulder only 120 pounds, and besides the liberal allowance from the two Eastern cracks he is in receipt of one pound from Westy Hogan, another three-year-old in the stable of Wilfrid Viau. The old champion, Roamer, is rated at 126 pounds, while Borrow, another veteran, has to carry only 117 pounds.

FINAL ROSE TREE CARD.

Postponed Program Will Close Hunt Meeting at Media Today.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The Rose Tree Hunt meeting will hold its third program tomorrow at Media. The meeting would ordinarily have been over on Saturday, but because of a storm last week the second day's program was postponed until tomorrow. A great deal of interest has been manifested in the events on the two previous days, and fine sport is expected for tomorrow.

One of the features of the card will be a return meeting of River Breeze and Gigantoi, which met in the Between the Flags plate on Saturday. River Breeze won then by a length, with Welsh Strawbridge up. River Breeze had ten pounds advantage over Gigantoi, but tomorrow will have to allow the Leedam horse five pounds. There are six other races on the card.

MINOR LEAGUE TO MEET.

President Hickey Calls American Association Meeting.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Reports that three or four clubs of the American Association plan to withdraw and merge with certain clubs in the International League caused President Hickey of the American Association to issue a call for a conference of the club owners to be held in Milwaukee next Sunday.

"If Indianapolis, Louisville, and Toledo club owners have decided to secede, it is only proper that we should know about it," Hickey said. "I know nothing officially of these reports, but we shall expect at our Milwaukee conference to have them either denied or admitted."

President Hickey wants an explanation of the reported movement in advance of the annual meeting of the association, which is to be held in Louisville on Nov. 12.

Baseball Is Dying Hard.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29.—Manager Lee Fohl headed a party of Cleveland Indians who left for Montgomery, Ala., this morning, where they will play a series of five exhibition games with the soldier team, starting Wednesday. The party includes Secretary Blackwood, Klepfer, Smith, Graney, Wood, O'Neill, Deberry, Morton, Bagby, Chapman, Howard, Roth, Speaker, and Nick Altrock, the Washington comedian, who is going along as coacher.

AMATEURS WIN IN TWO EXTRA HOLES

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Playing a brilliant uphill game and bringing into execution all the high-class golf at their command Chick Evans, national open and amateur champion, and Norman Maxwell, North and South champion, defeated Jim Barnes, national professional and Western open champion, and Eddie Loos of Shawnee, winning in two extra holes, the match going to the thirty-eighth green. The contest was a benefit foursome for the soldiers' tobacco fund over the White Marsh Valley Country Club course at White Marsh today.

Barnes and Loos were 2 up until the thirteenth hole was reached in the afternoon round, when Evans ran down a twenty-five-foot putt for a 3, the amateurs taking the hole as Barnes and Loos took fours. On the next four holes the quartet broke even, and it was not until the eighteenth was reached that the amateurs saved the day for themselves, taking the hole and placing the match on even terms for the first time since the first hole of the day was played.

The first extra hole was all square, and on the second extra hole, the thirty-eighth, the amateurs got the jump, and by playing their shots well, took the hole and a thrilling match. A few weeks ago Barnes, Maxwell, Loos, and Buxton engaged in a forty-two-hole match for the Red Cross.

SQUASH TO AID WAR FUND.

Championship Aspect to be Absent from Contests This Season.

The championship feature will be lacking in all squash tennis tournaments this Winter, according to the announcement of the National Squash Tennis Association after a meeting at the Squash Club yesterday. It was decided, however, to hold three big tournaments during the year, and make them patriotic events, the proceeds from each to go toward an ambulance fund. Walter A. Kinsella, holder of the world's professional squash tennis championship, has offered his services to the association, and will play in exhibition matches at a number of clubs in aid of the Red Cross. The champion will play against any opponent which a club holding a match desires to pit against him.

The first tournament of the season, the Fall scratch event, will begin at the Squash Club on Nov. 22. A handicap tournament will begin at the Yale Club on Dec. 2, and on Feb. 2 the substitute for the national championship will begin at the Harvard Club. These were the only dates determined upon at yesterday's meeting and whether or no other events will be added to the season's program is in doubt. The inter-club team matches, in both A and B classes, depend largely on the entry which turns out for the Fall scratch tournament. If it seems then that there are enough players able to devote their time to the team matches, a schedule will probably be arranged.

APPLICATIONS SENT OUT.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 29.—The Harvard Athletic Association has started the forwarding of twenty thousand applications to graduates of that university so that those who wish to witness the Harvard-Yale freshman game can mail a check for reservations at the rate of $1.10 per seat.

The freshman game will be played in the Harvard Stadium at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Nov. 17. While these two elevens are performing, the Newport Naval Reserves, with their former college stars, will be playing the Harvard informal team on the freshman gridiron outside the stadium.

On the Naval team will be Cupid Black and Callahan of Yale, Gerrish of Dartmouth, Charley Barrett and Schlichter of Cornell, Sweetland of Washington and Jefferson, and Eberstad of Princeton. It should prove quite a novelty for these former stars to be out of the limelight while at their old game.

The Harvard informal team will play its first contest on the freshman gridiron on Saturday, when a team from the Portland Naval Reserves will be met, while elevens representing the Army and Navy will have possession of the stadium.

Refuses to Allow Race Meet.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Mayor William Hale Thompson tonight refused to issue a license for a fifiteen-day race meeting scheduled to open today at a half-mile course in Austin. The Mayor said he believed the venture would result in gambling and the revivial of handbooks. Promoters of the meeting had promised to make it a "betless" affair.

GIVES ATHLETIC SUPPLIES.

A. A. U. Presents Ten Boxes of Equipment to Soldiers.

Ten boxes containing athletic paraphernalia were distributed yesterday by the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union to the soldiers now stationed at Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I.; Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., and the Fifteenth Infantry at Van Cortlandt Park. The donations were divided eight to Camp Upton and one each to Camp Dix and the Fifteenth Infantry, and each box held a basket ball, rugby football, soccer football, indoor baseball, indoor baseball bat, and a set of boxing gloves. These articles were specified as most adaptable to the athletic diversion of a soldier in training, by General Read, Division Athletic Officer, replying to a letter President Rubien had sent to Major Gen. Franklin Bell.

This act marks the initial step in the plan to keep the soldiers at the cantonments in the vicinity of New York supplied with plenty of athletic material while they are in training. In accordance with this plan, Secretary Herman Obertubbessing of the Metropolitan Association, has sent to all clubs enrolled with the local body a letter requesting co-operation, and soliciting one or more boxes from each of the 156 organizations. It is likely that the majority of the clubs will respond generously to the request.

In speaking of the plan yesterday President Rubien said

"The responsibility is on us at home to equip our boys who are in training with all their needs, and I feel that the members of our association never had a more worthy obect than to provide the boys with the proper means for healthful enjoyment and athletic exercise."

PUPPY STAKES TO FLOSSIE.

CALDWELL, N. J., Oct. 29.—The New Jersey Beagle Club, Limited, this afternoon began its annual field trials at its course in Roseland. The show will go on all week. It is the largest in the history of the organization, there being dogs from New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, and Maryland on exhibition.

The Puppy Class was decided this afternoon. It was also planned to finish the Thirteen-Inch Derby, but owing to the failure of some of the dogs entered to reach the field in time to compete the derby was unfinished. The winner in the Puppy Stakes was Charmion Flossie of the Charmion Kennels; Rosedale Winnie was second and Charmion Victor third.

DUNDEE IN RING TONIGHT.

Will Box Jimmy Duffy at Pioneer Sporting Club.

Johnny Dundee, the local Italian lightweight who is looked upon as one of Benny Leonard's most formidable challengers, will appear in the main ten-round bout this evening at the Pioneer S. C. on West Forty-fourth Street. He will box Jimmy Duffy, the sturdy west side lightweight, over whom in a previous engagement he gained the popular verdict, although the margin was not large. Duffy knows little of the scientific end of the sport, but what he lacks in this direction is made up for in his aggressiveness and willingness to mix with an opponent.

Another ten-round bout is on the card, in which the principals will be Paddy Burns, the Rockaway lightweight, and Sammy Baker of Rochester. This will be the latter's initial appearance here, but he comes from up-State well recommended.

WISCONSIN BARS BRITTON.

Boxing Commission Suspends Pugilist for Six Months.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 29.—The Wisconsin Boxing Commission today suspended Dan Morgan and his string of boxers, including Jack Britton, from engaging in any contests in Wisconsin for a period of six months because of Britton's failure to post a forfeit in connection with a bout between Britton and Kid Billings at Superior on Oct. 3.

The commission set Nov. 12 for a hearing covering the recent bout in Milwaukee between Fred Fulton and Bob Devere, heavyweights. Devere was apparently stopped by Fulton in the fifth round, bu tsome members of the commission are of the opinion that Devere "quit."

Sutter to Lead Wesleyan.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 29.—Walter F. Sutter of Elizabeth, N. J., was today elected Captain of the Wesleyan football team to take the place of Harold C. T. Woolley of Great Neck, L. I., who has typhoid fever and will be unable to play for the remainder of the season. Sutter is a senior and plays left guard.

EDDIE HEARN WINS AUTOMOBILE RACE

UNIONTOWN, Penn., Oct. 29.—In a race in which Gaston Chevrolet of Plainfield, N. J., driver, and Salvatore Barbarino, mechanician, were severely injured and narrowly escaped death when their machine on the 112th lap skidded and crashed into the guard rail surrounding the track, Eddie Hearne won the annual Autumn Classic of 168 miles on the Uniontown Speedway today. His time was 1:49:2.85. Tom Milton was a close second, making the distance in 1:49:27.45. Earl Devore and Ira Vail, driving in relay, finished third in the race for the prize of $3,000, their time was 1:54:37.05.

Chevrolet met with his first mishap on the thirty-first lap, when in turning into the pits to change a tire he applied his brakes too suddenly and the car crashed into the pit wall. Within a few minutes he was back into the race and was driving at a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour in an attempt to regain lost time, when his machine skidded and got out of his control on the straightway and crashed into the guard rail. Chevrolet suffered injuries to his left side, left hip, and back. The mechanician's injuries were slight. Both men are in a hospital here. The car was wrecked and about 100 feet of the guard rail torn away.

Fred McCarthy of Pittsburgh won the fifty-mile consolation race and also the three-cornered match race for the Uniontown Speedway Championship Trophy.

CYCLISTS SELECT KRAMER.

Ex-Champion to Formulate Rules for Six-Day Race.

The American bicycle riders who will compete in the coming six-day race in Madison Square Garden the week of Dec. 2 to 8 have selected the ex-champion, Frank Kramer, to formulate rules for the running of the contest. The point awards as proposed by the management have been unanimously agreed to by all the competitors, and all that remains now is the drafting of stringent rules to insure a clean race.

Kramer has the entire confidence of all the riders and his experience in the racing should make him a valuable representative. Arthur Spencer, the present titleholder, has proposed that an arrangement be made whereby it is possible for a team to regain a lost lap by winning 50 per cent. of the sprints on any day after the lap is lost.

YALE TO PLAY BASKET BALL.

Some of the doubt which has surrounded the question of Yale's entry into the Intercollegiate Basketball League this year was dispelled yesterday, when a delegate from New Haven to the meeting of the Intercollegiate Basketball Association at the Hotel Imperial intimated that the Blue would compete. The participation of the Yale team in the series still has to be sanctioned, by the athletic authorities at New Haven, and particularly by Captain Overton, who is in charge of the military training, but it is anticipated that the necessary approval will be forthcoming.

It is certain now that the intercollegiate league will be a thing of fact in spite of the war conditions. Ralph Morgan, Secretary of the association, said yesterday that a schedule would be played even though there were only four teams in the race. The prospect, however, is that there will be six, the same as last year, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Yale. A tentative schedule was drawn up, but it was not announced as several dates have not been definitely determined.

GREEN CORRECTS MISTAKES.

Coach Spears Objects to Too Frequent Fumbling.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Coach Spears kept his Dartmouth squad indoors most of this afternoon because of the rain and went over the faults of Saturday's game. The poor tackling and frequent fumbles of the team had his special attention. Fumbling at this time of the season received much of the coach's wrath and the men who did most of this in the New Hampshire game may be kept out of the Penn State contest on Saturday.

The players were on the wet field toward the end of the afternoon and had a long signal drill, in which the team that started against West Virginia was used with the exception of Murphy, the big freshman tackle, who may be displaced by Bevan, one of last year's second string men, for the rest of the season.

'ON WITH THE DANCE' JOY NOT UNCONFINED

JOHN MASON AND JULIA DEAN

Edward Lawrence	William Morris
Agnes	Merceita Esmonde
Hugh Fraser	Edward Abeles
Loutie Fraser	Marta Mansfield
Billy Sutherland	John Mason
Gustave	Eugene Redding
Fay Esmond	Julia Dean
Gil Bevans	James Spottswood
Mrs. Sutherland	Corinne Barker
Clarence James	Robert Schable
Maitre D'Hotel	Claude Cooper
Detective Sergeant Donegan	Edwin Walter

If Nina Lawrence succeeded in winning the gold cup at Leone's Dance Club the socially elect would not like her for it. They would hate her, with a mad envy of her prowess. But they would be obliged to invite her to their parties. Nina lived on Riverside Drive in an apartment so gorgeous that the audience applauded the scenery. But her husband felt quite differently about it. Every night when he returned from Wall Street, each piece of furniture seemed to cry out to him in the accents of the auctioneer, "How much is bid for me?" Nina's extravagance had brought him to the brink of ruin. But little cared Nina for that. She had made the acquaintance of Billy Sutherland, who was not only socially elected, but financially crowned in the Street. And Sutherland was pursuing Nina, with fell intent, ready cash, and offers of social election. He was her partner for the dance at Leone's, and, the gold cup won, would have no difficulty at all in putting Nina over on society. Can you wonder that Nina gave a dinner party, and then went on to Leone's?

But husband said, "No!" He was a very uncomfortable husband, with moral scruples and carpet slipper ideals of home life. When the neighbors' children squalled on the other side of the court he read his childless, dancing wife a lecture on the beauties and the duties of maternity. On the night of Nina's dinner to Sutherland he came in to find Fay Esmond there. Fay had been Sutherland's dance partner some turns back; and now, with carmine cheeks, squared with court plaster, and a gown of moonlight silver, was on the town. There were whole smudges of carmine, regions of court plaster, and a nether heaven of moonlight silver. And her town was the tango parlor. But still she was not content. She thirsted for the blood of Sutherland, and butted into Nina's dinner party to tell husband so. Husband took her tip, and also her revolver, which had once belonged to Sutherland. Hist! For thus the plot creeps stealthily into the play.

Against husband's stern "No!" Nina goes to the tango parlor with Sutherland. Like the villain of still more ancient melodrama, husband still pursues her. There he finds Fay, clad in quite other bedizenments, still more gorgeous. The plot now progresses by leaps and bounds. Husband frames it up with Fay that she shall join them at supper and, by way of society small talk, tell Nina what Sutherland once did to her. The scene progresses in a suddenly darkened and deserted stage, but about a supper table conveniently lighted from a glow beneath the glass top. Thus the audience, in spite of the prevailing gloom, were enabled to see the play of emotion on Fay's passion-wrenched features, and also on Nina's countenance, white and scared.

Even that great scene of the third act did not move Nina, not so you could notice it. She sat right there, resolute to win the gold cup and her position in society. But, as she rose to join the dance with Sutherland, husband shot the villain.

Sutherland once dead, and the gold cup gone glimmering, Nina seems to have despaired of her social ambitions. She followed husband home and, in the fourth and last act, became a loyal wife, framing up the neat little plot by which they escaped the police—powerfully aided, to be sure, by the still avenging Fay and the revolver which had once belonged to Sutherland and now had wrought his death.

There was a lot more than this—incident and episode, involution and evolution, even another dance-maddened couple who served as comic underplot. But enough has been told to indicate to the shrewd and discerning that the play soaks all tango-joints and is death on lounge-lizards.

There were long passages of philosophy and moralization on the subject—wads and gobs of it. None of the tense scenes of drama was too tense to be halted in the middle, while husband and wife-stealer sat amiably on the table together and discussed the moral law. It must have been with a premonition of what was coming to them that the tango-teazer vanished from these parts some three years ago, and the lounge lizard slid back into his primordial mire. These are wise guys, and you have to be quick on the trigger to bag them.

The scenery and costumes, as indicated, were the acme of magnificence. And they, at least, were in good taste. The cast showed Manager A. H. Woods at his most liberal and discerning. John Mason has never been more suave, assured, and subtle in method. He almost succeeded in breathing life into Sutherland.

Julia Dean played the bedizened lady of the tango past with genuine emotional force. As Nina, the one-stepping wife, Eileen Huban was very pretty and tremulously alive with her dance madness and her luxury madness. Edward Abeles and Marta Mansfield, as the other dancing couple, really characterized their parts, and very amusingly. But there is a limit to the Broadway appetite for Third Avenue melodrama. And it is to be feared that this is the limit.

FROM FRONT TO THE PALACE

Maurice and Florence Walton, lately back from a dancing trip to the front, returned to the vaudeville stage at the Palace yesterday afternoon. They offered a répertoire of their now familiar numbers, varied occasionally here and there by the military motif. Vastly amusing were John Swor and West Avey, who have joined hands in a new blackface act which has most of the laughable moments of the late Swor-and-Mack turn, and some others as well.

Will Cressy returns with another of his homely and amusing sketches, and the ever nasal Blossom Seeley is back with another of her eerie musical acts. By way of making a family party of it the program also includes Rube Marquard, now teamed with William Dooley, an entertainer who sets a pace several miles beyond Mr. Marquard's wildest dreams.

TENOR AND BARITONE HEARD

George Harris, tenor, has repeatedly shown before now how he can make the program of his song recitals of unique interest, by his exploration in unfamiliar fields. He gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall in which his program was far from the conventional. He began with the air, "Sound an Alarm," with its preceding recitative from Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus," and two airs by Bach, both with violin obbligato, played by Reber Johnson. There was then a long leap and Mr. Harris sang five songs by Duparc. His special knowledge of Russian literature and music brought to the program airs from Tschaikowsky's "Eugene Oregin" and Rimsky Korsakof's "Snegourotchka," and songs by Rachmaninoff.

There was an interesting group of folk songs in arrangements by Cecil Sharp and Howard Brockway; a song of Mr. Harris's own composition, being a setting of Christina Rossetti's "Up Hill"; and two patriotic songs to end with "Le Credo Patriotique," by Barbirolli, and Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mr. Harris, like many others, eliminated the modern German Lied.

His singing of all this music showed the great intelligence and musical understanding that have marked his work for a good many years. Mr. Harris obviously enters into the inner significance of most things that he sings. There are discrimination and judgment and full feeling and sympathy in his interpretations. It is a part of his attitude toward the singing of songs that his enunciation and diction should be of exceptional clearness and intelligibility. Mr. Harris's voice is not of the greatest power, nor is its production always of evident ease. To obtain some of his effects an apparent forcing seems sometimes necessary. But at its best its tones are excellent, and Mr. Harris has been able to get the most out of it. There was a large and interested audience. Mr. Ernesto Rappée played the accompaniments with exceptional sympathy.

Arthur Middleton, a baritone who has appeared at the opera, gave his first New York song recital to a large audience in Aeolian Hall, where he earned last evening more than the usual enthusiasm shown to a recruit to the concert stage. He sang as an artist, his wealth of voice, of musical quality, power and control, tracing at leisure the sustained phrases of old English airs, to audible expressions of delight from some hearers. There was an exaggerated pianissimo in Handel's "Where'er You Walk," but the mannerism lent tenderness and humor to a later encore, Homer's "Uncle Rom," or to the gay bit of braggadocio in Lucy Broadwood's "Old Surrey Air."

Mr. Middleton sang Shubert's "Der Wanderer," Thomas's "Le Tambour Major," Rossini's "Largo al Factotum," in as many languages and styles, finishing with the rough dash and dialect of familiar ballads from Kipling.

Benefit for Antilles Victims.

Mrs. Oliver Harriman, President of the Junior Patriot, of America, 527 Fifth Avenue, announced yesterday that her organization intended to give a benefit at the Hippodrome on Nov. 11 for needy relatives of the victims of the torpedoed American transport Antilles. The entertainment will consist of various magic performances by Houdini, Mme. Harmann, Howard Thurston, Carter De Biere, Hardeen, Leipsig and others. Charles B. Dillingham has donated the Hippodrome. Frank E. Tours will direct a band of 125 musicians. Raymond Hitchcock, Leon Carrol and other artists will appear.

MUSIC NOTES.

Carlos Salzedo, the French harpist, will play at tonight's meeting of the New York Community Chorus, to be held as usual in the Great Hall of the City College.

The Philharmonic Society's players, who subscribed $12,000 to the Liberty Loan, are 100 per cent. American citizens, it is said. More than half the orchestra now are native born.

NEW YORK NOW FACES A FAMINE IN PENNIES

Sub-Treasury Swept Clean of Last Copper Cent—Vogel May Ask Children to Empty Banks.

Despite the extravagant levels at which most articles are now selling, or perhaps because of it, there has developed a famine in the smallest coins turned out by the United States mints. Officials at the Sub-Treasury in Wall Street say that never within their recollection has it been so difficult to obtain pennies to meet the demands of banks.

In past years an increase in the demand for pennies has been noticeable around Nov. 1, and this continued until the end of the holiday season. This year the demand set in a full month earlier and increased to such proportions that the Sub-Treasury has been swept clear of its last copper cent. As a rule the Government carries upward of 10,000,000 pennies in stock here, but had only 3,000,000 on hand when the unseasonable demand began.

Bankers explain the sudden popularity of the smallest coin on the ground of increases in articles selling for odd cents. Cigars, cigarettes, milk, and a great many other things which used to be priced with the nickel as a unit have been advanced by a cent or two at a time with the result that dealers' requirements for small change have been augmented. No relief has been obtainable from Philadelphia, for the Government mints are short approximately 10,000,000 pennies. The requisitions for new coins put in at the mint are cut down to a very small proportion of what is needed. The mint has been working day and night, but has not been able to increase its output of pennies materially owing to the call for other coins.

The department stores take a great many more pennies from the banks than they receive in change, and one large store featuring odd prices draws upon the Sub-Treasury for half a million pennies a week in the holiday shopping season. Most of the coins eventually come back through the collections taken by the gum machines, platform scales, newsdealers, and telephone companies.

The shortage has proved so embarrassing that Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, is considering an appeal to the children of New York to empty their savings banks in order to increase the number in circulation. Despite the big annual output of new coins, pennies are rapidly taken out of trade, and it is estimated that several hundred thousand dollars' worth are held in toy banks throughout the country.

Asks Help for Foreign Sufferers.

Mayor Mitchel issued a proclamation yesterday designating Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 10 and 11, "as days when all citizens should observe in special remembrance the sufferings of the peoples of Armenia, Syria and Palestine, and give offerings for their immediate and adequate relief." The Mayor said he was informed that there are at present 2,500,000 men, women, and children in Armenia, Syria, and Palestine who are on the verge of starvation.

LESSONS OF THE ITALIAN DISASTER.

It is right to learn from the enemy, said OVID. The teaching of Germany's tremendous assault upon the Italian advanced front is too plain to be missed by any of the Allies. What we learn is that Germany comes to the relief of her allies when they are in distress and hard pressed, and comes with compelling force. The Entente Allies did not go to the relief of Serbia, of Montenegro, or Rumania. They saw Russian Poland lost to the enemy and did nothing, probably could do nothing, to help Russia, save by increasing the pressure upon the western line. When Russia finally succumbed to the poison of socialism and treason within, her allies gave no aid save by kind words and pious wishes.

At the moment when the Italian advance in the Julian Alps had put Austria in real peril, at the moment, too, when it may be that Austria was on the point of giving up the struggle, Germany sent a great host of half a million men, amply equipped and supplied with artillery, to beat back the invaders. The Italians were beaten so overwhelmingly that they have lost the gains of one and one-half years of brave fighting. Germans are on their soil, and Venice, the whole of northern Italy, is in danger.

It is a disaster of the first moment for the Entente Allies. Plainly it defers to a more remote time the day when we may hope for peace on just terms. It gives the very greatest encouragement to the extreme war party in Germany, and from this point of view the defeat inflicted upon the Italians could not have come at a worse time. The Germans had need of all their fortitude to endure the great suffering of the coming Winter. The straits to which they have been put, their suffering, the need which all the German people have for a speedy peace, were all reflected in the political unrest of which the Berlin dispatches of only a few weeks ago gave such encouraging accounts. Probably we shall hear less now of the union of the Centre and the Socialists against the war party, the differences in the Reichstag will be adjusted, forgotten, and all Germany, heartened by the military collapse of Russia and by the victory over CADORNA's forces, will gird itself anew to endure privations, hunger, want, sustained and buoyed up by the picture the Pan German party will put before the people of the German military gains, portents of certain victory if Germans will stand by the Imperial Government and the armies in the field. They will insist that Russia has been overcome, that Italy is about to be crushed to the yielding point, and then the whole forces of the empire can be turned against the foes in the West.

It is in some degree encouraging to be informed from London that "steps "have already been taken for rendering the fullest possible assist"ance to the Italians." We should not despair of Italy, perhaps help will arrive in time. But it was known weeks ago that the Italians were in urgent need of munitions and of coal. The correspondent of THE TIMES with CADORNA's armies told of their dire need. Some British and French troops were sent to that front, it appears, but it is reasonable to infer that the astonishing suddenness of the German triumph was due, not to the lack of courage on the part of the Italian soldiers, but to the lack of guns and shells. An army that had advanced so far into the enemy's country was obviously in an exposed position, a powerful counterattack might cut it off and in large part destroy it. All that must have been known to the high commands of Italy's allies. Yet no help was sent to Italy sufficient to fortify her effectively against the German assault. The difficulty of giving help is well known. Germany, moving on interior lines, while the Allies must cover much greater distances, has a great advantage. But the circumstances do seem to indicate lack of co-ordination on the part of the Allies, the want of a supreme command keeping a vigilant eye upon all the fronts and guarding against danger by foresight. Nothing but sheer inability to give help to Italy can excuse the failure to render it.

The lesson for us in the United States is that we must with all speed and with all energy forward and complete our preparations to bear a serious part in a war that we can now see is to be one of magnitude and not short. We feel and say that our achievements in preparation since we entered the war have been magnificent. That is true. We know, too, that we have made mistakes. Mistakes committed during the stage of preparation are easily condoned, may be forgotten. It is very different now. Some of our troops are at the front, many thousands of them will soon be engaged in the actual fighting. Other hundreds of thousands will be swiftly organized into armies, trained and forwarded to the western field of war. The work of supplying equipment and munitions will engage all our resources. Mistakes now and in the future would be so enormously costly that they must be guarded against by the most thoughtful prevision.

First of all, we must see to it that the men in charge of this gigantic work are equal to their task. Private reputations, high standing, personal friendships, count for nothing in time of war. All our allies have made changes without number. Commanders of great reputations, statesmen of long experience, have been set aside, to the end that the ablest, the best, the most efficient might, in this supreme hour, be charged with the duties upon the faithful performance of which so much depends. That must be our rule. The American people, too, must understand that the contributions and sacrifices they have already made are but the beginning. All our resources of men, money, and material have been pledged to the purposes of the war to make the world safe for democracy, and in the spirit of that great offering the people must continue to give support to the Government in the war for freedom.

MR. HILLQUIT'S CLEAR MANDATE.

"A Socialist victory in the city election," says Mr. HILLQUIT, "will be a "clear mandate to open negotiations "for a general peace," and he calls the hollow and false proposals of Germany and Austria "the only possible basis for a durable peace."

In short, a peace worthy of Mr. HILLQUIT, one of the Socialist delegates to whom the United States Government refused passports to go to the Stockholm Conference, there to intrigue with the German Socialists for a German peace. Out of his own mouth is he condemned. What Mr. WILSON rejects, a fatal peace with a Government of lies, a peace impossible, a peace that would make useless the sacrifices of the war and bind the world to the wheel of Germany, a peace that would mean the defeat and ruin of free nations, that is the peace Mr. HILLQUIT strives for and would welcome.

A "clear mandate to open negotiations for a general peace," that is what he feels that his election would mean. Does New York want peace on Mr. WILSON's terms and after Mr. WILSON's condition precedent, or is it peace after the heart of Mr. HILLQUIT and the Central Powers?

The only result of this echo of the Wilhelmstrasse and the Ballplatz, the only effect of this propaganda for the negotiation of a general peace before there is a responsible and trustworthy German Government to negotiate with, is to mislead and encourage Germany, to postpone the hour of repentance and restitution, to lengthen the war. Mr. HILLQUIT, so far as he can, is working for the loss of more American lives, not for peace. There can be no peace that will make vain all the labors and sufferings and disasters of democracy and expose the free world to a repetition of the slaughter when Germany recuperates.

In Mr. HILLQUIT's following are many pacifists, many foes of conscription, many men who came to this country to avoid conscription. He is leading them away from the only road to peace. He is helping to prolong the war. He is increasing their chances of conscription.

"OVER THE TOP."

Our Liberty Loan surpasses every other in the world's history almost certainly in amount and possibly in number of subscribers. That is a world's record which is not capable of being misunderstood in either camp. Every one of our soldiers will go over the top more cheerfully and irresistibly because he knows that his countrymen are behind him. Every boche who is allowed to know that our resources are behind our men will suffer in morale correspondingly, and we know that in war victory goes to the strongest nerves as well as to the strongest arms. We have struck our pace at last, but it behooves us to remember that we hold the record only upon a national comparison. Man for man, other peoples have outdone us so far that modesty becomes us. Not until one in each four of us is a bondholder, not until our taxes are $60 apiece, can we add our boast of what we have done for democracy as individuals to our fair record as a nation. The true touchstone of our stability lies ahead.

Our local figures give confidence that our financial machinery is equal to every present or future test. What we have done would have been difficult, perhaps impossible, without the Federal Reserve system. It is a surprise that it contains one institution capable of contributing over $100,000,000 to the loan, and that institution a State trust company. Certainly so great an effort could not have been ventured without certainty of support by the system itself. That the rank and file of Wall Street are heart and soul committed to the war against Kaiserism appears from the fact that single banks number their subscribers by tens of thousands. The returns are still incomplete, but there are certainly four whose lists run near 20,000 apiece, and in one case far exceed it. The number of local subscribers is probably nearer three than two millions. If the country has done as well, and there is some reason to suppose that it has done better so far as numbers of small subscriptions go, there is no doubt that the German record of number of subscribers has been beaten. Seven million subscribers are necessary if the loan is to be a world beater in this respect.

In several respects the success of this loan is beneficial to this country apart from its bearing on the war. When our bondholders are numbered by millions it will be impossible for the most malicious and ignorant to resist the proof that capitalists of that sort are public benefactors rather than parasites upon the public purse. So many of these bonds are taken upon the partial payment plan that thrift will be taught and practiced long after peace. Millions will come to know that capitalism is a result of self-denial rather than of theft, and that it is a duty of the individual to practice it rather than of the State to make living easy for spendthrifts. There is a motto of six W's which it is worth while to remember as a maxim after the war as well as for the winning of the war. "We won't win while we waste" is just as true of the war against want as of the war for the rescue of democracy. What we need for the easy winning of the war is to turn the wastes of peace into the wastes of the war.

That exchange of one waste for another will be a gain rather than a loss, in economic, military, and political senses. Before the war it had been remarked that cities, States, and the nation were spending money recklessly. It will be a benefit to have a compulsory arrest of the increase of debts in private and public life. It will be an inestimable blessing that the waste thus stopped should be devoted to the impregnable fortification of democracy everywhere forever. It was another hateful autocrat who wished that the people had but a single neck so that he might be saved the trouble of so many executions. The turn of the wheel has put the neck of every autocrat at once in the power of the universal democracy. Never before was it possible to make a complete job of the establishment of the rule of the people. The Liberty Loan is truly named. It cannot be too great, nor be wasted, if only the job is done. It is a privilege to contribute to so great a cause, or to live in the time when so great a feat is accomplished.

FIGHTING AGAINST THE SCHOOLS.

A great many emigrants from Europe have left their homes and come to this city in the last few years. Religious persecution, the denial of political and educational equality, bad economic conditions, the desire to give their children freer and larger opportunity, some or all these motives stirred them. It is a matter of common observation that no part of our citizenship is keener for the education of its children. The readiness, the eagerness, to learn of these children, their adaptability to new surroundings, the quickness of their minds, have struck all their teachers.

For these children and other children, for the multitudinous children of school age, multiplying a good deal faster than schoolhouses can keep up with them, Mr. MITCHEL's administration has done a great work. By using certain schools to the full instead of having idle rooms in them, by the division of the school duties into "work, study, play," by lengthening the school hours, by developing the faculties of hand and head of the pupils, while giving the same amount of time to academic studies as was given before in the older type of school, the administration has put at the service of these pupils a better system of training and instruction. At the same time it has reduced enormously the number of pupils on part time.

Would any of the parents of the children in the so-called Gary plan schools prefer that their children should go without education? Would they prefer that their children should be only partly educated?

It is physically and financially impossible to build schoolhouses of the old sort fast enough to keep up with the growth of school population. What cruel and heartless liars spread among some of the parents, unfamiliar with our language, perhaps, the story that "Rockefeller" or "Gary," that "the rich," were at the bottom of this democratic system, which does give the poorest some of the advantages which rich parents get for their children in costly private schools?

These parents want the best for their children. They want to be good Americans. Well, a new idea, an improvement in education, is surely American. The parents who object, on account of the falsehoods told them by politicians, to the Gary system are objecting to an American, a modern, the best education, for their children. They are objecting to what they came over here to get, a better opportunity for their children.

THE LIBERTY CANDIDATE.

How can any patriotic New York voter who has bought a Liberty bond vote for HILLQUIT or HYLAN?

HILLQUIT is the candidate of a party that calls the war "a crime," proclaims "unyielding opposition" to conscription. The convention that nominated him declared that compulsory military service is "nothing less "than a transfer to American soil of "Prussian militarism." He refused to buy a Liberty bond. He and his party are against the war, every means of carrying it on. How can a buyer of a Liberty bond vote for a constant friend of Germany, who is doing all in his power to submit the United States and the other free democracies to the rule of German military despotism?

How can any man who wants the cause of the United States and free government to win vote for the German candidate? How can any man who has a relative or a friend in the American Army support its enemy? Leave HILLQUIT to his partisans, the anti-conscriptionists, the German pacifists, the German Socialists, the Russian tools or dupes of Germany.

Judge HYLAN has bought a Liberty bond, but among his friends and sponsors are notorious disloyalists, the conspirators against our associate in the war, Great Britain; the newspapers, English and German, that have been openly pro-German, that since the United States entered the war have veiled a little but not changed their German bias; many of the aiders and abettors of Germany and a peace that will leave it triumphant. He is to be judged by the company he keeps.

All the traitors in act or intent, all the seditionaries, all the partisans of Germany, are divided between HYLAN and HILLQUIT. Not one is for MITCHEL. New York has given her men and her money to the war for liberty. Next Tuesday she will give her vote.

SOUTH AMERICA AND THE WAR.

While Brazil is the only South American republic openly at war with our enemies in Europe, other countries in the southern continent, and a great majority of their people, approve her course. Peru and Uruguay are the latest additions to the list of those which have severed diplomatic relations with Germany. There is no room for doubt as to the attitude of others, with the possible exceptions of Colombia and Venezuela, and it would be unjust to accuse them of preferring the German side. In Argentina only the influence of German capital and intrigue has prevented such action hostile to Germany as a majority of her people undoubtedly desire. German influence in Argentina has been exerted in many ways. Recently there have been promises of trade favor after the war. No other South American country has had more provocation from Germany, and now there is expected the addition of proof that the German Embassy at Buenos Aires was plotting an insurrection in Brazil.

Some light is thrown upon German influence in Argentina by our recent dispatches from The Hague which gave the substance of an article contributed to a prominent German newspaper by "an Argentine diplomat," whose name was withheld. He may be Argentina's Ambassador, who was recalled when Count VON LUXBURG received his passports at Buenos Aires. Argentina, he asserts, opposes the Monroe Doctrine, and has no sympathy with England or the United States. He adds that we "vainly tried to dismember" the combination of Argentina, Brazil, and Chile. If these are the statements of a diplomatic representative of the southern republic, he deserves to be classed with LUXBURG. The paper which publishes his assertions points to another indication of German influence when it says that the Entente Allies can expect no aid from the Argentine Army, because it was organized and instructed by Germans and is now under the command of officers who are German immigrants.

Our policy concerning nations of the southern continent, the same German paper says, has in view only the capture of South American trade after the war. We have the bulk of that trade now, not because of any policy, but for the reason that it has come to us. After the declaration of peace the greater part of what has been gained will be kept. This trade is growing steadily. Here are the figures for the eight months that ended with August:

Imports	286,670,000	433,454,000

About 75 per cent. of this is with Argentina, Brazil, and Chile. It can be seen that the balance is very much in their favor. Trade growth has promoted in the southern countries that friendship for the United States which has repeatedly been expressed by official action and statement in the last few months. Germany has lost in that part of the world much that will not be regained after the war.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Chance for All to Help.

President WILSON's appeal for a wise economy in the use of food by everybody in the country is made with the earnestness that the importance of the subject justifies, and his words deserve to be understood as well as heeded. The understanding will make the heeding easy, for whoever reads the appeal with care will see that what is asked is not that we should go hungry—that we should endure suffering or even hardship—but simply that we should use a reasonable discretion in the choice of food instead of following our usual custom of ordering for each day whatever sorts of food personal taste or fancy at the moment demands.

The first thing for us to do is to get clearly in mind the sorts of food that have what may be called military as distinguished from, and in addition to, alimentary value. Certain meats and certain grains have the qualities of preservability and transportability to a higher degree than others, and they are, therefore, to be avoided to some degree as articles for home consumption in order that they may be available in greater quantities for sending abroad where they are so much needed both by our allies and by our soldiers in the field. Enough will be left of other things on which we can live, and live well, and surely it is not for us to complain if in this way the variety of our diet is slightly, or even considerably, decreased.

The President's other exhortation is that we cease to waste food of any kind. Such waste is a habit of long standing here, and it has been carried to an extent that was always provocative of more or less indignant comment by foreign critics. Many of them exaggerated our sins in this direction, but there has been a basis of fact for their charges, and now it is as much a privilege as a duty for us to reform. A carefulness that in the past we would have viewed as little better than meanness now wears another aspect, for it will enable even those of us who, in the military sense, are least efficient to do our part, and a most essential part, in the conduct of the war.

Relation of Soldiers to the Loan.

No particular disquietude need be caused in any minds by the news that a good many men in the training camps have subscribed for Liberty bonds which they will find it difficult or impossible to pay for. That this has happened is, indeed, to be regretted, for it will result in a certain amount of embarrassment and trouble for all whom the mistake concerns, but of this there will be only enough to serve as an efficient warning not to make the same mistake again.

The success of the loan will not be affected in any way or degree, for every one of the bonds thus taken can be transferred to other owners, if necessary, without loss to anybody. Nothing that the soldiers have paid on their bonds will in any conceivable circumstances be forfeited by them or lost, for in every instance provision against that will be made, and in the other and presumably more numerous cases in which the men, to carry out the contract they signed, will be put to more or less painful inconvenience there will be at the end of the agreed term of payment only the consequence that they will have in better than cash form an amount of money which, otherwise, in all probability, would not have been theirs.

But while it is well not to take this episode too seriously, it is also well not to ignore its lessons. The first and most important of those lessons, probably, is that, when future loans are made, the help of the men in the army and navy should not be asked as if they were under the ordinary citizens' obligation to subscribe. If they want to subscribe and have the means, of course they will have the right to do so. But they also have the best of rights to say that if they do the fighting—and the dying and suffering—the people who do neither can well afford to do the paying.

The soldier or sailor who does both performs what the theologians call a work of supererogation—a fine thing, doubtless, but not reasonably or fairly to be demanded or even expected. Hereafter the soliciting of loan subscriptions at the camps should be less ardent than it was this time. No pressure to subscribe should be brought to bear, and the men should be allowed—in case of need should be made—to realize that, while it is their privilege to lend money to their Government, it is not for them the duty it is for the civilian who remains safely at home.

Punishment to Suit Her Crimes.

Possibly Dr. CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY was not quite serious when he suggested, in the letter printed on this page yesterday, that after the war the present enemies of Germany should refuse to let their citizens be tried in her courts. The idea is not without attractiveness, however, nor would its adoption be without many excuses more than colorable.

The principle of extra-territoriality in legal procedure has been enforced in not a few countries where the expectation of justice for foreigners in the local courts was distinctly greater than recent events have shown it to be in Germany, and a humiliation that Japan, for instance, till not very long ago had to endure might well be imposed on a land that has shown for more than three years as little regard for the rights of other peoples as has the Government of Germany.

Dr. BRADY's proposal, it must be admitted, is calculated to cause considerable pain in German minds, but—well, that is not, for all of us, a really conclusive argument against the scheme.

Germans Under Dutch Names.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having been abroad for over ten months during 1916, in France and other countries, for the sale and distribution of gasoline, so much needed there, I met Hollanders in Paris many times, and when I asked how business was they answered, "It was never better," and all of us, I mean Americans, heard and knew that very important German syndicates under Dutch names were buying up foodstuffs and other necessities, doing a thriving business all around, and exporting to Germany.

SOMETHING TO WEAR.

I need a suit, I do indeed,
And yet the garments that I see
In "stylish serge" and "nobby tweed"
Do not, somehow, appeal to me.

They do not seem to have the touch
Expected by the man who knows;
In fact they are not up to much—
I want another type of clothes.

My wish is for a simple suit,
Yes, plain as plain, yet full of "pep"—
A garb that seems to be en route
To victory at every step.

So many places sell these things—
No price for them would be too high!
I'd fly as though my feet were wings
If only I'd the right to buy!

WOMEN MUST WAIT.

An Appeal to the Men of This State to Vote Against the Woman Suffrage Amendment.

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

No man should vote for equal suffrage who is not willing to see half the seats in our Legislature occupied by women.

Though I do not believe, and never have believed, that women under any circumstances or in any place will ever vote en bloc against the men, yet in the contemplation of so serious and drastic a move as doubling the electorate of a great nation even the above mentioned contingency is one which must be met and reckoned with—a Congress divided equally between men and women, a Senate also, with the vague possibility of a woman in the executive chair.

It is what the leaders of the movement long to see—this is what may happen if millions of our men go to war.

Do you like the prospect? Are you willing to see that day? If not, pause and think before you cast your vote for equal suffrage.

They say that the vote is woman's right. Though the law has denied this, going so far as to declare that it is not even man's right, but simply his privilege, we will, for argument's sake, grant this contention. But what if it is? A true woman waives her rights in times of stress, whether that stress be domestic or public. If there is one virtue hitherto considered as characteristic of the sex it is that of self-forgetfulness when action is demanded or the cry of suffering is heard.

Do not tempt her to forget her noble part. Do not let her be persuaded that there is more glory in obtaining the vote than in the service of love and the perpetuation of an ideal.

But the plea is that to thwart this movement now would be to stay the wheels of progress.

When advance passes the divide, it is no longer ascent but descent; and when taken swiftly, destruction.

Evidences that this extreme exploitation of women has passed the bounds of safety are with us. The graces which once adorned her are fading from our sight. Her modesty is already gone. It is the young man who blushes now and not the girl, or so I hear from some of our City Court Judges. Nothing in the way of business or pleasure is denied the women of this State, with the one exception of the ballot. All occupations are open to them. They can be anything from lobbyists up. They can even for months insult our President and humiliate the nation as no body of men would have been allowed to do for a day. Let them be satisfied with their gains—at least till it has been shown, as it has not been shown yet, that the feminine vote helps either woman or the State.

Again, they make the plea that the enfranchisement of women is a war measure. I do not know how they make that out. I should say that it would be bringing confusion and the utmost distraction into politics and social life at the very time when all such confusion and distraction should be avoided.

If their cause is good, if their confidence is just, they can afford to wait for it a little longer; wait till the public mind and the public sense have become normal again and can rightly judge and seriously weigh this great problem.

Another thing.

Suffragists make a great point of the advantage which the vote will give to working women.

Where is the proof? If the franchise has not succeeded in putting men in a state of absolute contentment with their lot, why should it do so for women?

Mrs. Bryan, in her address at the Henry Street Settlement, dilates upon the added joys which will be given to domestic life when husband and wife have an equal interest in politics; which means, of course, when they think and vote alike. But say they do not, what then?

And mind you, it is because of the very hope that women will not vote as their husbands and brothers do that these would-be reformers justify their attempts to force this movement upon a reluctant electorate.

One word on present conditions. The more serious and conscientious advocates of women's suffrage decry the picketers and their works. But once let suffrage be established, and it will be the picketers and women of their sort who will come to the front and meet the statesman at every turn. If Miss Shaw and Mrs. Catt have failed to control them now, how will it be when they have the vote to back them?

Do you want to see this country given over to tactics of this kind at every municipal and national election?

If so, vote for woman suffrage.

I know that to those who see in equal suffrage the hope of the ages these words will fail of their appeal. But to the men whose mind is not yet made up let me pray that they will not be misled by the demands of the few in judging the wants of the many. We women have hitherto shared with you in equal measure the duties and obligations of life. It is now proposed that we assume not only our own natural burden, but a portion of yours as well; in short, the heavier load of the two, since I hear nothing of your assuming any part of ours.

Is it fair?

OUSTS SERVANTS WHO SPURN FOOD CARDS

Mrs. Francis Griffin Dismisses Four Who Were Unwilling to Aid in Conservation.

75,000 HOUSEWIVES SIGN

Canvassers in Pledge Campaign Report Difficulty in Gaining Access to Some Apartments.

One of the district officers of the pledge card canvass notified the headquarters of the Federal Food Administration at 124 East Fifteenth Street yesterday that Mrs. Francis Butler Griffin of 515 Park Avenue had discharged two cooks, a maid, and her butler, because they had refused to sign the food conservation pledge cards. Food Administrator Arthur Williams said this action showed the spirit of New York women toward conserving food to save the nation.

When the canvasser went to Mrs. Griffin's home she signed the card and asked for four more. According to the story as reported to campaign headquarters, Mrs. Griffin called her four servants in and after delivering a timely talk on the necessity for food conservation, presented to each servant a card and requested them to sign. They refused to do so and, it is said, they were told that if that was their stand on such an important matter their services were no longer required.

"I am going to cook my first meal tonight," Mrs. Griffin told Mrs. R. L. Bigelow, Chairman for Manhattan. "I will have a new force tomorrow and I am going to help you all I can by seeing what is doing in my own home. I have found that the waste has been frightful. More than that, I am going to open a school for maids in my own kitchen. I shall invite all the maids of my friends and give lectures on how to conserve food."

Mrs. Griffin said when she looked into the garbage pail after her servants departed she found some bass that had cost 38 cents a pound. After talking with Mrs. Bigelow Mrs. Griffin left with a bundle of posters and pledge cards and war creed kitchen cards, which she said she intended to post up in her own kitchen for the information of her new servants.

When Mrs. Griffin was asked last night about the incident she replied: "It's all a mistake. I don't want it printed. Good night."

Visit to Housewives.

The campaign which is to enlist all the million and a half housewives in the city as active aids to the National Food Administration started early in the morning, when 13,000 volunteer workers, after receiving instructions from their headquarters, started out to make a visit to every housewife in the city. Their instructions were to use tact and to obtain from those who would not sign their reason for refusal, and to get their names as matters of record. The women for the most part worked singly, but some found it more convenient to work in teams in covering some of the large apartment houses.

With 5,000 workers still to hear from, it was announced late last night that 75,000 housewives had signed the pledge cards. The report by boroughs was: Manhattan, 29,000; Bronx, 6,000; Brooklyn, 27,000; Queens, 9,000; Richmond, 4,000.

Not all the reports that came in after the work got under way were encouraging. In the early afternoon it was reported to headquarters that some of the canvassers were finding it difficult to obtain a hearing at the homes of persons living near Central Park and in Riverside Drive. They were refused admission, it was said, by servants who evidently did not understand their mission.

Miss Dorothea Schwartz, a canvasser, reported that she had been refused a hearing by Mrs. Amelia Bingham of 103 Riverside Drive. She said that she had finally got a card to Mrs. Bingham and that the reply had come back by the butler that Mrs. Bingham was not interested. One of Mr. Williams' assistants called up the actress and she denied that she was not interested in any patriotic effort. She said that the canvasser had exhibited a lack of tact and when told it was too early for Mrs. Bingham to see her had refused to come back another day. At Mrs. Bingham's request a pledge card has been mailed to her.

"This woman misunderstood me," said Mrs. Bingham, "as only one woman can another. And yet they want to vote."

Hopes for Better Conditions.

District Captains were much concerned by early reports from the other workers in their charge that they could not get into some apartment houses in the city. Mr. Williams said that he believed the superintendents of those buildings were unaware of the purpose of the mission of the workers. He thought that the workers would not meet with these conditions today.

"New York consumes daily food valued at $2,767,000 a day," said Mr. Williams. "Daily we use 880,000 pounds of beef, 168,000 pounds of calves meat, 140,000 pounds of sheep, 68,000 pounds of lamb, 120,000 pounds of pork, and 180,000 pounds of dressed poultry. Just think of what a little altogether saving could be accomplished in food conservation right here in New York, and then figure out the saving in the entire country. We are not asking any one to eat less, but to regulate their diet and to conserve without hardship or suffering."

The canvassers did not return from their routes until 6 o'clock, and until late last night the office staff was engaged in tabulating and indexing the returns.

Each night 400 voluntary workers from the Metropolitan, the New York, and the Equitable Life insurance companies will do clerical work in connection with the campaign.

TO CUT OUT PROFITEERS.

Supplies to Dealers Charging Excessive Prices Forbidden.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—A drastic ruling aimed at stopping the charging of excessive prices for food by retailers was decided upon today by the Food Administrator. Under the ruling no manufacturer, wholesaler, or other handler of food amenable to the license system will be permitted to sell any product to any retailer who exacts unreasonable profits, or who buys for speculative purposes. The order goes into effect Nov. 1.

This plan, Food Administration officials believe, will give the Government entire control of retail prices. Wholesalers and others who continue to sell to retailers after they are forbidden to do so by the Food Administration will be denied the right to sell goods under license.

WARNS AGAINST WASTE.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—"To indulge in waste in times like these is criminal in a high degree," Governor McCall said at a public mass meeting tonight in the interest of the food conservation campaign.

"Those who have made a careful canvass of the country," said Governor McCall, "have come to the conclusion that we have sufficient food, if economically used, to feed our soldiers and sailors and our own people bountifully and supply what our allies need. But each one of us can do something to lessen the demand upon our food supply. Many of our people have been accustomed in their habits of living to a great waste. Waste should be done away with entirely."

EXPLAIN CAMP MAIL DELAY.

Post Office Authorities Credit It to Faults in Addressing.

Answering the letter of "F. G." in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES complaining that mails to Camp Upton are sometimes three weeks in arriving, the Brooklyn Post Office authorities said there was no reason why a letter or package to any Camp Upton soldier, even if his regiment were omitted from the address, should be more than a day late at most.

There are two classes of persons using the Camp Upton Post Office, soldiers and civilian laborers. The mail for the soldiers is taken from the Post Office and distributed to the men by the orderlies of each regiment. In case the number of the regiment is omitted, the correct information is obtained by reference to the camp roster. Letters to civilians sometimes lie several weeks in the general delivery box of the Post Office waiting to be called for. If any one writing to a soldier is so careless as not to put anything on the envelope showing that the person addressed is connected with the army, the letter might conceivably lie in the general delivery for several weeks unclaimed.

FOOD DEALERS AGREE ON PRE-WAR PROFIT

50,000 Distributers Give Pledge to National and State Commissioners.

CITY OFFICIALS ALSO AID

Milk Price Comes Up at Meeting of Dairymen's League Tomorrow—City Hall Hearing on Thursday.

Arthur Williams, National Food Administrator for New York City, and John Mitchell, head of the State Food Commission, joined hands yesterday to keep down food profits. In this effort they have received co-operation from the City Administration and of the New York Food Distributers, representing 50,000 handlers of foodstuffs and restaurant and hotel men.

Having obtained a promise from the food handlers to hold profits down to a pre-war basis, the officials took up the milk problem, and obtained from President Cooper of the Dairymen's League, a promise to lay before that organization a proposition that the order raising milk prices on the first of the month be canceled. There were two conferences held yesterday. The Executive Committee of the Food Distributers met Mr. Williams and Mr. Mitchell in the Food Administration office in the morning. The second and more largely attended meeting was held in the afternoon at the Bankers' Club in the Equitable Building.

At this later meeting the following, besides Mr. Williams and Mr. Mitchell, were present: Henry Moskowitz, City Commissioner of Markets; Health Commissioner Emerson, Dr. Charles E. North of the Mayor's Milk Committee, Herbert Pratt, R. D. Cooper, I. Elkin Nathans, Secretary New York Milk Conference Board; H. A. Cronk, Vice President Borden Farm Products Company; I. A. Van Bonnel, General Manager Sheffield Farms Milk Company; L. E. Carpenter, President Phoenix Cheese Company; T. G. Caldwell, Vice President Brown & Bailey and R. F. Stevens Companies, and E. B. Lewis, Horton Ice Cream Company.

At this conference, Mr. Williams said, every one, including both the producers and the dealers, agreed informally that at this time of national crisis there should be no attempt to garner excessive wartime profits. They all promised to lend their best endeavors to see that that was not done. Both State and Federal authorities joined in the request to the milk producers not to hold out for a further increase in milk prices in November. The Board of Directors of the Dairymen's League meet tomorrow, and Mr. Cooper said that he would take the matter up with them at that meeting.

The Distributers' Association, represented by Carl W. Kimball, has asked the authorities to establish a co-operative information and complaint bureau. The association points out that consumers read constantly about hoarders, food gamblers, and trusts, and they attribute raises in prices to some of these reasons, and so there is antagonism to the middlemen. Such a bureau as it proposes would give prices, and give also the reasons why prices on certain foods are high.

Regarding the milk situation Mr. Williams said: "At a conference last week it was stated that the rising prices of milk directly affected the death rate of infants. Profits should be a secondary consideration and patriotism the first. I think the man who raises prices, except when he can't help himself, is as bad as a German spy; he is playing the game for Germany. When retailers' prices go over the agreed prices I will report them to the Washington authorities."

Mr. Hoover, he said, has arranged for the shipment here of two or three varieties of fish from Southern waters that will be new to the New York consumer. Shark will be one of these varieties, it is said, and Mr. Hoover wants to see New York eating more fish than ever before. Another thing, Mr. Williams is planning to have printed on all menus: "Please do not order bacon, as a soldier may have to go without it."

The city has already taken up the work of co-operation between departments in food conservation, prices, and protection. The Police Department has increased its activity to see that food regulations of the Health Department are carried out. The Food Division of the Health Department is prepared for prosecution of those who violate the law. The License Department will cooperate with both the other departments, and it is promised that those who conduct their business along unsanitary lines will find it difficult to obtain a license to continue business.

The State Food Commission will conduct in the City Hall on Thursday morning a hearing on the application of the Mayor for permission for the city to buy and sell food. Dozens of organizations are planning to have large delegations on hand to aid the project.

The price of sugar in this city today will be, or ought to be, 9½ cents a pound when sold in bulk and 10 cents when sold in package. These prices were agreed upon last week at a conference of the National, State, and City Food Commissioners and the sugar men. If there are violators of the agreement they will be reported to Washington to be dealt with by the National Food Administrator.

SUGAR SHORT 12 PER CENT.

The world's sugar production is now about 12 per cent. below that of 1913, the year preceding the outbreak of the European war, according to a compilation made public yesterday by the National City Bank. Beet sugar production, in Europe, it was shown, has fallen 43 per cent., although cane production in the tropics increased about 25 per cent.

The beet sugar of Europe, which was 18,500,000,000 pounds in the sugar year, 1912-1913, was but 10,500,000,000 pounds in 1916-1917, while the world's cane production, which was a little more than 20,000,000,000 in 1912-1913, was over 25,000,000,000 pounds in 1916-1917. World production of cane and beet sugar in 1913-1914 was 42,000,000,000 pounds, and in 1916-1917, 37,000,000,000 pounds.

The compilation showed that the United States is the world's greatest consumer of sugar, despite the fact that the per capita consumption has decreased about 10 per cent. as a result of the high prices. The total quantity consumed here, in 1917 was, however, 8,500,000,000 pounds, while exports aggregated 1,250,000,000 pounds, or twenty-five times as much as in the year before the war.

Jerry Warren of 337 Riverside Drive, who owns the Virginia sugar mill at Los Palacios, three hours journey by rail from Havana, returned yesterday from Cuba to confer with the sugar interests in this city. He said the solution of the problem would be for the United States Government to take over the whole business, and he felt confident that the Cuban Government and the mill owners would co-operate in such a plan.

"On account of the high cost of labor, burlap bags, and every thing connected with the production of sugar," Mr. Warren continued, "it has become impossible for the mills to sell raw sugar at less than five cents a pound. A few of the very big corporations in Cuba might be able to sell their sugar at 4½ cents a pound and make a profit. Labor today costs $4 to $5 a day, instead of $1.25, the wage before the war. Burlap bags cost 60 to 65 cents each, instead of 12 to 14 cents under normal conditions."

That Much, in Addition to the $10,000,000 Already Given, Needed in Next Six Months.

SENDING FOOD TO GERMANY

War Council Buys Supplies, for Americans Held as Prisoners There Are Poorly Fed by Teutons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Estimates submitted to the American Red Cross by its commission in France seek an appropriation of not less than $30,000,000 to carry on the Red Cross work in France during the next six months. An appropriation of $10,000,000 for this work has already been granted by the Red Cross War Council. If the $30,000,000 is granted it would mean a total of $40,000,000 to be spent by the Red Cross in France before April 30 next.

The estimates for $30,000,000 were submitted in response to a request from Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the Red Cross War Council. The answer was made public tonight with the statement that it is under consideration by the Red Cross War Council.

If the budget is granted it is probable that the Red Cross will have to make another appeal to the public for additional funds to enable it to do this work without sacrificing the many other important activities in which the Red Cross leaders have been engaged.

"Our departments have nearly completed their budgets for the six months' period ending April 30. As far as we can see now, if all the various lines of work now contemplated are to be actively carried on, the budgets will call for an aggregate expenditure of at least $30,000,000 over the six months' period. This sum, added to the appropriations already granted, will amount to about $40,000,000, or about four-fifths of the amount which we have understood is available for work in France from the funds raised last Summer.

"We do not know to what extent, if at all, we are justified in proceeding on the theory that additional funds will be available, and consequently it is difficult to determine what we ought to count on spending during the next six months. We believe we could expend $30,000,000 and more in Red Cross work in France and Belgium with the armies and civilian population with most excellent results, and in many respects the coming Winter will be a most crucial time.

Must Reserve Funds.

"We must, however, at all hazards, reserve sufficient funds to meet all demands which may be made upon us by our army during the coming year and to enable us also to satisfactorily deal with the problem of emergency relief which will almost certainly result from radical changes in the line in Northern France and Belgium.

"If we can safely count on spending here approximately $50,000,000 only, it would be folly for us to proceed with the different branches of our work at a rate which will practically exhaust that sum by next Summer. In this case it would be necessary for us to curtail in a most radical way the plans now in prospect for useful work with the civilian population, including work for the care and prevention of tuberculosis, relief of refugees and children, the active prosecution of which is greatly desired by the French authorities.

"Unexpended balances of previous appropriations are practically all needed to pay for outstanding contracts upon which payments will be made dependent upon deliveries and completion of contract.

"We assume that relief work done by us with the French must fill fundamentally two requirements:

"First—That all our activity contribute to the successful conduct of the war.

"Second—That it relieve suffering caused by the war.

"Work done with the civil population may have a more important bearing on the military situation even than work done with the forces, for men in the field will be able to carry out their work better with the knowledge that those left at home are being taken care of.

"We cannot state too strongly the critical situation that will arise during the coming Winter and the necessity of action in every line and in every field which will conduce to the firm establishment of the morale of the people and the armies. The amount of work that can be done in this direction will be limited solely by the resources at our command, both money and material.

"If the American people can get a real picture of the misery among those who have been, and are being, daily driven out of their homes and dumped in poverty upon other parts of the country, often times terribly sick or mutilated, they will gladly do all in their power to help."

To Feed Our Men in Germany.

The Red Cross War Council has appropriated $31,212 to buy seventy-five tons of food for American prisoners in Germany. The food is to be forwarded to the Red Cross warehouse at Berne, Switzerland.

At present the number of American prisoners in Germany consist of about 100 seamen. Twenty-five tons of food for their relief, enough to sustain them for three months, have been sent to Berne up to this time, and the other seventy-five tons will insure their sustenance for an additional nine months or will suffice for a larger number for a shorter period.

Soldiers and sailors captured by the Central Powers are not provided by their captors with sufficient food to keep them in good health, nor with sufficient clothing, so these necessities must be provided from home, and in view of this condition, the American Red Cross and the United States Government are preparing to feed all American soldiers and sailors who may be taken prisoners by Germany during the war. A complete system for sustaining prisoners is now being worked out jointly by the War and Navy departments and the American Red Cross, which will be the agency through which the American prisoners will be reached.

It is expected that sufficient food to sustain a considerable number of men for several months will have been accumulated in Berne before the American troops begin active service on the fighting front. Already the Navy Department has shipped 100 outfits of clothing for the interned seamen in Germany, and the Quartermaster General's Department eighty-five cases of clothing for soldiers and interned civilians.

Under existing arrangements with the German Government food and clothing for American prisoners are sent in bulk to a neutral country and there repacked by agents of the American Red Cross in standard containers. Ellis L. Dresel, who, before the war, was attached to the American Embassy at Berlin, is in charge of this work at Berne.

To Resume Denmark Sailings.

The agents of the Scandinavian-American Line announced yesterday that their passenger and freight service to Denmark would be resumed within the next two or three weeks.

ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph S. Ochs announce the engagement of their daughter, Iphigene Bertha, to Lieutenant Arthur Hays Sulzberger, United States Field Artillery, Reserve Corps.

Miss Ochs is the only child of the publisher of THE NEW YORK TIMES. She is a graduate of Barnard College, Class of 1914. Lieutenant Sulzberger is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus L. Sulzberger, 516 West End Avenue. He is a graduate of Columbia College, Class of 1913; a Son of the American Revolution, and is now stationed at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C.

DENIES HELP FOR GERMANY.

Fifty-five persons, a large percentage of whom were speakers, attended the opening session of the League of Small and Subjection Nationalities at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday afternoon. Miss Marion A. Smith, the Secretary of the league, said that new speakers had been found to represent the countries whose originally selected champions had resigned on the ground that they suspected the convention was not called to do any good to the Allies.

Before the meeting, Dr. Frederic C. Howe, Commissioner of Immigration, denied that any effort had been made to soften denunciations of Germany and Turkey. In his opening speech Dr. Howe quoted at length from speeches of President Wilson and argued that permanent peace depended upon equitable solution of the problems of small nations. Professor Henry Allen Overstreet of the College of the City of New York urged that the greatest step toward the prevention of future wars would be the establishment of international control over "absentee capital," or over the investments of the citizen of one nation in the territory of another.

Ivan Konigsberg, a Danish-American lawyer, vigorously assailed Germany in setting forth the wrongs which had been committed against Denmark. The Rev. F. S. Noli spoke on the Albanian problem, and Professor William I. Hull of Swarthmore College discussed the general subject of small nations.

2 DIE IN BROOKLYN ROBBERY

Youths Confess to Part They Played in House Burglary.

Three boys between the ages of 16 and 21 were the burglars who broke into the cigar store of Harry Regensberg, at 636 Park Place, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning when the proprietor, his wife, and his brother, Samuel Regensberg, were shot. Hughes Davis, aged 17, who made the plans for the burglary, and Samuel Regensberg died yesterday. At the Jewish hospital it was said Harry Regensberg and his wife would not recover.

Hughes Davis refused to tell the police how he had planned the burglary until he learned that his brother, Leonidas, 21 years old, and Paul Chapman, 16, had told of their part in the robbery plan. Then he gave the details of his first attempt at burglary. He said he selected the apartment house at 636 Park Place, with the cigar store on the ground floor, because he had lived in the house and knew every window and door in the building. He also told how he had gathered chloroform in small doses from many drug stores so that he would have enough to stupefy sleepers. He said he had bought the pair of rubber gloves so that his hands would leave no marks for Bertillon experts to trace.

SAYS DOCTOR TOOK JEWELS.

Widow Denies She Gave Them to Him for "War Purposes."

Dr. Karl Edwards, a Detroit physician, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Mulqueen and a jury, in General Sessions, on a charge of stealing $35,000 worth of jewels and $500 in cash from Mrs. Minnie K. Strangman of Buffalo. Edwards's attorney said the defense would show that Mrs. Strangman, who is the widow of Carl A. Strangman, who owned the German-American Brewery of Buffalo, had delivered her jewels to Edwards for a "war purpose." Mrs. Strangman, however, said:

"That's a crazy defense. I am of Irish descent and not German, and I thought too much of my property to give it away."

Mrs. Strangman testified that Edwards, who was known to her as Dr. Karl "von" Edwards, offered to buy some property left by her husband and, thereafter, met her at several social gatherings. Finally he proposed marriage and she rejected him. After this she mentioned her intention to visit New York on a shopping trip and on the train met Edwards.

"We dined here and then went to Lord & Taylor's," said Mrs. Strangman. "Dr. Edwards remained in the automobile on Fifth Avenue, while I went into the store. I left my mesh bag with him, which contained my jewelry and cash. When I again reached the avenue, Edwards had disappeared."

The wedding of Joseph James Bodell, a son of Mrs. Joseph Bodell of Providence, R. I., and Miss Marie Christine Cozzens, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley T. Cozzens of 410 Park Avenue, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The church decoration was unusual in its effect, palms and growing trees inclosing the centre of the church, including the galleries, into a circular close, with white chrysantemums on the altar. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, performed the ceremony.

Simon—Doblin.

The marriage of Miss Minna Doblin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Doblin of 680 West End Avenue, and Joseph J. Simon took place at noon yesterday in the ballroom of the Hotel Gotham. The Rev. H. G. Enelow performed the ceremony.

Ensign John Gurley Quinby, Jr., son of Mrs. John G. Quinby of the Plaza, New York, and Brewsters, and Miss Margaret Slocum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Slocum of Boston, were married at St. Peter's Church, Baltimore, on Saturday last. Mrs. Quinby made her début in 1916, and was a member of that year's Junior League. Mr. Quinby was graduated from Harvard in 1916, and is a member of the Harvard Clubs of New York and Boston, and of the D. K. E. and Institute of 1770.

Miss Marjorie Lewis Prentiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hunt Prentiss of Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, and Dudley Dakin Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. Campbell of Albany, were married quietly in Albany on Sunday last by the Rev. C. V. S. Kearton in the presence of the families only.

JAPAN'S ARMY READY IF NEEDED IN WAR

MUST HAVE RAW MATERIALS

T. Masao Says Diplomatic and Economic Obstacles Are Still to be Overcome.

Should the European Allies ever be reduced to such extremities that the brunt of the war would be upon Japan and America, Japan would send a great force of soldiers into Europe, according to T. Masao, Chairman of the first Japanese Parliamentary Commission ever sent to this country. Mr. Masao, a Yale graduate who for seventeen years was chief adviser to the King of Siam, reached New York yesterday with the other members of the mission.

He qualified his pledge only by declaring that diplomatic and economic obstacles, which at present seem insurmountable, would have to be overcome before Japan could send forth her armies as freely as did she her navies in the cause of allied victory. While he did not explain in detail just what must be accomplished before Japanese soldiers would fight shoulder to shoulder with their American allies, he made it plain that supply of raw materials, particularly of steel, would be a great essential.

In sending his greetings to the people of New York, Mr. Matsao said his mission, being a parliamentary one, marked the first attempt of the Japanese people to speak directly to the American people. Its purpose, he said, was fourfold. First, to convey greetings of friendship; second, to study conditions in America brought about by the war; third, to visit those places in the west where there have been dissensions between Americans and Japanese, and fourth, to carry back to Japan an exact account of conditions in America affecting the relations between the two nations.

That he would be able to assure his country that America was in full, earnest participation in the war, Mr. Matsao said, his observations had made a certainty. He expressed great pleasure at what he described as vastly bettered relations between Americans and Japanese in such sections of the West as he had visited thus far. He had impressed upon the Japanese the importance of dwelling in friendly relationship with their neighbors, and had found American sentiment toward his countrymen vastly bettered since the two countries became war allies. He had also found the gradual demand of Japanese workmen for higher wages had eliminated much of the opposition to them as "cheap labor."

Beside Mr. Maso the members of the mission are Uylhasa, who is Vice Chairman; T. Shimada, K. Machizuka, and M. Yamane. They represent all the four political parties in Japan and all are men of scholarly achievement and of important rank in their country. Commander Morinosuke Yokura of the Imperial Japanese Navy will open a purchasing bureau for naval materiale required in Japan in the Metropolitan Building. He said he anticipated some difficulty in getting permission to report the machinery Japan needs, but hoped this Government would recognize the great need of her ally.

According to news received yesterday from England the Atlantic Transport liner Minnehaha was not under convoy when she was sunk on Sept. 7 off the Irish coast with the loss of forty-three of her crew, but was entirely alone. There was a 20,000-ton steamship, bound for New York, about four miles away ahead which put on full speed and zigzagged away when the officers on the bridge heard the explosion of the torpedoes on the Minnehaha astern.

The Minnehaha had left Queenstown at 8 A. M. in clear weather. Apparently two submarines were watching for the ship and waited at noon, one on either side, for her to pass between them.

As the steamship got near the two U-boats they launched their torpedoes simultaneously, and the missiles struck the Minnehaha on the port and starboard sides by the engine room, making such big holes that the water poured in, and she went down inside four minutes, stern first, with her bow pointing like a column in the air.

The two torpedoes sounded like one great explosion, which was so terrific that the Marconi operator could only send out half a message before the wireless room went under water, and he had to swim for his life.

The steamship which escaped the submarine picked up the incomplete S O S call, it is stated, and relayed it to the naval station ashore, and an hour and a half later a patrol boat arrived on the scene and rescued the survivors of the Minnehaha from the rafts. Nothing was seen of the submarines or the torpedoes by the crew of the steamship.

At the time of the explosion all the twelve lifeboats on the promenade deck were over the side ready to be lowered to the water in case of emergency.

Although the officers and men ran to the boats directly after they recovered from the stunning effect of the explosion, they could not get a single boat into the water during the four minutes the steamship was afloat.

Most of the officers and men, except those killed by the explosion of the torpedoes, were drawn under by the suction as the Minnehaha sank, and came to the surface again amid cinders and other kinds of débris from the ship. Two rafts had floated off the hurricane deck, and these kept the survivors alive until the patrol arrived. If the other steamship had not witnessed the disaster and sent out the call for aid, the crew might have drifted about all night without being picked up.

The survivors said that had the ship been equipped with twelve rafts in addition to the boats all the officers and crew of the Minnehaha, except the three engineers and three firemen killed in the engine room and stoke hole, would probably have been saved a papal Countess, and gave many millions toward the advancement of the various charities maintained and controlled by the Roman Catholic Church, besides contributions to non-sectarian institutions. She built at least 100 new chapels, schools, churches and hospitals, among them the cathedral at Richmond, Va., the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration at Washington, D. C., and the hospital at Suffern, N. Y.

Mr. Cuyler was a classmate and cherished friend of President Wilson, and a brother of T. De Witt Cuyler of Philadelphia. He was a life member of the Board of Trustees of Princeton, and willed the university $100,000. He married the former Mrs. Lord in March, 1903.

SEIZE RUMOR MONGERS WHO TOLD OF MISHAPS

Six Germans Here Will Go to Prison Camps for Spreading False War Tales.

Six Germans, listed as "rumor mongers," who had been spreading reports to the effect that American oversea forces had met disaster, that soldiers received brutal treatment in army cantonments, that an American transport had been sunk with all on board, and that several American soldiers had been shot following their conviction of outrageous conduct, were arrested yesterday and interned on Ellis Island pending their transfer to prison camps in the South.

One of these men is said to be an upper east side butcher who had made it his business of late to tell women whose sons are in the army that conditions had become so unbearable in the service that scores of soldiers were committing suicide. He also told them that the men were poorly fed and that they were compelled to pay for all their food. The whole story of course was absolutely false, but some of the women are said to have taken the man seriously.

Another of the rumor mongers circulated a story that a transport had been sunk within a few hundred miles of the American coast and a large number of men lost. Still another is said to have told of the execution of a soldier for assaulting an officer. Another told everybody who would listen that German submarines were operating off the coast of the United States, and that the newspapers had been forbidden by the Government to print the news of their activities. In every instance the report was false.

MEXICAN CONSUL INDICTED.

Burns' Assistant Refused to Submit to Draft Examination.

Jesus Martinez, the Mexican Vice Consul, who refused to submit to examination by Draft Board 145, and in so doing acted under instruction from Juan T. Burns, the Mexican Consul General, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday, and will have to stand trial. Burns denounced the board for calling Martinez, and referred to its members as men "who are on a par with the savage hordes of Villa." Under the law all aliens must submit to examination, after which they are exempted as soon as they file the proper affidavits to establish their foreign citizenship. Burns held that his word was as good as an affidavit and ordered Martinez to defy the law.

Roger B. Wood, director of the draft in New York City, said last night that a few of the men whose names were printed yesterday as among the 1,490 who have been called to the colors, but failed to respond, and as a result have been listed as technical deserters by the military authorities, have been found.

Mrs. Philip Brady of 333 East Fortieth Street, whose husband is listed as delinquent by the Government, said yesterday that her husband had been given a three weeks' leave of absence by his board. Under the law boards have no authority to grant any drafted man a leave of absence. A woman with whom Patrick Smith of 201 East Fortieth Street boarded said that when Smith was called by his board he went away and is now in Ireland. Gregory Legore, according to the janitor of 212 East Forty-fourth Street, is in hiding, while E. Kakshenin, a Greek, is said to be in Greece, having fled when called to the colors by his board.

In several instances delinquents who were investigated by THE TIMES yesterday proved to have given false addresses to their examining boards.

Alfred Bair of 111 West 111th Street, who was listed as delinquent, is at Camp Wadsworth with the New York Division, while Nat Fruncht of 205 Livonia Avenue, Brooklyn, is a Lieutenant of Engineers under overseas orders.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Robert A. Harbeson, now in training here in the Tenth New York Company, for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps, was erroneously included in the official list of drafted men who ignored the summons to Camp Upton and are now classed as deserters. Harbeson was accepted for the national army and for the Plattsburg camp on the same day. In such cases orders were issued relieving these men from the draft for three months to attend the instruction camp. Harbeson obtained such an order, copies of which he sent to the Adjutant General and to his local draft board. Having fulfilled all the requirements, he naturally feels aggrieved at being classed as a "deserter."

SOLDIER INSULTER KILLED.

Civilian Who Called Uniform a 'Rag' Attacked by Crowd.

A civilian who told a soldier on a Pavonia Avenue street car in Jersey City yesterday that his uniform was a "rag" was attacked by other men in a crowd and injured so severely that he died in the City Hospital. The civilian, who was identified as Gustav Roselle of Fourth Street, Bayonne, formerly an employe in one of the plants of the du Pont Powder Company, continued his insults to the soldier, who ignored him, until other civilians in the car interfered. When Roselle left the car he was followed. He continued his remarks about the uniform and the soldiers, it is said, until blows were struck. He was knocked down and his skull fractured. Edward Ganzle of 388 Monmouth Avenue, Jersey City, was held on a charge of manslaughter. The soldier did not leave the car. The police were unable to determine the nationality of the dead man.

Tablet in Honor of Simon Baruch.

Dr. Simon Baruch was honored yesterday when a bronze tablet commemorating his connection with the campaign for public baths was unveiled at the Rivington Street baths, renamed yesterday "The Dr. Simon Baruch Public Bath." Borough President Marcus M. Marks made an address in behalf of the city, and among those present were the physician's two granddaughters, the Misses Bella W. and Simona Baruch; Rose Livingston Schuyler, and Dr. William M. Polk. The tablet was donated by Mrs. Belle Baruch, the physician's wife, through the Association for the Promotion of Hygiene and Public Baths.

Stephen Little, Railway Pioneer.

Stephen Little, formerly Secretary and Controller of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, the Rio Grande Western Railroad, and the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad, died yesterday at his home, 362 Riverside Drive, in his eighty-eighth year. He had been identified with railroading in the United States since 1860.

Mr. Little was born in Ireland and came to America as a boy.

"Diamond Jim's" Diamond and Pearl Collarette Brings $2,450; His Gold Theatre Pass $230.

Yesterday was the most interesting day of the "Diamond Jim" Brady sale at the American Art Galleries, with returns of $27,309, bringing the grand total to $125,980. The famous gold theatre pass and the silver presentation cup were sold, and the costly and elaborate silver gilt Russian enamel table ware and the pearl and diamond collarette, which brought the highest price of the day and of the sale so far, $2,450.

This went to Mrs. K. Jungbluth of 330 Park Avenue. The collarette was composed of 1,467 pearls in fifteen strands, with four large diamonds and many small brilliants, with elaborate workmanship in platinum. Badges, society and club emblems, some in gold and jewels and including a Special Deputy Sheriff's badge, went to Charles J. Brooks for $90.

The name of the buyer of the theatre pass was not given. It went to W. W. Seaman, agent, for $230. The pass was in a gold case with a diamond clasp and inscribed:

"James Buchanan Brady, No. 7 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York." It contained a gold and enameled card on which was the portrait of Mr. Brady and inscribed: "By these presents I command all our people to pay court to the bearer, James Buchanan Brady, pass himself and party to all part of Theatreland where Klaw & Erlanger attendants are on guard." Signed A. L. Erlanger. It was in an extra leather case.

The presentation cup was silver, with three handles and with the signatures of the donors, C. B. Dillingham, Sam H. Harris, George M. Cohan, and others. It was eleven inches high and weighed seventy ounces, and went to Fred Hausman, the broker, for $110.

Fred Keyser paid one of the highest prices for the famous Russian enamels, $800 for eighteen dinner plates in brilliant colors. A dozen Russion enamel ice cream bowls on tall stems, with spoons to match, went to Seaman, agent, for $610. Mrs. Frederick Braun paid $210 for a pair of Russian enamel bonbon dishes, boat-shaped, on standards, with figures on the prow and a tall curved handle at the back. W. A. Bradford, who bought all of the flat silver in individual lots, bought the first of the Russian enamels, a sugar bowl, spoon, and tongs, for $145, and an egg-shaped tea service with two cups for $190.

The gold-lined Russian enamel punch bowl with bear handles and bears engraved on the lip, gold-lined, went to A. Deutsch for $400. A large silver centrepiece for flowers on a standard with four small bowls and candles monogramed went to F. Baumeister for $830, and a pair of candelabra to match to the same buyer for $660. A silver tea and coffee service went to Mrs. S. B. Johnston for $975. Fifteen toilet articles in gold went to Ethel B. Blatz for $570. Among the smaller personal articles sold, Grace E. Jones paid $40 for a man's pocket purse, leather mounted in gold with ruby and diamond clasp, and another $40 for a gold flashlight with the initials J. B. B.

The Rev. Jacob Whitehurst.

Rev. Jacob Whitehurst, founder of the East End Baptist Church in Brooklyn and head of the Brooklyn Bible School, was found dead in a chair at his home, 343 Ashford Street, Brooklyn, on Saturday. Mr. Whitehurst was born in Bolington, England, seventy-eight years ago, and was ordained a Dutch Reformed minister forty-five years ago in the Bethany Chapel, where he was the pastor for several years. In 1888, he built the East End Baptist Church, and ten years later caused the erection of the Fourth Avenue Baptist Church, of which he was pastor for nine years, and which was later consolidated with the West End Baptist Church. He left a widow.

INDORSES GARY SYSTEM.

Labor Leader Pleased with Interest Pupils Take in Studies.

Frank Duffy, General Secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and a member of the Executive Board of the American Federation of Labor, after visiting Gary School 45, in the Bronx, yesterday, indorsed the school system. Mr. Duffy, who has been interested in industrial education for fifteen years, is a member of the State Board of Education in Indiana. He declared that neither in Indiana nor in New York is there any trace of "Rockefeller influence" in the Gary schools. He was pleased with the interest the children took in their studies, as well as in the manual arts.

"I cannot understand how any one can be opposed to the Gary system," he added. "I regret, of course, that the school question should be injected into the campaign. If there is any one thing that ought to be kept out of politics it is education. It is a question of the best education for our children. The Gary plan in New York seems to fill the bill."

Mr. Duffy was accompanied by D. F. Featherston and Henry W. Blumenberg, organizers of the Carpenters' Brotherhood. They also expressed themselves in favor of the Gary plan.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE STILL POURING IN

COMMITTEE THANKS PUBLIC

New Bonds, Traded in on Stock Exchange for First Time, Sell at Par or Higher.

Reports of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan kept piling up at the office of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York all day yesterday, every mail bringing a large stack of letters from banks and trust companies situated in various parts of the New York district. At 5 o'clock it was announced that recorded subscriptions totaled $1,410,152,500, the increase for the day amounting to about $75,000,000, and the gain since late Saturday night, $110,000,000. Today's mail will be unusually heavy for the reason that the applications received by the various banks late Saturday were not tabulated until yesterday and will not reach the Reserve Bank until this morning. The banks have until Thursday to transmit their final reports, and it is generally believed that when the last report is in the New York district will show a total of $1,650,000,000, which for the present remains the best estimate.

The new 4 per cent. Liberty Loan bonds were traded in for cash on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday for the first time. The initial trade of $1,500 worth was made at par, L. & E. Schafer being the sellers and Asiel & Co. the buyers. A sale of $3,000 was made at 100.02, ($1,000.20 per $1,000 bond,) and bonds to the amount of $179,000 were subsequently sold at par. The day's sales totaled $183,500. The bonds dealt in were the small denomination bonds that have already been issued and which have been sold for cash by the banks and stores, &c., in the course of the four weeks' campaign. The Exchange has not yet authorized dealings in the bonds on a "when issued" basis. The bonds are dated Nov. 15, and consequently begin to carry interest from that date.

The 3½ per cent. bonds of the first Liberty Loan closed unchanged at 99.96, the total transactions amounting to $2,551,500.

The Committee's Statement.

The Liberty Loan Committee issued a signed statement yesterday complimenting this district for the excellent response it made to the appeal for subscriptions. The record achieved furnished "unparalleled evidence of a nation bound together and animated with a single spirit of mutual good-will and devotion to the country," declared the members of the committee. Their statement follows:

> The second Liberty Loan has been a complete success. How high the oversubscription will go cannot be known for several days. It is estimated that the total subscriptions in the Second Federal Reserve District will be in excess of $1,500,000,000, and what is equally important, the total number of subscribers in this Second Federal Reserve District is greatly in excess of the number of subscribers to the first loan. Both in the total amount received and in the number of subscribers, the results are beyond our expectations. The reports from the other Federal Reserve districts would indicate a similar surpassing of the estimates.
> This great success of the loan has been due to two factors. The first is the spontaneous outburst of patriotic feeling and effort that has been common to the whole country. The second is the excellent work of the organizations in every Federal Reserve district. Without this latter the campaign could not possibly have gained its stupendous success.
>
> Naturally our own observation has covered particularly the Second Federal Reserve District. As to this we desire to go on record as stating that we have never before witnessed such an extraordinary response in the way of organized, effective work, and unremitting, intelligent effort. From the moment the campaign started this spirit was manifest, and as time went on it daily grew in loyalty and intensity. The record which the Second Reserve District has made is, indeed, a proud one, and it is a record achieved by the united effort of all—by the villages and hamlets throughout the State as much as by the larger towns and cities. To all the workers who have thus made this result possible we wish publicly to make this expression of our appreciation.
> Of greater import even than the securing of a great loan for the Government has been this unparalleled evidence of a nation bound together and animated with a single spirit of mutual good-will and devotion to the country.

How to Convert Liberty Bonds.

Persons holding interim certificates or definitive bonds of the 3½ per cent. first Liberty Loan and who desire to convert them into 4 per cent. bonds of the same maturity as the 3½s, but possessing the tax exemption features of the second loan, may apply at the Federal Reserve Bank (Bond Exchange Division, 50 Wall Street,) on or after Nov. 8 and arrange for the exchange. The conversion privilege expires six months after Nov. 15, but those who do not exchange their 3½ per cent. bonds into the 4 per cent. will have the right to convert them into bonds of the third Liberty Loan should the same be issued at a rate higher than 4 per cent. Subscribers to the new 4 per cent. loan are entitled to convert the new bonds into subsequent issues paying a higher rate.

Dr. John Huston Finley, President of the University of the State of New York and State Commissioner of Education, reported yesterday that students and teachers of New York State had raised at least $20,000,000 for the Liberty Loan. Fifteen of the high schools in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn have collected $3,229,750 in subscriptions. Fourteen public schools of New York City have turned in pledges amounting to $900,000.

The report that the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. had doubled its $25,000,000 subscription, published yesterday, was erroneous. The application calling for $25,000,000 of the bonds, which was filed Saturday, was a subscription that had been previously announced.

LOAN REPORT ON THURSDAY.

Treasury Unable to Give Total Accurately Now.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Liberty Loan tabulations were at a standstill at the Treasury tonight, awaiting further reports from the Federal Reserve Banks.

The Treasury has decided to make no further announcements until Thursday, by which time the Reserve Banks are expected to have their reports somewhere near final shape. After a day of rest yesterday the banks' officers and employes devoted themselves to tabulating results today, and most of them did not even communicate with Washington.

LUTHERANS GIVE A DINNER.

Society Commemorates Anniversary of the Reformation.

The ceremonies commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation, which will close tomorrow night, the actual anniversary of Luther's nailing of the ninety-five theses on the door of the castle church at Wittenberg, were continued last night by a dinner of the Lutheran Society at the Hotel Astor. The Rev. O. H. Pennkoke, Secretary of the committee which has arranged the celebration of the quadri-centennial, pointed out the difficulties attendant on the event in view of the fact that "a world war was usurping the interest of all mankind, and this country was at war with the people in whose bosom the great Reformation struggle began." "It is due in a great measure," he continued, "to the wisdom, judgment, and tact of your committee that the celebration was carried through without any jarring note, without even the slightest occasion for misunderstanding and recrimination."

The Rev. Dr. F. H. Knubel, pastor of the Church of the Atonement, said that every centennial of the Reformation had come during, just before, or just after a widespreading war, and said that this had given a deep meaning to the present anniversary. "Men have again deeply felt the need," he said, "of the Reformation principles—liberty of conscience, liberty of thought, liberty of action. They have again deeply felt the Reformation ideals, love of duty, readiness to sacrifice for truth and progress." He said that the quadri-centennial had had much to do with bringing about the union of the three great English-speaking branches of the Lutheran Church in America, and expressed the hope that before long all Lutheran bodies in this country would be united, if not in outward organization, then in spirit.

The celebration of the quadricentennial of the Reformation will reach its climax tomorrow night, when a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall will bring together representatives of the city, the State, the nation, foreign Governments, universities, and religious bodies in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of Luther's promulgation of the ninety-five theses, Oct. 31, 1517.

George D. Boschen, Chairman of the New York Reformation Quadricentenary Committee, will preside; Dr. J. Singmaster, Dean of Gettysburg Seminary, will talk on the spiritual significance of the Reformation; Dr. P. P. Claxton, National Commission of Education, on its intellectual significance, and Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania on its political significance. Lieutenant Governor Edward Schoeneck and Dr. W. H. Roberts, Chairman of the Reformation Anniversary Committee of the Federal Council of Churches of America, will also speak.

Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck will represent the State Government, and the city will be represented by Commissioner of Corrections Burdette G. Lewis and other officials. There will be official delegations also from Yale, Princeton, Columbia, and New York Universities, Union Theological Seminary, the International Y. M. C. A., the Reformed Church Union, the Methodist Social Union, the Missionary Education Movement, and the French Protestant churches. The Governments of Denmark and Sweden will be represented by the Consuls General in New York.

McADOO TO ADDRESS WOMEN

At an executive meeting yesterday of the Woman Suffrage Party a program of meetings was arranged for the last week of the campaign. The final rally will be held Saturday night at Durland's Riding Academy on West Sixty-sixth Street, when Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Senator Robert L. Owen, James W. Gerard, and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw will speak. The meeting will be preceded by a parade, led by Miss Mary Garrett Hay, which will assemble at the suffrage headquarters at 2,146 Broadway.

A rally will be held tonight at Cooper Union under the auspices of the industrial section of the Woman Suffrage Party. Congressman Jeannette C. Rankin, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, and others will speak. Walter Damrosch will preside at a mass meeting to be held tonight at 152 East Eighty-second Street. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw will speak at a mass meeting tomorrow night at Terrace Garden.

Street meetings also will be held during the week and suffrage literature will be distributed.

Newark to Enlarge Its Port Terminal

With the $1,330,000 the United States Government is expected to pay for land at Port Newark Terminal for a site for the Quartermasters' Supply Depots, the City of Newark plans to develop 400 more acres of the terminal. This would give the city four miles more of dock front and make it one of the big terminals of the East. The terms on which the city will sell 133 acres to the Government were drawn up and submitted Saturday. The Government has asked an option on 190 acres more.

ACCUSED OF TAKING BRIBE.

Internal Revenue Employe Arrested in Drug Case.

Harry Field, a special employe in the Internal Revenue Bureau, was arrested yesterday by Special Agents Grunewald and Scully of the Department of Justice and held in $5,000 bail by United States Commissioner Hitchcock for examination today on a charge of having accepted a bribe of $75 from Julius Denaser, whom he had arrested on a charge of dealing in habit-forming drugs.

Field said that the illegal drug dealers whom he had been pursuing had conspired to "frame him," and denied that he had received any money from Denaser or anybody else. Commissioner Hitchcock said that the information so far at hand was only circumstantial and that the truth should be speedily thrashed out. Denaser alleged that money had been demanded by Field and that, acting under instructions, he had handed him the $75 in marked bills. The money was not found on Field but in the hallway of the apartment house in which he lives.

Fall Garment Trade Good.

The closing Fall season in coats and suits for women is said by local manufacturers to have been a very good one, in spite of the many war activities which naturally would distract to some extent women's attention from the matter of dress. Though there is no question that suits have been backward in some sections, taking the country as a whole, it is generally felt that they have at least held their own. Coats and dresses, however, have been strong in every section, and skirts also were good. As in other lines of merchandise, the two extremes in the scale of prices have been the favorites.

With prices in the local burlap market at the highest levels in a great many years, buyers are showing more interest in the goods offered than was the case a while ago, when they did not cost so much. Quite a little business was told of here yesterday in which both spot and afloat burlaps figured. The bulk of the trading was in the latter, due to the scarcity of spots. Seventeen cents was the price quoted on standard 40-inch burlaps at the close of the day, with the other 40-inch stuff showing this way: Ten-ounce, 16¾ cents; 8-ounce, 13 cents, and 7½-ounce, 12¾ cents.

Hand-made waists in the various suit shades are said to have become unusually popular, considering their ordinarily limited appeal. To begin with, it is pointed out that suits have been highly favored in this city this Fall, and waists in colors to match have won a strong following. Owing to their darker colors it was not felt that hand working on these garments would be very generally sought. But authorities in the trade say now that many women who want only hand working are seeking these waists in suit shades, and that sales have been mounting constantly as a result.

Even those who are in favor of the "bustle effect" feature of the Fall styles for women are said to have found that in order to move stocks they have to dispense with the word "bustle" and use in its place the less startling description "draped." Thus the horrors of half a century ago are not subconsciously suggested, and the "neatest and smartest in draped effects" is viewed from an unbiased and unprejudiced standpoint. However, it is said that even the most temperate treatments of this silhouette are not meeting with anything like general acceptance, even among those who can afford the extremes of style that come and go in a night.

If the fat man is to groan at the new Sprinig styles for men, his stout sister may throw up her hands in horror at the Paris offerings for the 1918 season. Local importers say that not only are skirts to be considerably narrower at the bottom, but tight fitting, figure-accentuating jacket suits are to be the order of the day. Sleeves are to be set-in and skin-tight, and severely plain tailor-made effects in dresses are to be in vogue. It is further said that satin and silk jersey will be used a great deal. Wool conservationists could not themselves have recommended styles more in keeping with their plans. Serges and other woolen fabrics will, of course, be used, but, as pointed out, the style tendencies for Spring are decidedly away from them.

While it was said by well-known factors in the linoleum end of the floor coverings trade yesterday that no general date for showing next Spring's lines had been decided on, it was also said that Fall business in linoleums was keeping up surprisingly well, considering the lateness of the wholesale season. While the call was quite generally good, it was said that more business was being put through on heavy and inlaid goods than on printed. So large has been the demand for linoleums of the battleship type all season that deliveries earlier than late December cannot be given on orders taken now. As Spring deliveries begin about that time in a normal year, there is some question as to whether these shipments will be held up or whether the matter will be settled by wiping off the slate all Fall orders still undelivered on a certain date.

Not a little surprise was caused in the local floor coverings trade yesterday by the announcement of the wholesale department of W. & J. Sloane of this city that the goods for which they are the sole selling agents, including linoleums, carpets, and rugs, would be put on sale for Spring delivery on Monday next. While there had been more or less speculation concerning the probable general opening date, the Sloane announcement was the first definite idea given as to when it might occur. Inquiries made yesterday of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, and of the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company brought the reply that as yet no opening date had definitely been decided on by them. In certain quarters the question was raised as to the advisability of having a general opening on the day before election day.

Salesmen who have returned from their initial trips with Spring lines of staple and semi-staple fibre silk sweaters report large orders from a money point of view and a merchandising situation that is out of the ordinary. Some buyers, they say, are plunging on this class of goods, while others are buying little or nothing because they think prices are too high. The "plunger" type of buyer appears to be placing larger individual orders than many of the smaller jobbers do, one well-known Middle Western store ordering close to $15,000 worth of four numbers from a certain local firm. Buying of this kind is thought to be due to the present high cost of real silk sweaters, which is said to have taken even the simplest of them out out reach of the average purchaser. As opposed to this, however, some buyers are asking for more expensive lines of fibres than have been shown them.

Gray Goods Buyers Active.

The break in cotton here yesterday did little to lessen the demand for gray goods for 1917 delivery, but the same cannot be said of queries for cloths to be shipped in the early part of next year. However, some business for both periods was done. December sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made at 12½ cents, with January-March contracts placed at a quarter less. For shipment in the last two months of this year, 38½-inch 60-48s disposed of at 9¼ cents early in the day; later large bids of 9¼ cents were refused. An eighth more was asked for all 1917 deliveries, but so far as known there were no sales at the price. January-February contracts of 38½-inch 64-60s were sold at 10¾ cents. Among the sheeting sales were 4-yard 48 squares at 12¾ cents for delivery in November, December, and January. Spot printcloth prices closed this way:

39-inch, 67-72s	12⅜c	38½-inch, 60-52s	*9⅞c

In a statement issued yesterday by Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port, reviewing foreign commerce here in September, it was shown that while domestic exports from New York exceeded materially shipments made in August, they were nevertheless much below those of the corresponding month one year ago. The record for domestic exports was respectively: September, 1917, $240,843,778; September, 1916, $262,373,951, and August, 1917, $177,491,421. The port's overseas activities last month, compared with September, 1916, as set forth by the Collector, were as follows:

GOLD AND SILVER.	1916.	1917.

Duties collected in September on direct importations of merchandise amounted to $6,735,995, somewhat more than in the same month last year. Customs dues on goods withdrawn from bonded warehouses totaled $2,733,369, or $2,000,000 less than last year.

PIG BRINGS $937 AT BAZAAR.

Many New Features Added to Army and Navy Enterprise.

Many new features have been added to the attractions at the Army and Navy Bazaar at the Grand Central Palace. The greatest interest last night was centred around the auctioning of a fatted pig, which was presented because of its beef-saving possibilities. After the bidding passed the $500 mark it narrowed down to two persons—a man and a woman. Finally it went to the latter, Mrs. Kate Warner, for $937.

Spectators were very curious over the Melting Pot Booth, where all kinds of old gold and silver are being collected. It amused many people to see the large number of discarded wedding rings in the pile, and the speculations were varied as to the reasons for their being there.

Many of the prominent stage and film stars who are working for the bazaar will participate in the Halloween ball to be held on Wednesday night.

A "Rest" Shoe for Officers.

A novel offering in military footwear has just been put on the market by a manufacturer with offices in this city. It is a "rest" shoe for officers, and is meant to be worn after participation in long hikes, drills, &c. It is made on the lines of an oxford, the sole and heel being of oak leather and the upper of khaki cloth with a tip of Russian calfskin. It is made without a counter, and because of this can easily be carried in a kit bag or even in an inside pocket. The two shoes together, when compressed, do not make a package more than an inch and a half thick. The retail price is $8.

City to Auction Its Real Estate.

Several parcels of real estate acquired by the city in the vicinity of Rockwell Place and Fulton Street, for rapid transit purposes, will shortly be sold by auction. Property in the neighborhood has been in a stagnant condition for a long time, but recently Matthew V. O'Malley offered the city $45,000 for the lots at 647 and 649 Fulton Street. The Sinking Fund Commission resolved to accept it as the upset price and to auction the lots off at noon on Nov. 15. If any activity is shown in the bidding on the plot, the other plots acquired by the city at the same time will shortly be offered for sale.

GOODS SUPPLIED BY ADVERTISEMENT.

Owners of stores who find it necessary to put in new lines of stock without delay should send a short letter by mail or telegram to The New York Times, giving particulars. Next morning a brief, but satisfactory, advertisement will appear on the Business Page of The Times and be read by manufacturers and wholesalers of the goods needed. Cost of service, 50 cents per line of six words. Replies may be sent direct or The Times will provide a box number.

Best and cheapest plan for town and country merchants.—Advt.

New Capital Obtained

The Electric Fuseguard Co., Inc., Newark, N. J., advertised in The New York Times for $10,000 to $25,000 additional capital to be invested in their business.

Twenty-two replies were received. The President of the company wrote:

"The replies to our advertisement under Business Opportunities in The New York Times were very satisfactory, and we owe our success, in a large measure, to the service rendered by The Times."

"He Buys Only Listed Bonds"—

is the frequent report of bond salesmen who have approached an investor with an offer of an unlisted security. And yet there is probably no matter of interest to bond buyers that is the subject of greater misapprehension than that of listed bonds—

Let us send you our free booklet T-400 describing this interesting subject.

Throughout most of the session yesterday the Marine issues moved forward, while other active stocks on the board were sliding backward, but in the last hour the Marine shares turned about and followed the general trend. The market was chiefly influenced by the collapse of the Italian offensive and the infliction of such severe punishment upon the Allies in an unexpected quarter. At the same time, rumors of the probable entry of the Scandinavian countries into the war on the side of the Central Powers added to the feeling of uncertainty and perhaps even contributed to the influences working for declines.

The weakness in the list at the opening was surprising, notwithstanding the bad news from the Italian front, for most people had prepared themselves for a further demonstration on the bear side as an evidence of satisfaction over the heavy oversubscription of Liberty bonds. The weakness in some of the higher-price issues, among them General Electric, General Motors, American Sugar, Texas Company, Canadian Pacific, and Lorillard, was particularly striking. General Motors fell at one time to 86½, closing a point higher than that, but with a net loss of 6¼ points, while General Electric broke to 128⅝, rallying 2 points to reduce its decline to 4 points. Canadian Pacific closed almost at its lowest price of the day at 138⅝, down 6¼. A great many issues lost 2 points or more. Steel was very active on a descending scale, closing at 103½, with a net loss of 3⅝. Utah Copper lost nearly as much, and there were few changes on the other side. The rails were soft, Reading losing 3 points, Atchison 1¼, Erie 2⅛, and Union Pacific 1⅜.

The movement in Marine preferred carried that issue to a new high for several months at 106½, but the achievement of that point invited selling which carried the price down with little difficulty to 102 at the close, representing a net decline of 1⅛ from Saturday's final figure. Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies was active and weak, closing off 5 points. All told, the declines served to extinguish most of the gains scored Friday and Saturday on the expectation that the Government loan would be well taken.

In view of the change in the war situation, banking circles were keenly interested in the course of foreign exchange quotations. As was to be expected, rates moved strongly against Italy, lire falling from Saturday's price of 7.81 to the dollar to 7.90½ yesterday. Rates on Stockholm, Copenhagen, and Christiania moved violently against this centre, reaching new high levels. The new Government 4s sold on the Stock Exchange for the first time at par, with the 3½s rising to 99.96. Cotton declined in the belief that the Italian disaster means prolonging the war.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Italian news checked the recent firmness on the Stock Exchange today, and caused a sagging tendency in gilt-edged securities and speculative favorites. There was no pressure to sell, however, and the declines were mostly precautionary marking down.

The effect was softened by the splendid result of the American Liberty Loan, and the market closed above the lowest. Russian issues were better, and Scandinavian shares and mining and oil stocks were steady, but Spanish securities were weak.

Money was in fair supply and discount rates were firm.

Vain Hopes.

News of the German advance into Italy upset the calculations of many a trader in stocks. Those who had bought on Saturday, believing that the great success of the Liberty Loan would stimulate dealings in securities, were forced to see a rather sharp decline take the place of the expected advance. There was not room for much guessing about what stocks were going to do, as weakness was in evidence immediately at the opening and thereafter such rallies as occurred were so weak as to be hardly discernible. In the loan crowd on the Stock Exchange the borrowing demand for stocks was heavy, indicating, in the opinion of inquirers in regard to the quality of the borrowing, that the short interest had increased substantially during the day.

A Market Phenomenon.

In the downward swing some peculiar jerky movements of particular stocks were noted by the ticker. Steel at one time, during a brief period of improvement from preceding dips, rose from 103¾ to 104¼ between sales. This was an unusual gain for a stock as active as Steel was yesterday, and appeared to indicate that at the moment there was little stock for sale. Traders have detected similar jumps of late in case of this and other active issues, such as Corn Products, when the market generally was headed downward. The movements have given rise to suppositions that short selling is playing a more prominent part in the retreat of prices than the Street has believed to be the case. At times when certain issues have not been offered, bidding has brought quick upturns.

Steel Directors Meet Today.

The Steel Corporation Directors will meet today to declare the quarterly dividends and make public the earnings for the three months ended Sept. 30. In view of the uncertainties of tax reservations, the Street has wasted little mental effort trying to guess what the net available for dividends would be. As to the common stock dividend, the expectation has been held in unwavering fashion by speculators and investors that no change would occur from the 1¼ per cent. and 3 per cent. extra. Commission houses have been regaled with rumors of an extra dividend in Liberty bonds, without the appearance of tangible evidence to support the stories.

The Increased Coal Prices.

The coal trade, at least as far as its opinions are represented on various floors of No. 1 Broadway, is inclined to take the latest increase in prices announced by Fuel Administrator Garfield as a belated vindication. However, there are some who declare the increase comes too late to do much good. "You can let a mine run down so far in six months that it will take you two years to get its production back to where it was," said one veteran coal man yesterday. "However, we'll try to do our best."

British Bills Not Offered.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced yesterday that they would not offer any British Treasury bills this week. This is the third consecutive week that offerings of $15,000,000 have been omitted. There are now outstanding approximately $100,000,000 of these ninety-day discount bills. Some of them were put out at 5¼ per cent., while others were sold at 5½. The first lot of $15,000,000 matures on Nov. 21.

Henry Goldman to Retire Dec. 31.

Henry Goldman, of Goldman, Sachs & Co., will retire from active business on Dec. 31, 1917, although he will continue to retain a desk in the office and will give his services to the firm in an advisory capacity. His place as partner in the firm will be taken by Waddill Catchings, President of the Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Company, who is planning to withdraw gradually from his active connection with that corporation. Mr. Catchings at present is giving most of his time to his work as Chairman of the Committee on Co-operation with the Council of National Defense of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Carbon Steel Profits $2,234,545.

The Carbon Steel Company reports net profits of $2,234,545 for the year ended Sept. 30. This is a decrease of $865,000 compared with the figures for the previous year. The surplus on hand is given as $582,290, compared with $2,228,586 in 1916. The annual report says that the business of the company for the fiscal year had been very satisfactory, notwithstanding the very unusual and trying operating conditions, due to the shortage of natural gas and difficulty in procuring adequate labor and deliveries of raw materials. During the year all of the first and second mortgage bonds of the Carbon Iron Company, aggregating $700,000, were paid and cancelled.

THE COTTON MARKET

Prices Decline on Unfavorable War News, with Net Loss of 26 to 65 Points.

Bad news from the Italian war front had its effect on the cotton market, as well as others, yesterday. The weakness which had developed toward the close of last week was only accentuated by the war bulletins, and nothing but the persistent bad weather reported from the South and the tendency to scale down crop estimates still further saved prices from a very marked decline. As it was, January cotton sold down at one time 77 points, and finally closed at 26, with the general list winding up from 26 to 65 points below Saturday's closing.

The market opened easy at a decline of 18 to 31 points and active months sold off 20 to 37 points right after the call. These early offerings were pretty well absorbed by the buying of trade and Liverpool interests, with the market showing rallies of about 20 points toward the middle of the morning on the appearance of another cold wave in the Southwest and a Memphis report estimating frost damage at 1,171,000 bales. This bulge met increased offerings, however, and the market soon weakened, with active months showing net losses of about 60 to 77 points during the afternoon. The close was several points up from the lowest on covering.

The demand from trade sources was less in evidence after the early rally, and Southern spot advices were conflicting. Scattering reports that buying had fallen off and that holders were showing more disposition to sell were colored by the appearance of larger Southern selling orders around the ring. Southern spot markets as officially reported were about 13 to 60 points lower, with Southwestern markets relatively easy. According to a local authority growers are selling their cotton as rapidly as it is picked in the Carolinas and also in Georgia, although in the latter State some are holding a small percentage for higher prices. There were reports of increased difficulty in securing ocean tonnage. No exports were reported for the day. Exports so far this season are 1,269,561, against 1,638,958 last year.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Receipts of wheat at interior points continue to increase slowly, but steadily, and the question of distribution is becoming somewhat less acute. The visible supply increased 4,812,000 bushels for the week, bringing the total to 14,524,000 bushels, compared with 67,114,000 bushels last year. Most of the increase was at Buffalo and Eastern points, and apparently represents the importation of Canadian wheat for the use of Eastern mills. The Food Administration continues to urge stringent economies in order to provide a liberal surplus for shipment to our soldiers in Europe and to our Allies.

CORN.

The corn market at the present time is in a very uncertain position, and during yesterday's session prices moved rather feverishly and closed ⅛c to ⅝c net higher. The visible supply decreased 134,000 bushels for the week, and the total is now 1,492,000 bushels, compared with 2,361,000 bushels a year ago. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.18 and No. 2 mixed at $2.16, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Price changes in the oats market were narrow and final quotations were steady, showing net gains of ⅛ to ¼c. Receipts at Western points were larger, owing to last week's business, but it was thought that farmers would be less disposed to sell as prices have declined over 2 cents per bushel during the past two days. The visible supply gained 420,000 bushels during the week, bringing the total to 16,624,000 bushels, compared with 45,580,000 last year. The local cash market was quiet; standard quoted at 66½c; No. 2 white, 66½c; No. 3 white, 66c; No. 4 white, 65½c; fancy clipped white, 68c; ordinary clipped white, 67c, all asked, elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, but prices were steadier. Packing interests seemed to be on the buying side in a moderate way and offerings were small. The hog market was steady, and at 16.70 for best grades in Chicago appears to have marked the extent of the decline; at least, prices have remained at that level for several days past. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 28,000; estimated for Tuesday, 17,000; Kansas City received 6,000 and Omaha 6,000 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was strong and higher, prices making new high records. The advance was apparently based on the pronounced strength in crude oil, which was quoted at $1.32 per gallon in the South. Shorts were anxious buyers and there was thought to be buying here by trade interests as hedges against requirements. Closing prices were 20 to 40 points net higher. Total sales were 15,300 barrels. Reports that the Government may take further action in connection with cottonseed oil as well as other products caused some uneasiness. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was irregular within a narrow range. The reported scarcity of steamer tonnage available for shipment from Brazil served to check selling, but the news from Italy had rather a depressing effect, and there were also reports that coffee was being offered more freely by sailing vessels. On the whole, however, prices made a fairly steady showing, and after opening unchanged to 2 points lower, the market closed net 1 point lower to 3 points higher. The local spot market remained quiet so far as immediate business was concerned, with quotations on the basis of 8c for Rio 7s, and 9½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Raw sugar continued to be quiet and still under control of the Government, with no fresh business reported. There were no fresh developments in refined sugar. The Government promises speedy relief from the West and from Louisiana, but it is believed that the situation in this territory will not feel the full benefit of these arrivals of sugar until well along into November. Cable advices from France report the beet crop there much improved. One leading authority estimates the growing Cuban crop at 3,200,000 tons, against a total of 3,023,720 tons for the season just closed. The spot market remains nominally unchanged, with the tendency downward, however, as soon as there is any relief in the supply and demand situation. Spot prices follow: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5¾c.

ENEMY PROBLEM PERPLEXES PALMER

Policy as to Austrian, Bulgarian, and Turkish Property Seizures Not Determined.

TO GET FULL POWER TODAY

Already, as Custodian, Has Invested $100,000 German Money in Liberty Bonds—Only a Beginning.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—By proclamation President Wilson tomorrow will confer all the powers given to him in the Enemy Trading act upon A. Mitchell Palmer as Alien Property Custodian. Mr. Palmer today conferred with the President on the scope of his work and the big problems involved. These problems are delicate, inasmuch as this Government has avoided any unnecessary step against the allies of Germany. The Enemy Trading act empowers the Property Custodian to confiscate the property of the enemy and the allies of the enemy.

What might be construed as a hostile act would be taken by Mr. Palmer should he take over property owned by subjects of Turkey, Bulgaria, or Austria-Hungary. Although he will tomorrow deposit his bond of $100,000 and begin his duties, it is likely that he will not have to take any such step for some months, and he will do it then only after conference with the Secretary of State. He will call upon all corporations to notify him of money owed to Germany and her allies and institute an inquiry to determine the property owned by these countries. At least sixty days will expire before he will be called upon to seize property or money of Germany's allies.

Confessedly, Mr. Palmer finds himself in a perplexing position. If he carries out the definite terms of the law he will run counter to the nominal policy of the Administration, namely, that we are not at war with the allies of Germany. But Bulgaria, Austria, and Turkey have large stores of war supplies in the United States, and it is just as important that their property and money be taken over as that owned by Germany.

The definition of "enemy" or "ally of enemy" is carefully worked out in the act. In the first place, any person, no matter of what nationality, who resides within the territory of the German Empire or the territory of any of its allies, or that occupied by their military forces, is expressly made an enemy or "ally of enemy" by the act. Even citizens of the United States who have elected to remain within such territorial bounds are enemies within the scope of this law. Further, any person not residing in the United States, of whatever nationality and wherever he resides, who is doing business within such territory is placed within the definition of enemy.

On the other hand, as to subjects of Germany who are residents in the United States, attention is called to the importance of remembering that, while this law makes it possible to intern them, the mere fact of their nationality does not make them enemies within the meaning of the law and so prevent persons in this country from having ordinary commercial relations with them. Neither can their property be seized.

Mr. Palmer today explained these provisions fully and issued a statement to quiet the fears of such residents here that their savings were liable to seizure. He said:

"Some misapprehension seems to exist relative to the status under the Trading with the Enemy act of citizens or subjects of Germany or its allies resident in this country. Such persons are not included within the term 'enemy or ally of enemy' as employed in the act. Deposits in the Postal Savings Banks of the United States belonging to such persons are not liable to seizure by the Government and will not therefore be taken into the possession of the Alien Property Custodian or be interfered with in any way whatever."

The first check which came to the Custodian was for $100,000. It was received late Saturday from a New York firm and was used by Mr. Palmer to purchase that amount of Liberty bonds. He said today that he would buy Liberty bonds from time to time as the money came into his possession and that all of the money owed to residents of Germany would be employed to finance the war against Germany.

MORE SPEED ON SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Plans to end delay in the wooden ship building program were discussed today at a conference of builders from Atlantic and Pacific yards with Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board. It has been found that upon delivery some of the work has not been up to the required specifications. In every instance, it was explained today, the fault was traceable to a lack on the part of the contractor of intimate knowledge of technical requirements.

The situation was gone over today and Mr. Hurley expressed himself as immensely satisfied with the spirit shown by the conferees. The work of constructing the wooden ships, Mr. Hurley said, was now progressing rapidly and would go even faster. He would not give an estimate of tonnage that would be available in the near future, but said it would be "huge." In every yard, he said, work was going on apace, either with wooden or steel ships.

Southern pine lumber producers at a conference here today with Shipping Board officials gave assurance that they will furnish ship timbers for the wooden shipbuilding program as fast as needed by building concerns. The Shipping Board had threatened to take over and operate lumber mills unless timber was forthcoming in more liberal quantities.

SOLDIER MAIL WEIGHT CUT.

Parcels for Troops Abroad Now Limited to Seven Pounds.

An order issued by the Postmaster General, to become effective Nov. 1, limits fourth class or domestic parcel post matter intended for the American Expeditionary forces in France, to seven pounds. The order is a modification of that of July 24 last which fixed the weight limit at twenty pounds. The change is made necessary because the French railway companies will not carry mail packages of more than seven pounds. In order to prevent confusion, delay, and perhaps the loss of packages anxiously awaited by American soldiers at the front, the postal authorities have expressed the hope that the change in weight will not be forgotten.

GUARANTY BANKING

5. Self-Liquidation.

The Collateral Trust Securities issued by the Guaranty Securities Corporation are secured by underlying notes and trade acceptances which mature at definite times considerably in advance of the Securities. Each note and trade acceptance bears at least two names of approved credit standing.

These underlying notes and trade acceptances are not subject to renewal. The quick-sale value of the physical collateral back of each note or trade acceptance is at all times greater than the amount due on the note or trade acceptance so that it is always to the advantage of both maker and endorser to meet the payments when due, and of course ultimate recourse to the physical collateral would protect the entire debt.

Yet, as the Collateral Trust Securities are issued up to only 80% of the amount of the notes (90% in the case of Commercial Vehicles), only that percentage of the notes need be paid out in order to liquidate the Securities upon their maturity.

Out of 46,650 underlying notes and acceptances bought to August 31, 1917 ($39,873,783,63) there have been only 26 repossessions necessary to recover the debt.

On August 31, 1917, of the $39,873,783,63 paper bought $32,498,236.09 had matured. On same date there had been collected $32,451,142.40. Total losses and paper of doubtful collectability amounted on that date to $29,516.05, showing collections to be only $17,577,64 less than maturities.

The underlying collateral notes and acceptances as well as all payments of both principal and interest, are held by the Metropolitan Trust Company of the City of New York under a trust agreement for the protection of holders of Collateral Trust Securities.

On May 14, 1917, the Metropolitan Trust Company held in trust cash to the amount of $1,032,203.47 awaiting the retirement of Collateral Trust Securities to the amount of $765,000.

On June 14, 1917, $2,022,501.96 cash to meet $1,366,000 of securities maturing June 15.

On August 14, 1917, the Metropolitan Trust Company held in trust cash to the amount of $1,573,972.74 awaiting the retirement of Collateral Trust Notes and Debentures to the amount of $1,222,500. to mature on that date.

The excess of cash in trust at maturity of securities averages 35.8% for above months—which are typical of the history of the Corporation from its inception. Self-liquidating? Absolutely!

Further facts on this feature of our Collateral Trust Securities are given in our new booklet, "Collateral Trust Securities," a copy of which we shall be glad to send you. It discusses also such other features as the following: Margin of Security; Maturities; Insurance Protection; Volume of Paper; Collection Record of Underlying Collateral; Vocational Diversification of Underlying Names; Geographical Distribution of Underlying Names; Credit Check on Underlying Collateral; Should Automobiles Be sold On Credit; Ten Thousand Name Paper.

DIVIDENDS.

Preferred Stock Dividend.

To the Holders of Stock Trust Certificates for Preferred Stock of SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY:

As the transfer books for said Stock Trust Certificates have been closed since July, 1914, when the Voting Trustees announced their intention to surrender the trust and notified the holders of their certificates to exchange them for stock certificates, the Voting Trustees realize that in many cases the registered ownership of July, 1914, may no longer correspond with the actual ownership of the Stock Trust Certificates, and in order that the actual owners promptly may obtain the dividend of 2½% on the Preferred Stock of Southern Railway Company to be paid on November 20, 1917, on the stock registered in the names of the Voting Trustees on October 31, 1917, the Voting Trustees again urge you to present your Stock Trust Certificates at the office of the undersigned for exchange for definitive stock before October 31, 1917.
J. P. MORGAN & CO.,
23 Wall Street, New York.

Some of Those Here Have Corn Reconditioned for Later Shipment.

The sixty Dutch steamships which have been lying idle in New York harbor for the last five months, waiting for a permit from the United States and British Governments to sail, have been gradually discharging their cargoes of grain and other foodstuffs which were deteroriating in the holds. After the corn had been reconditioned it had been reloaded into some of the steamships and would keep for another four months, the agents said yesterday.

Others of the Dutch steamships, after discharing their grain at the elevators, have gone back in ballast to their anchorage in the North River ready to load cargoes for South or Central American ports on receipt of orders from the owners in Holland, who on their part have to await the instructions from their Government at The Hague. The freighters move about the harbor under their own steam, which saves the cost of hiring tugboats.

Some of the largest of the Dutch steamships in the harbor have been loaded with corn and food products for the Belgian Relief Commission. One vessel came up from Brazil two weeks ago with 10,000 tons of coffee for Holland and plenty of bunker coal to carry her across the Atlantic.

The crews of the Dutch steamships have become tired of inaction, and are asking for an increase in pay in order to send money to their families in Holland, but until the six months' service for which they signed before sailing for America has expired they cannot do anything to enforce their demands.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Highly irregular fluctuations marked the course of prices on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Very little in the way of news bearing on specific issues developed during the session, and the market paid most attention to the situation on the Italian front. At the opening prices were below Saturday's close, and sold off very easily. Within a half hour the market turned abruptly and moved upward. The vigorous buying that appeared did not last long after the early losses were recovered. In the late afternoon another advance set in, but a reaction even more rapid than the advance closed the market generally at net losses.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

On the site of a portion of the old Fiss, Doerr & Carroll stables in Twenty-fourth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues, a large garage will be erected as the result of a long term lease concluded yesterday for the property by the Reich Garage, Inc., of which Adolph Reich is President. The property includes the five two-story stables at 156 to 164 East Twenty-fourth Street, 130-foot front. It has been leased from the Leiscestershire Realty Company for a period of twenty-one years. The aggregate rental will represent $300,000.

Joseph P. Day was the broker in the transaction.

Estate Sells West Broadway Loft.

The Joseph C. Hecker estate sold to the Adriatic Realty Corporation 501 West Broadway, a five-story loft building occupying a lot 25 by 100, between West Houston and Bleecker Street. This is the first transfer of the property in about thirty years, the sale being negotiated by George N. Bruno & Co.

Wanamaker Gets $350,000 Broadway Mortgage.

John Wanamaker has obtained from the Mutual Life Insurance Company an additional mortgage of $350,000 on his property at 726 to 730 Broadway, 191.3 feet south of Astor Place and running through to Lafayette Street. Mr. Wanamaker will erect a garage and service station on the property. It carries a prior mortgage of $400,000.

Bronx Sales.

Frederick Brown, operator, has purchased the two five-story apartment houses 1,084 to 1,088 Hoe Avenue. The structures occupy a plot 100 by 110 feet on the southeast corner of 165th Street and were held at about $165,000.

The Matthew Farrell Realty Company purchased from the Benenson Realty Company 423 East 158th Street, a six-story new law tenement on a plot 50 by 100, located near Elton Avenue. The sellers acquired the property several weeks ago.

Old Union Bank Property Purchased by Investor.

The old Union Bank property at the corner of Washington and Flushing Avenues, in the Wallabout section of Brooklyn, was sold yesterday to Leonard Briggs for investment.

Ever since the bank failed about six years ago this property has been in the hands of the State Banking Department. It consists of a plot 100 by 100, with a two-story building. S. B. O'Sullivan negotiated the sale.

$500,000 Shore Road Deal in Brooklyn.

A deal involving properties valued at about $500,000 was closed in the Fort Hamilton section of Brooklyn between William Kenny and Walter E. Shuttleworth. The former purchased from Mr. Shuttleworth three large parcels, being the former Henry George residence, the adjoining Shuttleworth residence on the corner of the Shore Road and Ninety-ninth Street, and a plot fronting 300 feet on the east side of Tenth Avenue, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets, 160 feet on the former by 240 feet on the latter. In part payment Mr. Kenny gave his large residence property, 220 feet on the Shore Road and 650 feet on Oliver Street, extending to Marine Avenue.

A. Moskowitz was the broker in the transaction.

Brooklyn.

The Artee Realty Company, associated with the Realty Trust, sold the one-family brick dwelling, attached, 1,763 Sixty-fifth Street, in the Mapleton district, Brooklyn, to Frank Squill.

I. Salzberg sold for J. Glickman to J. Neinken a plot 60 by 100 feet on the northeast corner of Fifty-fifth Street and Fifteenth Avenue.

J. H. Holler sold to L. Kirchner a plot 100 by 120 feet on the west side of Oxford Avenue, 71 feet south of Washington Avenue, Belle Harbor.

J. E. Johntra sold to E. M. Marchais a dwelling and plot 70 by 103 feet, on the southwest corner of Chestnut Street and Cleaverly Place, Flushing.

Builder Buys on Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for W. H. J. Bodine eleven lots on the west side of Bodine Street, south of Richmond Terrace, West New Brighton, to Hans Hermansen, who will improve the property with one and two family houses.

Chicagoan Buys at Montclair.

W. L. Steele, Vice President of the Niagara Insurance Company of Chicago, has purchased the residence of Thomas G. Smith, on South Mountain Avenue, Montclair, N. J., with a garage. He gave in part payment his residence at Evanston, Chicago, Ill. Joseph P. Day, in conjunction with I. J. Auerbach and the Frank Hughes Company, were the brokers.

Publishers in Big Lease.

The George H. Doran Company, publishers, have leased for their new offices the sixth floor in the building at 244 Madison Avenue, southwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street, recently completed by August Heckscher. The lease has been taken for ten years at an aggregate rental of about $85,000. The lease almost completes the renting of this sixteen-story building, there being only one floor available for rent.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The cyclonic depression central Sunday evening in Missouri has advanced to Western Ontario with a very considerable increase in intensity. It has been attended by numerous thundershowers in the lower lake region and the Ohio Valley and snow in the upper lake region. Rains have also fallen in Tennessee and the East Gulf States and at points in the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

A strong anti-cyclone continues to dominate the weather over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region, where the lowest October temperatures during the period of observations were recorded Monday morning in Colorado, Wyoming, Southern Idaho, and extreme Northern Texas.

It will be decidedly colder Tuesday in the Upper Ohio Valley, eastern portions of Tennessee and Kentucky, and also in the East Gulf States, and the cold weather will reach Atlantic Coast districts by Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. The weather Wednesday in the Washington forecast district will be fair and cold. Temperature will begin to rise on Thursday, and higher temperature is probable at the end of the week.

Storm warnings are displayed on the East Gulf Coast from Bay St. Louis to Carrabelle and on the Texas Coast.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Rain Tuesday, followed by fair in the afternoon; Wednesday fair and colder.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain Tuesday, clearing in the afternoon; Wednesday fair, and much colder.

Northern New England — Rain Tuesday; Wednesday partly cloudy and colder.

3 A. M.	52	48	4 P. M.	57	55
6 A. M.	52	49	6 P. M.	56	56
9 A. M.	51	53	9 P. M.	56	59
12 M.	56	56	11 P. M.	58	59

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 53; for the corresponding date last year it was 54; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 50. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 50; at 8 P. M. it was 57. Maximum temperature, 59 degrees at 10 P. M.; minimum, 47 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 66 per cent. at 8 A. M., 92 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.20 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.90 inches.

MINOTTO SOUGHT NAVY SECRET WORK

LED TO AN INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Daniels today revealed that the man who was foiled in an attempt to obtain a position in the Naval Intelligence Service, and the investigation of whose antecedents led to the arrest and internment of two German bankers in New York, was Count James Minotto, son-in-law of Louis F. Swift, the Chicago packer. Minotto was arrested recently in Chicago on the technical charge of liability to become a public charge when he entered the country in 1914.

Count Minotto made application last July for a position in the Naval Intelligence Service. That was after this country had entered the war against Germany. If Minotto had been employed he would have been placed in a position of responsibility where he could have gained secret military information concerning the United States.

Secret operatives of the navy instituted an investigation into the antecedents of Minotto immediately after he had filed his application, and it was largely as a result of this investigation that the action was instituted for the deportation of the count. The inquiry also resulted in the arrest and internment of George von Seebeck and Fritz Kuhn on suspicion of being dangerous alien enemies.

Although Minotto was born in Berlin the investigation of his antecedents indicated that his father claimed Italian parentage, while his mother was German. It was found also that he formerly held a position in South America for an American banking company, but had lost that position on account of his close association with pro-German elements in South America.

In a statement issued tonight by the Department of Labor, which has charge of the proceedings for the deportation of Minotto, it is asserted that while in South America the Count is reported to have been on intimate terms with Count Luxburg, the German diplomat, at Buenos Aires, who sent the famous sink-without-a-trace message, under the cloak of Swedish diplomatic immunity, from the Argentine capital to Berlin, via Stockholm, and is represented as having expressed a desire to be of some service to Count Luxburg.

Count Minotto based his application for employment in the Naval Intelligence Service upon his knowledge of languages, professing to be proficient in six. He is represented as having declared that he did not intend to indulge in any acts of disloyalty if employed in the Naval Intelligence Service. After investigation the Government not only refused his application for appointment, but also took steps which resulted first in the arrest of Kuhn and von Seebeck and ultimately in his own arrest on a technical charge under the immigration laws.

Minotto, who has been released on $50,000 bonds, furnished by his father-in-law, is understood to assert that he is registered at Venice as an Italian subject, although born in Berlin. He does not want to be returned to Italy. It is represented that he is afraid that if deported he would be liable for military service.

The statement issued by the Department of Labor read:

"Count James Minotto came to this country in 1914, arriving on the Campania on Aug. 22 in company with Count von Zebeck [Seebeck] and Fritz Kuhn. Prior to his arrival in this country he was a representative of one of the large German banks in London. He was born in Berlin, his father claiming Italian parentage and his mother being a German. He has lived most of his time in Germany. He secured employment with the Guaranty Trust Company shortly after his arrival in this country and was sent by that company on two different occasions to South America on business. He was recalled from his second trip, as he was reported to be so pro-German that it was considered that he was prejudicing the interests of the Guaranty Trust Company in South America.

"He is reported as associating almost entirely with Germans while in South America, and as being intimate with Count Luxburg, the German Minister to Argentina. He is represented as expressing himself openly as being pro-German, and to have stated that he hoped to be of some use to Count Luxburg in getting information. After his return to New York from South America he was taken out of the foreign department of the Guaranty Trust Company and given a position in the bond department as a small salary. After staying in this position for two days he left. After he left the Guaranty Trust Company he was given letters of recommendation from the proper officials of that company. He was afterward employed by the Equitable Trust Company."

Often Visited von Bernstorff.

It was said yesterday that Minotto, von Seebeck, and Kuhn were all friends of Count von Bernstorff and visited the Summer embassy on Long Island in 1916 many times. Kuhn and von Seebeck are said to have accompanied Minotto on his honeymoon trip, a trip which is said to have taken the three men and the Countess over a large part of South America.

United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne of Chicago and Hinton G. Clabaugh, Chief of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation in Chicago, arrived in New York yesterday and later were in conference with the local authorities. Mr. Clyne said his visit had nothing to do with the Minotto case, that he was here to cross-examine Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Tresca, Arturo Giovanitti, and John Baldazzi, who are under indictment in Chicago charged with being concerned in the I. W. W. conspiracy to obstruct the war operations of the United States. Mr. Clyne questioned Baldazzi and will question the others today. Mr. Clabaugh when asked about the Minotto case said that he could not discuss it.

It is understood that a fourth man, who was a friend of von Seebeck, Kuhn and Minotto, and who was a German, has managed to get back to Germany. The name of this man was not disclosed.

LEA & PERRINS

The Original Worcestershire Sauce

THE report is being spread broadcast that Lea & Perrins Sauce is no longer obtainable. That report is a deliberate mis-statement. It is not true. It is not even partially true.

There is an ample supply of Lea & Perrins Sauce for every family in the United States—for every hotel—for every club—for every restaurant—for every cafe. There is no reason why any dealer should be without it.

Particularly is Lea & Perrins to be desired in these days of war-time economy. Lea & Perrins Sauce is not expensive. Only a few drops are needed at a time. One bottle will last for weeks and months. It is within reach of all the people.

For steaks, chops, fish, cold cuts and gravies. For curries, cheese dishes, eggs. For cutlets, home-cooked stews, croquettes and game. For oysters, clams and lobster, etc. Better than oils, peppers and spices. Ever-so-much-cheaper in the long run. Try it—soon.

The milk is already in it

So rich you need no eggs

THE formula which makes Aunt Jemima pancakes taste so good was worked out with one idea in mind—to prepare a flour which would make perfect pancakes every time.

Years ago the Aunt Jemima people realized that a woman could never know how her pancakes would turn out—she might painstakingly mix all the materials and yet her cakes would often be flavorless, tough, or soggy.

To give every woman a way to make light, tender pancakes that could never fail to be delicious, Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour was created. The treasured recipe of a famous Southern cook was adopted as the basis of the formula. Long study was put into perfecting it. At last the flour was created that made women serve 60 million Aunt Jemina breakfasts last year alone.

So delicious, so nourishing

The wonderful Aunt Jemima flavor is due to the special formula. You could not buy the ingredients separately. Each is especially selected, especially prepared. Even the grain is especially ground, even the moisture is evaporated from sweet milk so that it too can be ready mixed right in the flour for you. This is why you can get the characteristic Aunt Jemima flavor only in Aunt Jemima pancakes.

Aunt Jemima pancakes have just the nutritious, wholesome elements that your family needs. Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour contains an unusually high percentage of gluten. It has the food value that gives youngsters strong bodies and plump, rosy cheeks. Each of the ingredients is especially selected for its purity, for its healthful, nourishing quality. What a comfort it is to find a food that is so wholesome yet so delicious that your family always asks for more.

Never again need you be disappointed in your pancakes. They can be perfect every time. With Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour failure is impossible. Every ingredient is already mixed in the flour, even the sweet milk! All you have to do is add water, and the batter is ready. Nothing could be easier! Nothing could be so certain of success. With Aunt Jemima you can have pancakes that are delicious each morning you serve them.

And so quick! By the time your coffee is made the golden brown cakes are steaming on the table.

Serve Aunt Jemima pancakes or Aunt Jemima buckwheat cakes tomorrow. See how your family will ask for this breakfast again and again. Aunt Jemima Mills Company, St. Joseph, Mo.

Facts About the Sugar Situation

Our Government has asked you to use sugar sparingly. We believe that the people of this country will be glad to do their part to conserve the sugar supply when they know the facts.

These facts are as follows:

More than two-thirds of the source of Europe's sugar supply is within the present battle lines. This has resulted in greatly reducing the production of sugar in Europe.

England and France and other countries have been forced to go for sugar to Cuba.

Ordinarily, nearly all of the Cuban raw sugar comes to the United States and is refined here, chiefly for home use. This is not the case now.

In view of the exceptional world demand for sugar there is no surplus, and barely enough to tide us over until the new crop comes in. The people of the New England and Atlantic Coast States should use sugar sparingly. No one should hoard or waste it.

This Company has no surplus sugar to sell. It is working with the Government to conserve the supply, and to take care of the Allies so far as possible.
